NIXON, STUDENTS CONFER

Guard Begins Kent Pullout

KENT, Ohio (AP) — National Guard troops today began leaving the Kent State University campus where four students were shot to death by guardsmen during an antiwar demonstration Monday.

Col. Harold Finley of the Guard said half of the 800 troops would be gone from the closed school by afternoon. The rest, he said, would be convoyed out by late Thursday.

He said the various units under the command of Brig. Gen. Robert H. Canterbury would be returned to inactive status.

(In the fast-breaking story out of Kent on Monday, both news services reported that three to four persons had been killed, including two guardsmen. In later wire service dispatches, too late for the Independent-Journal edition, those slain were identified as students.)

A contingent of Ohio Highway patrolmen is to remain on the campus to maintain order, Finley said.

There was no indication when the campus would reopen.

Meanwhile in Washington, President Nixon met for nearly an hour Wednesday with six Kent State University students to discuss what might be done to prevent a recurrence of the fatal confrontation on their Ohio campus Monday.

Press secretary Ronald L. Ziegler said the students, all young men, drove to Washington to see their congressman, Rep. William Stanton, R-Ohio, and others about the killing of four Kent State students by Ohio National Guardsmen during an antiwar demonstration.

They ended up conferring with Nixon about the causes of student unrest and the administration's efforts to investigate the shootings with the aim of averting similar tragedies.

Ziegler said the students did not take position either for or against the Indochina war in their meeting with Nixon. He emphasized that was not the purpose of the meeting.

However, the press secretary's remarks to newsmen—and he participated in the meeting —indicated that they felt a minority of militants may have stirred up trouble.

He said they belonged to no organized group and that none was personally acquainted with any of the four student victims.

A court injunction now in effect will keep the school's 19,000 students away until May 10.

Kent State President Robert I. White said Tuesday that "at this time it is not possible to say when a reopening can occur."

The Kent State Faculty Senate, representing 1,170 full-time instructors, adopted a resolution vowing to refuse to resume teaching until the troops left.

In another development the executive director of the Ohio American Civil Liberties Union called on Gov. James A. Rhodes to remove Adj. Gen. S. T. Del Corso as Ohio National Guard commander.

The official, Benson Wolman, declared the guardsmen who cut down the students with a burst of rifle fire were "ill-trained, overeager and poorly controlled."

FBI and Guard investigators continued to probe how and why four students—including two coeds and all described by friends and relatives as disavowing violent protest—were gunned down by guardsmen trying to disperse the demonstration Monday.

Del Corso said Tuesday he had no evidence to back up his earlier assertion that a sniper had fired at the guardsmen just before they started shooting.

Bruce Would Ax 31 County Jobs

Asks End Of Three Agencies

County administrator Alan Bruce recommended yesterday that the Marin County Board of Supervisors consider abolishing three county departments and 31 jobs to keep next year's property tax rate from soaring to about $3.

(Other supervisors stories, page 8.)

Bruce recommended giving the axe to the county's human rights department, the New Careers program and the county farm advisor.

The administrator told the board that department heads have recommended a 1970-71 budget of $41,266,708 which is about $8 million above this year's. The proposed budget would require a tax hike of 61 cents per $100 assessed valuation over the current rate of $2.39, Bruce added.

SOME SERVICES

In recommending the cuts, which also include reduction of some county services, Bruce proposed a revised budget which would reduce the $41 million figure by about $5 million, still about $3 million above this year. His revised budget plan would necessitate a tax rate of about $2.57 per $100 assessed valuation, he added.

The supervisors, however, acknowledging the need for paring department budgets, not only delayed action which would have given the boot to 22 of the 31 employees, but withdrew earlier action which terminated six other jobs as of June 30.

The human rights department, which employees four people, last year had a budget of $52,751.

NEW CAREERS

The New Careers program, which helps disadvantaged persons to enter county employment and through work experience obtain positions previously restricted to college graduates, last year had a budget of $17,543. It has a staff of two persons.

The county farm adviser, with a staff of two is financed largely by the University of California with the county paying for the supplies and one and a half clerical positions. Last year's county share for this program was $17,726.

DRASTIC CUTS

Bruce blamed the need for drastic cuts on "unemployment, recession combined with continued inflation, and changing social standards which have increased the costs of county law enforcement, court operation, medical programs, welfare and insurance."

"We have used up all funds available in past years to limit or defer tax increases," Bruce said referring to the county's budget reserve.

That leaves the supervisors with three courses of action, Bruce said:

Try for additional reduction beyond those recommended by the administrator.

Accept the administrator's budget in spite of the cost to taxpayers on marginal incomes and the loss of services to recipients of county programs.

Restore the reductions, and move to a higher property tax rate.

Walton Proposes A Freedom School

By PAT ANGLE

Sidney F. Walton Jr., Martin Luther King School principal fired Monday by Sausalito School District trustees, last night called on those trustees to establish two schools in the district next year "to give students and parents a choice."

Walton, who received a standing ovation from most of the 350 persons who jammed a meeting room at St. Andrew Presbyterian Church in Marin City, asked for a special board meeting next Monday night to discuss the plan, one endorsed by Sausalito Supt. Philip W. Schneider at the last board meeting.

If trustees refuse to hold the meeting or refuse to consider establishment of the two schools, each containing Kindergarten through eighth grades, one to be administered by a black man and the other by a white, man, Walton urged parents to boycott the district's schools and keep their children home.

If a boycott occurs, the principal asked parents to assist him in the formation of a freedom school to provide education for youngsters participating in the boycott. Those present endorsed the plan by acclamation in a voice vote which ended the meeting and circulated petitions calling for the special board meeting.

Walton gave only perfunctory attention to his firing by saying his attorney had assured him "it will cost the taxpayers of this county $5 million to get rid of me. The board did not notify me by March 15 that my contract would not be renewed," he explained, "so they can't actually fire me — we're going to fight — without going through legal court procedures."

The black principal, who sounded like anything but a lame-duck district employee, called his two-school plan "a logical, reasonable, humanistic and practical solution to our problems" adding "it could set a pattern and model for other schools in districts with conflicts."

Walton said he could head one school, with the other to be administered by Central School principal Robert E. Lea. Both principals, although ultimately responsible to the district board, would be di-

Recall Target Quits: 'Unreason And Rage'

Martha Freebairn-Smith, a trustee of the Sausalito School District, yesterday submitted her resignation to the school board, effective immediately.

In a letter to her colleagues, Mrs. Freebairn-Smith, who is facing recall in a June 2 election, said she could not "function in the atmosphere of unreason and rage which fills the district at this time and makes every decision a choice between unacceptable alternatives."

"Too many adults have a vested interest in the situation (in the district) and all seem willing to sacrifice the interest of the children," she continued. "Issues have become a matter of pride, personality and politics."

Mrs. Freebairn-Smith, a graduate student at the University of California at Berkeley who is currently doing student teaching in Mill Valley, was appointed to the board in July of 1966 to fill a vacancy created by the resignation of Trustee Jessie Zimmer.

In April of 1967 she was elected to the board post. Her term is to expire in April of 1971.

A Sausalito resident, she is married to Roderick Freebairn-Smith and has three children, two of whom attend schools in the Sausalito district.

In her resignation letter, she asked that the voters defeat the present recall election "for my seat so that a fair and open election can be held and a truly representative trustee be seated in my place."

MARTHA FREEBAIRN-SMITH
Blames "unreason and rage"

Supt. Philip W. Schneider, who himself resigned from his job April 12, said he would be sorry to see Mrs. Freebairn-Smith leave the board. "She has been a very supportive, positive board member," he said, "but I know she is tired and has given a lot to the district; I can understand her position."

Last night Sidney F. Walton Jr., principal of Martin Luther King School who was fired by the school board Monday night (Mrs. Freebairn-Smith was not at the meeting) spoke at a community meeting in Marin City and urged residents to support Mrs. Freebairn-Smith in the upcoming recall election.

Marin Collegians Set A Two-Day Shutdown

The student executive council of the College of Marin voted to shut down the school tomorrow and Friday after almost an hour of stormy exchanges yesterday with members of the audience.

Council president James Detro said the resolution to close down the school in opposition to the Cambodian invasion and the bloodshed at Kent State University in Ohio was passed by a 6-4 roll call vote after it was defeated once at the noon meeting.

The faculty Academic Senate then met at 3 p.m. and unanimously pased a resolution favoring campus-wide discussion of Cambodia and Vietnam instead of classes.

The senate also went on record in opposition to widening the Asian War and called for a faculty referendum on the subject. Plans were made to send the results to President M. Nixon, members of the cabinet and state representatives and senators.

In response to the student vote, Supt.-President John A. Grasham announced yesterday that classes must be held as scheduled because of provisions in the state education code. However, he said attending classes tomorrow and Friday would be a matter of conscience for each student.

The idea for the two-day shutdown first popped up while the student executive council was discussing a motion to fly the flag at half-staff to honor the dead at Kent State. An unidentified student in the audience then suggested closing down the school instead.

After approving the strike, the

COMBINED AP & UPI

All occupants of the Texas state capitol at Austin were ordered to leave the building today because of a bomb threat and plans by college students to renew disruptive demonstrations.

The evacuation order highlighted fresh campus outbreaks in protest of American military action in Cambodia and the killing of four students at Kent State University in Ohio.

Most of the nation's colleges and universities were peaceful during the early morning hours, but there was violence and disorder on some campuses Tuesday night.

Gov. Preston Smith of Texas ordered the evacuation of the capitol after he learned that the Student Mobilization Committee at neighboring University of Texas planned an afternoon march on the building and the Federal Building downtown. The capitol was damaged and 16 persons were injured in demonstrations Tuesday.

Striking students barricaded the entrance to a University of California at Santa Barbara lecture hall this morning but university officials said no classes had been scheduled in the building.

Campus police moved in and removed tables, chairs and trash cans blocking the entrance without incident.

At Whittier College, President Nixon's alma mater, approximately 200 students began what they called a "peaceful protest to dispute Nixon's stand in Vietnam and Cambodia." The college as an enrollment of 2,200 students.

Disruptions, Antiwar Convocation At State

Attempts to hold classes were abandoned today at Sonoma State College as hundreds of students met to discuss campus violence and the war.

As students gathered peacefully, plainclothed officers from the Sonoma County sheriff's department investigated incidents that occurred yesterday both on and off campus.

Fire investigators were sifting through the rubble of the Cannon Manor Real Estate office across from campus that erupted into flames at 3 a.m. today. The Penngrove Fire Department said the flames were first noticed by Rohnert Park police and that the building was fully engulfed when trucks arrived at 3:25 a.m.

Owner William Appleton said it appeared an incendiary device was tossed into the building by an arsonist and said it might be tied to campus unrest.

"Maybe they're just practicing for over there," he said, pointing to the Sonoma State campus.

Classes were called off yesterday after false fire alarms continually emptied the buildings. The academic senate in a noon meeting voted to disband classes for the afternoon and today.

A dozen students sounded a fire alarm in the gymnasium yesterday and stormed in, disrupting registration by overturning tables and causing students and employees to flee.

The students later tore down both the United States and California flags from the center flagpole and burned them in front of the Common, the student cafeteria.

Striking students said the flag symbolized mourning for the four dead students at Kent State University in Ohio.

Yesterday one of the pickets, Dennis Rogan, 28, of 440 King Road, Petluma, was struck by a car as he attempted to distribute strike literature. Rogan was treated for cuts and bruises at Community Hospital of Sonoma County.

Students opened the day-long convocation at 8 a.m. today with silent meditation. Procedure forms with room numbers for small discussion groups were distributed at random so that all ranges of student opinion could be heard in the groups.

The 20 discussion groups considered many phases of the war,

REAGAN ORDERS A SHUTDOWN

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Gov. Reagan said today he has asked all University of California and state college campuses to shut down effective tomorrow through the weekend.

Reagan said U.C. President Charles Hitch and State College Chancellor Glenn Dumke "strongly concurred" in his request.

"It is essential for our college and university faculty, students and administrations to reflect on the grave sequence of current events and to consider their responsibilities to themselves and our society," he said.

WIRE NEWS BRIEFS From Everywhere

Grant Accused

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (AP) — A Superior Court paternity suit asks "reasonable support" for an infant which actor Cary Grant is alleged to have fathered by former writer Cynthia Bouron, 33. Grant is 66.

Attorney Donald Bringgold filed the action Tuesday on behalf of Stephanie Andrea Grant, born last March 12 in Good Samaritan Hospital in Los Angeles.

It asks that Miss Bouron, described as an attractive dark haired woman, be named the child's guardian.

Grant's attorney, Stanley E. Fox, who said the actor was out of the city, told a newsman: "There is no validity to the charge."

Czech-Russ Pact

PRAGUE (AP) — Czechoslovakia's Communist government sealed its close relationship with the Soviet Union today in a new 20-year treaty of friendship and mutual cooperation.

The pact was signed at Prague Castle by Czechoslovak leaders and the visiting Soviet delegation headed by Communist party leader Leonid I. Brezhnev and Premier Alexei N. Kosygin.

Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko, who also was present, negotiated the treaty last March in Prague. It provides for increased political and economic cooperation.

Details were not made public.

More Strikes

By U. P. International

Wildcat strikes by truck drivers continued virtually unabated today with freight filling warehouses and an estimated half-million persons out of work.

A trucking industry official in St. Louis, Mo., said he will ask the governors of Missouri and Illinois to call out National Guard troops to protect drivers. Three drivers were shot from ambush Tuesday in the St. Louis area. All were hospitalized.

There also were reports of two firebombings at truck terminals and a bullet was fired through the window of a third firm.

Ohio State Adjutant Gen. S. T. Del Corso said most of the National Guard troops mobilized to guard highways in that state were being withdrawn from duty. He said only two minor incidents were reported during the past two days.

To Mediator

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The striking United Teachers of Los Angeles and the school board today readied proposed contracts they feel would be acceptable to each other and to federal mediator Benjamin Aaron.

Aaron said he would use the two contracts to formulate one of his own and submit it Thursday to the two parties in the teachers' walkout, now 3½ weeks old.

The mediator said although neither side is obligated to accept his recommendations, he will drop out of the negotiations if they are rejected because he would no longer be useful.

Maddox Blames

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — President Nixon has canceled an appearance at the dedication of a Confederate memorial carving on Stone Mountain Saturday, and Gov. Lester Maddox blames it on "the far left."

"I know he's got a lot to do and I accept his excuse," the governor said Tuesday when he learned of Nixon's cancellation.

But the governor added he thought the decision could be attributed to pressure from "the same people who brought about the defeat of Carswell and Haynsworth."

PR Paring

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Nixon administration apparently is considering reducing the number of public relations men in the executive branch of government.

The administration has asked each agency for a nose count on the number of public relations men in each branch by May 1.

No official tally of public relations men and women in the executive branch of government has been made for at least a decade. But an Associated Press survey in 1967 revealed that at least 6,858 were on the federal payroll.

Proxmire Proposal

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. William Proxmire said today he'll propose a penny-a-pound disposal fee on all products—including cars—likely to end in the junk pile within 10 years of manufacture.

"Such a nationwide fee would provide a steady source of funds and an incentive for polluters to control the waste they generate," Proxmire said in a speech prepared for delivery in the Senate Thursday.

"A national disposal fee would generate the funds desperately needed by the cities to cope with rising mountains of solid waste," Proxmire said.

Trial Set

ROME (UPI) — Court officials have set May 26 for the trial of Raffaele Minichiello, the young U. S. Marine who hijacked a jetliner from California to Rome in October.

Minichiello, 20, of Seattle, Wash., is charged with kidnapping, armed violence and illegal possession of firearms.

The United States had requested extradition on air piracy charges but Italy insisted on trying him first on a variety of charges. Aerial hijacking is not a crime in Italy.

GUESS WHO'S COMING TO MARIN?

Runoff In Alabama; New Face In Ohio

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

George C. Wallace and Gov. Albert Brewer fought to a standoff in Alabama's Democratic gubernatorial primary while in Ohio Rep. Robert A. Taft rallied to defeat Gov. James A. Rhodes for the GOP Senate nomination. Taft will oppose Democrat Howard Metzenbaum who downed former astronaut, John H. Glenn.

Neither Wallace, a former governor of his state, nor Brewer, the incumbent, managed a majority vote. They will engage in a runoff primary June 3.

GOV. ALBERT BREWER
In runoff with Wallace

These were the Tuesday returns:

Alabama, with 2,950 of 4,353 ballot boxes counted gave Wallace 295,909, and Brewer 294,713.

Ohio, with all 13,247 voting units reporting, gave Taft 467,866 votes to 464,701 for Rhodes. Metzenbaum received 427,294 votes to 414,848 for Glenn.

The Democratic nomination for governor of Ohio was won by John J. Gilligan, a former congressman. He will oppose Republican Roger Cloud, the state auditor.

Taft closed steadily on Rhodes who had enjoyed an early lead on the basis of rural votes. Taft took the lead when he carried Cuyahoga County (Cleveland), considered a Rhodes stronghold, by a majority of 27,500 votes.

Glenn, on the basis of an early lead, made premature claims of victory over Metzenbaum, a wealthy Cleveland attorney. Taft, also a man of wealth, released figures during the campaign that showed a personal fortune of about $2.2 million.

In addition to his law practice, Metzenbaum owns a string of parking lots and a group of neighborhood newspapers around Cleveland.

The Senate seat sought by Taft and Metzenbaum is now held by Democrat Stephen M. Young, an octogenarian, who is retiring. Young's seat is vital to Republicans hoping to capture the seven more seats needed to take control of the Senate after the Nov. 3 elections.

Ohio Republicans hoped at first to field a harmony ticket with Rhodes, who has served two terms as governor, going for the Senate, and Taft, who carries a revered Republican name, running to succeed him. But Taft insisted on making a second bid for the Senate seat he sought six years ago.

It was impossible to gauge the impact of the election eve National Guard gunfire which killed four students during anti-war disturbances at Kent State University.

Rhodes, who assigned guard troops to the troubled campus last Friday, called it "the saddest day in my life as governor of Ohio."

REP. ROBERT A. TAFT
Stages rally for victory

When the issue of guardsmen on college campuses came up earlier in campaign debate, Taft was critical of the governor. But Rhodes retorted he would have no Berkeleys in Ohio.

Alerting the guard Monday in connection with turmoil on a Cleveland campus, Rhodes said:

"The people of Ohio are not going to tolerate anarchy on the streets or on the campus and we will move with all appropriate force to bring campus oriented hoodlumism to an end in Ohio."

That was before the deaths at Kent State.

Taft campaigned on the basis of "a need for integrity" in Washington—clearly referring to accusations Life magazine leveled against Rhodes a year ago. The magazine said Rhodes had converted campaign funds to his own use, and had paid $100,000 in back income tax penalties. Rhodes sued for libel.

Victory in the Alabama runoff will equal election as governor, because Republicans already have indicated they will not field a candidate this year.

Tuesday's inconclusive margin made it hard to forecast the eventual outcome—but the leader in the opening primary has invariably won Alabama runoffs.

That route took Wallace to his election as governor eight years ago. After serving the one term limit, Wallace passed the governorship on to his late wife, Lurleen, who won overwhelming election.

Brewer was then lieutenant governor—and a Wallace protege. He assumed the governorcancer, just two years ago.

In 1968, Wallace polled nearly 700,000 votes in sweeping the presidential balloting in Alabama. It was one of five Deep South states he carried.

"We had assumed this would happen," Brewer said as he contemplated the runoff campaign. Wallace said nothing.

HOWARD METZENBAUM
Defeats autronaut Glenn

Brewer's campaign is summed up in his slogan: "Full time for Alabama." He depicts Wallace as a man more interested in politics outside the state than within its borders.

While Wallace denies that, he never fails to remind a rally that Washington is watching Alabama. He said if he lost, the message sent northward would be "Alabama has quit, you have surrendered."

Wallace said his election to a new term in the State House would keep the pressure on and force President Nixon to look to the South in shaping his policies—particularly in school desegregation.

Cairo Denies Russ Pilots On Missions

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

An Egyptian government spokesman said today in Cairo Soviet instructors were working with the Egyptian armed forces but denied Israeli charges Soviet pilots were flying operational missions over Egypt.

The Israeli government made the charge last week and Premier Golda Meir warned Israel would fight the Russians if necessary to defend the Suez front.

Dr. Ismat Abdel Meguid, the official spokesman, said the charges were "completely unfounded" and part of an Israeli attempt to pressure the United States into providing more military assistance.

At the same time, however, Meguid told newsmen there were Soviet "instructors in all branches of our armed forces to train our officers and men."

Asked about reports that British and American pilots were getting Israeli nationality and then flying for Israel, Meguid termed it "serious and illegal" acts

Meguid said the United States had not yet responded to President Gamal Abdel Nasser's appeal last week for America to settle the Middle East crisis.

Meguid warned that any additional U. S. assistance to Israel would be considered to be "directed against the entre Arab nation and Arabs everywhere. Such assistance will help Israel to achieve its objectives, realize the greater Israel extending from the Euphrates to the Nile."

President Gamal Abdel Nasser meanwhile dispatched three aides today on tours of Arab world nations in an attempt to rally forces against Israel, whose foreign minister said his country was willing to make some startling concessions for peace.

Hub Trustees Reject Idea Of Sharing Safety Costs

The San Anselmo School District board last night rejected a suggestion that the district share the cost to the city of installation of safety measures at the intersection of Sir Francis Drake Boulevard and Sonoma Avenue to protect students of Isabel Cook School.

The board decided that street safety was a matter for the city to handle, Supt. Stephen L. Parodi said today.

The San Anselmo School District Board Also:

REPORTS — Referred to Albert Nelson, director of instruction, and the district's curriculum advisory committee, the matter of continuing the district's reading programs on a staggered basis, and a proposal for a complete health instruction program in the schools.

RECORDS — Received a report from Parodi that student cumulative records are open to parents.

MATHEMATICS — Received a report from Martha Bartlett, mathematics team leader at Wade Thomas School on a "levels appraoch" to teaching mathematics. Students from different grades are taught together, classified by their level of ability in mathematics.

TESTS — Granted permission for William Emerson, district psychologist to conduct a memory retention test on students. The test is related to Emerson's work for his doctorate, and not for the district, and therefore board approval was required.

COMMISSION — Asked for suggestions of names for the board to recommend to the city council for appointment to the parks and recreation commission to fill the seat of Nelson King whose term expires in July.

PERSONNEL — Accepted the resignation of Margaret L. Frann, curriculum secretary, effective May 15. She is traveling to Central America with her family. The board also accepted the resignations of two teachers who have been on maternity leave this year, Susan McBride and Kathleen Kluse.

MEETING — Adjourned to its next regular meeting May 19.

Mansfield Seeking Campus Unrest Study

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate Majority Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana urged President Nixon today to name a high-level commission to investigate disorders at Kent State University in Ohio and elsewhere across the country.

"What happened at Kent can happen elsewhere, in fact may happen elsewhere," Mansfield told a news conference.

The Democratic leader suggested the President name such prominent people to the commission as former Chief Justice Earl Warren, former Welfare Secretary John Gardner and Sam Brown, youthful leader of one of the major peace groups.

Warren headed the commission that investigated the assassination of President John F. Kennedy.

Mansfield said a high level commission might give some guidance on how tragedies, such as the slaying of four students by National Guardsmen Monday at Kent State, might be avoided.

Mansfield said that incident could be used as a starting point for a broad investigation of campus disorders.

The Senate was told meanwhile that President Nixon had in mind "a revolutionary student" who destroyed research records at Stanford University when he referred to college youths who engage in violence as bumbs.

Meanwhile, Sen. Stephen M. Young, D-Ohio, introduced a resolution to create a special committee to investigate the deaths on the Kent campus.

Sen. Robert P. Griffin of Michigan, the assistant GOP leader, disclosed Nixon had related to members of Congress at the White House Tuesday night how he came to use the term in talking to a group of Pentagon employes last Friday.

Griffin's account of why Nixon used the term bums was confirmed by Sen. Claiborne Pell, D-R.I., who said he had told the President he took exception to the term.

Griffin said Nixon related he used the word after receiving a letter from a distinguished scholar at Stanford reporting that research notes he had compiled over a period of 20 years had been destroyed when a building on the campus was broken into.

"A revolutionary student destroyed 20 years of research work and the President said the guy who did that was a bum," Griffin reported.

The Pentagon's top National Guard officer said meanwhile that the Ohio guardsmen were doing "the job they were told to do" in restoring law and order when four Kent students were shot to death.

"We're deeply concerned anytime a life is lost," said Maj. Gen. Winston P. Wilson Jr., who heads the National Guard Bureau. "Those guys were given a job of restoring law and order. That's what they were called for. They were doing their job as best as they can."

But Wilson, in an interview at his Pentagon office, said he wasn't at the scene of Monday's shooting and couldn't make any judgment as to responsibility for the incident.

Officially, the Pentagon is taking a hands-off attitude, leaving the investigation of the shooting in which four persons were killed and 10 others wounded to local and state agencies and the Justice Department.

pher, Terrance B. Norman, was quoted in a university statement as saying he had been asked by the FBI and university police to photograph the disturbances and had been handed press credentials by the police.

In a copyright story today, the Akron Beacon Journal quoted Portage County prosecutor Ronald Kane as saying Rhodes rejected his plea that the campus be closed Sunday, the day before the shootings.

Kane, the paper said, wanted to obtain a court order to close the school because of weekend violence. The paper quoted Kane as saying Rhodes refused "because it would be playing into the hands of the SDS and the Weathermen." The Weathermen are a militant, radical youth group which split off from the Students for a Democratic Society.

protest movements, protection of dissenting students and the possibility of a long-term strike.

The afternoon session was scheduled to include proposals for actions from the campus as a whole. Convocation leaders said that regardless of what the students and faculty decide, those who wish may attend classes tomorrow and the rest of the week.

Youth Booked As Suspect In Threat

A 14-year old Davidson Junior High School student was booked into Marin County Juvenile hall yesterday on suspicion of assault with a deadly weapon and carrying a concealed weapon after a 13-year old girl said he had threatened her with a pair of scissors, San Rafael police reported today.

Arrested was Thomas Joseph Clark of 528 Fourth Street.

According to police the girl, Beryl Elaine Epstein of 30 Novato Street told school autorities Clark approached her inside the school at 11:30 a.m. carrying the scissors and saying, "I'm going to kill you." The girl sustained a slight cut on her hand, police said, when she tried to grab the scissors.

Miss Epstein reported Clark earlier had offered to sell her a joint of marijuana, police said. The youth attacked the girl about 10 minutes after the girl declined the marijuana, accord-

March In Protest

I-J Special Report

SANTA ROSA — Santa Rosa Junior College students and faculty marched in a picket line to protest the war and to mourn the deaths of four Kent State students. At a faculty meeting yesterday 65 per cent of voted in support of an informational picket line and the abandonment of classes.

WALTON

rectly responsible to parent advisory boards reflecting the "ethnic, political, social and economic population of the school," he said.

"We might not even need a superintendent," Walton added.

He said the present plan gives parents or students dissatisfied with district schools "no choice but to leave the district and black parents have no alternatives," he continued to cheers from those assembled.

If the board refuses to accept the plan Walton had ready a carefully prepared plan for setting up a private community school in public facilities in the district.

"Fifty-seven per cent of the children in the Sausalito School District are minority youngsters, according to the principal who said "I think we could basically shut down the schools with this boycott, if you really want to hurt the school district in the pocketbook." School districts receive no state money for a child each day he is absent without a proper excuse.

Walton, who appeared to have done his homework, said the teachers would stay on the job, even if there were no students to teach and prepare lesson plans and plan acitivites. "As soon as the school day is over, they could come into the community and give our children the same education for free," he said.

"We have dedicated teachers and I would expect to see about two-thirds of them working in the community if this kind of school is set up," Walton said. Mary Davis, a Central teacher said she would be happy to assist and indicated she felt many of her colleagues would also cooperate.

Walton said his attorney is drawing up papers of incorporation for the Marin Luther King Unified School District, grades kindergarten through high school, a private, nonprofit tuition-free educational system "open to anyone."

He said such a corporation could solicit funds and donations from throughout the United States, although with free administrators, teachers and facilities, the school should not cost too much, he added.

Walton noted no state department of education approval is needed to set up a private school. He told parents not to worry about accreditation "because there are departments I have contacted at U. C. Berkeley which will be willing to accept your children."

He said testing, without any cultural bias, would be done twice a year, at the beginning and end of school to measure a child's growth. "We have to guarantee parents that their children should grow one year for each year they spend in school," he said, "no child will be graduated unless he has the basic skills to survive in the community."

In response to a question from the audience, the principal said the freedom school would exist "only so long as it takes the school board to say 'Hey, we are being rigid and dogmatic.' "

"We are going to show the community we can educate our children," Walton said, "and let the board know we are not totally dependent on it."

Walton also gave strong endorsement to Brian Beard, a Black Panther who is a candidate for trustee David E. Freedheim's board seat which will be challenged in a June 2 recall election. "June 2 is my birthday and the best present you can give me is Brian Beard on the board" he said and drew laughs and cheers from the audience.

He also urged his listeners to support Trustee Martha Freebairn-Smith who is also facing recall June 2.

U.S., Saigon Units Escalate In Cambodia

SAIGON (AP) — Thousands of U.S. and South Vietnamese troops opened three new fronts in Cambodia today but heavy ground fire still slowed an American operation in northeastern Cambodia.

Informed sources said that 20,000-25,000 Americans and an equal number of South Vietnamese in the six operations are now driving along 250 miles of the Cambodian border, sweeping up enemy bases and seizing tons of munitions and supplies. They have reported killing more than 2,500 enemy troops.

The North Vietnamese went on the offensive in the far north of South Vietnam, attacking two bases and in one battle killing 29 Americans, the largest number of U.S. soldiers slain in a single action in 20 months.

The three new fronts now bring the total to six. U.S. troops opened drives north and south of the Fishhook, the area where the Americans first entered Cambodia last Friday. South Vietnamese began an operation to link up with U.S. armor that overran Snuol, eight miles inside Cambodia in the Fishhook area.

Heavy ground fire still beset the U.S. operation that opened Tuesday 200 miles north of the Fishhook in the central highlands area.

Only one battalion managed to make it Tuesday in a helicopter-borne assault and it was joined today by another battalion that landed without resistance seven miles inside Cambodia.

But four helicopters, one a command ship, were shot down and U.S. troops were being landed piecemeal in what was designed as a massive assault by 3,000 Americans and 3,000 South Vietnamese. Many helicopters were forced to return to the central highlands because of the intense antiaircraft fire.

Associated Press correspondent David Rosenzweig reported from the central highlands base of Pleiku that less than half of the Americans of the 4th Infantry Division had been landed by midafternoon.

There was some trouble also on one of the new fronts 80 miles northwest of Saigon. Part of the assault ran into delays, stiff enemy fire and U.S. soldiers were hit by their own artillery barrage. There were reports 10 Americans were killed by the barrage.

Engineers were supposed to build a bridge across a stream but it still was incomplete and a column of 200 U.S. armored personnel carriers waited to cross at midafternoon.

In a possible reaction to the massive allied offensive into Cambodia, the North Vietnamese launched a series of assaults in the far north that killed 29 Americans at one artillery base and overran a district headquarters. One American was killed and seven Americans and 35 Vietnamese were wounded in the attack on Que Son district headquarters, 28 miles southwest of Da Nang.

The 29 U.S. troops killed at Fire Base Henderson, 16 miles south of the demilitarized zone, were the most American soldiers slain in a single action in 20 months. Fifteen North Vietnamese were reported killed.

Here is a rundown on the six fronts:

1. The Parrot's Beak, 40 miles west of Saigon, the first to be opened by South Vietnamese and U.S. advisers Thursday.

2. The Fishhook, some 70 miles northwest of Saigon, opened Friday by U.S. troops.

3. Northeast Cambodia opposite the central highlands, begun Tuesday against heavy enemy resistance.

4. An area 50 miles southwest of the Fishhook, opened today by the U.S. 25th Division.

5. An area northeast of the Fishhook, opened today by U.S. 1st Air Cavalry Division and South Vietnamese troops.

6. An area along the northern part of the Fishhook, where South Vietnamese troops moved in today to join the U.S. 11th Armored Cavalry Regiment that captured Snuol.

The U.S. Command said that in one area alone more than 4,000 weapons have been captured along with 64 trucks and 426 tons of rice. A spokesman said the rice could feed eleven 600-man battalions for almost three months.

At the University of California in Berkeley, a spreading strike closed down much of the school's normal activities. And a crowd of about 600 tried to burn down Callaghan Hall yesterday, the Navy ROTC building which has been the focal point of nearly a month of protest. There was also police-demonstrator battles in the downtown area as 17 were arrested.

In California these developments:

At Stanford, the general anti-war strike continued. Police came on campus once when minority students protested at strike headquarters. Peace was restored quickly when 10 minority representatives were added to a delegation which flew to Washington, D.C., to talk to government officials.

San Francisco: About 1,200 students marched around the San Francisco State College campus, scene of wild melees between police and demonstrators last year. About 40 policemen watched Tuesday's demonstration, but there was no violence.

Santa Cruz: Leaflets were distributed on the campus of California's Cabrillo College calling for teach-ins, panel discussions and a "political trial of Richard Nixon."

At Humboldt State, school officials agreed to a proposal by a group of students and faculty that the school flag be kept at half staff for the rest of the week in memory of the four Kent State students.

Elsewhere, a long convoy of National Guard trucks rolled back to the troubled University of Wisconsin campus after being pulled back during the night when sporadic violence subsided. Guardsmen appeared on the Ohio State University campus Tuesday and were on standby status in Maryland and Oklahoma.

council also voted to send telegrams to Nixon, Vice President Spiro T. Agnew, Gov. Ronald Reagan and other state and federal officials opposing the Vietnam-Cambodian War on behalf of College of Marin students, Detro said.

A separate telegram asking for impeachment proceedings against Nixon, Agnew, and Secretary of Defense Melvin Laird will be sent to Sen. Alan Cranston, D.-California, Detro said.

A petition in support of impeachment will be circulated throughout the state college system, according to the council president. Detro said sketchy plans called for a rally with speakers tomorrow and leafleting in the community on Friday.

In his announcement on the possibility of a student strike Grasham said the vote of the council was 5-4, but Detro said Eric Hadden, Dennis Carpenter, Elaine Strellendorf, Nancy Oliva, Claudette Shurbert, and he voted for the class boycott while Patricia Pinkerton, Richard Bottarani, William Ingersoll, and Semantha Kese opposed the move.

Lawrence Robert Plamondon, reputed minister of defense of the White Panther Party, sought in connection with the dynamiting of a Central Intelligence Agency Office in Ann Arbor, Mich., in September 1968, has been placed on the Federal Bureau of Investigation's "Ten Most Wanted Fugitives" list.

Board Seeks Equality On Pollution Policy

The Tiburon Sanitary District has approved a resolution calling on the San Francisco as it does to Marin.

Secretary Robert A. Sterling said the board Monday night agreed with the water board's efforts to halt the dumping of raw sewage into Richardson Bay and the resulting contamination of the bay.

"We feel very strongly that the board is on the right track," Sterling said, "and we're very anxious to cooperate with them to clean up the bay."

In a related move, the board tabled until its June 1 meeting action on a resolution drafted by the Richardson Bay Sanitary District that the water board allow agencies dumping sewage into Richardson Bay to set up a self-monitoring program to oversee the elimination of pollution in the bay.

Tiburon Sanitary District Board Also:

PARADISE COVE — Accepted as complete the new Paradise Cove treatment plant, which is now prepared to handle sewage from developments on the eastern short of the Tiburon Peninsula.

BUDGET — Got a first look at a preliminary budget for 1970-71 that is 6 per cent more than this year's.

CHLORINE — Heard that specifications will be presented at the June 1 meeting for automatic chlorinating equipment. Chlorine now is added to the effluent manually, Sterling said.

Thorner Coffee

A coffee for Thomas H. Thorner, candidate for Marin Municipal Court judge, is scheduled for 8 p.m. Friday at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Fred Sondheimer, 307 Reed Boulevard, Strawberry. Those interested should contact the hostess.

Swedes Protest U.S. Ambassador's Visit

MALMO, Sweden (UPI)— Anti-American demonstrators chanting "U.S. out of Cambodia" swarmed around the automobile of U.S. Ambassador Jerome H. Holland on his visit Tuesday to southern Sweden.

Police arrested four protesters outside Holland's hotel in Malmo later in the day. More than 1,000 youths marched through Stockholm to protest U.S. intervention in Cambodia.

Mill Valley Chamber Backs Harbor, Strawberry Annex

The Mill Valley Chamber of Commerce board has adopted resolutions favoring the city's small craft harbor, the proposed annexation of the Strawberry Town and County shopping Center by Mill Valley, and Proposition A, the measure on the June 2 ballot favoring construction of 600 units of low-rent housing in Marin.

Secretary Carol B. Healy said the directors unanimously voted at their Monday meeting to ask the city council to "look into a self-sustaining harbor with the proper balance of recreational and commercial development."

The chamber commended the city council in its efforts to absorb the Strawberry shopping center and surrounding land, a total of 110 acres, Mrs. Healy said.

The board was told that 67 entries in the "Let's Look at Mill Valley" contest have been received, and the awards breakfast will be held Friday at 7:30 a.m. at the Outdoor Art Club.

Tickets may be purchased at the chamber office, 85 Throckmorton Avenue, Mrs. Healy said.

Appointive Chief On Ballot Again

San Rafael voters will be asked June 2, for the third time in four years, to make the position of chief of police an appointive one. Voters have turned down the proposition twice.

Also on the June ballot will be a measure to delete the position of city health officer from the city charter.

San Rafael is one of only three cities in the state to elect its chief of police. City Mgr. James H. McCown said the proposal in an attempt to remove the office from politics.

The proposal was rejected in 1967, when it was included in one measure to make the positions of city clerk-assessor, attorney, and treasurer-tax collector, as well as that of the chief, appointive. That measure was defeated 4,164 to 1,706.

It fared better, but was still defeated 3,796 to 3,239 last year when the chief's job was proposed as a separate measure, along with separate measures for changing the other three positions.

This time, McCown and the city council are hoping the chief's job, without the other three on the ballot, can make it alone.

If it does, applications for the job will probably be reviewed by a selection committee, which will recommend to the city council one candidate for appointment as chief.

McCown said the selection committee would probably consist of two outstanding professionals in the law enforcement field, such as an out-of-town police chief, a representative of the state Commission of Peace Officers Standards and Training, or possibly a judge.

A similar selection procedure is now used for appointing the police captain and lieutenants on the San Rafael police force.

A job description and suggested qualifications is now being prepared, listing minimum police and supervisory experience, and educational equivalents required.

At present, the only requirement for the position is a three year residency requirement.

The present chief, Joseph J. Brusatori, was appointed, but only to fill out the term of Charles J. Chiesa, who retired last year after 10 years as chief. The term expires next April.

State law requires every city to have a health officer, unless other arrangements, such as with the county, are made.

The city is making arrangements with the county, and thus meets the state regulations.

Removal of the position from the city charter just makes it neater.

San Rafael hasn't had a health officer since the end of last year when Dr. Harry O. Hund, who had served in the position for 30 years, retired.

Soviet Naval Maneuvers Over

MOSCOW (AP) — Massive Soviet naval maneuvers in both the Atlantic and Pacific oceans have been completed, the Soviet news agency Tass reported today.

The maneuvers, code named Okean—Ocean—showed "skill in combat action and the management of united fleets," Tass said.

All Soviet fleets took part in the maneuvers, announced on April 14. They were a new demonstration of Soviet naval might, which has been greatly increased since World War II.

The Tass report did not say how many ships took part or give other details.

Sierra Club Fails In Oil Firm Bidding

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—The Sierra Club, concerned over the development of the Trans Alaska Pipeline System (TAPS), tried but failed Tuesday to place one of its members on the board of the Atlantic Richfield Co.

Management's slate of 13 current directors smothered Edgar Wayburn, a past president of the Sierra Club and one of the conservation group's current vice presidents. A total of 40,594,162 shares voted for the management candidates to only 5,200 shares for Wayburn.

Before the vote at the company's annual stockholders meeting here, Sierra Club president Phillip Berry urged shareholders to vote for Wayburn as a man who "is by far the best qualified to provide a true conservation viewpoint on your board."

Berry took the company to task for spending "considerable sums on national advertising" to make people believe it is all for conservation in Northern Alaska.

"Yet this company," Berry charged, "is attempting to undertake what is probably one of the most destructive and ecologically ill-conceived projects yet devised by man—the TAPS pipeline."

Innocent Plea To Gun Charge

William Edward Kelly (also known as Nooner), former San Rafael resident who now lives in Oakland, pleaded innocent yesterday in Marin Municipal Court to charges of carrying a concealed weapon and exhibiting a gun in a threatening manner.

A preliminary hearing was set for next Tuesday

Licensing Dispute Won't Shut Casinos

CARSON CITY, Nev. (AP)—A Nevada gaming official, who earlier said the state might close three Las Vegas casinos because a major stockholder in the company owning them has refused to seek licensing, said later there was no intention of shutting them down.

Involved are the three gambling properties of the Parvin-Dohrmann Co. of Los Angeles, the Stardust and Aladdin hotels on the strip and the Fremont downtown.

In a release late Tuesday from Gov. Paul Laxalt's office, Frank Johnson, chairman of the Nevada Gaming Control Board, said there are provisions in state regulations to handle the situation without closing the casinos.

Johnson had said earlier that the refusal of Chicago financier Philip Levin to seek licensing after buying 10 per cent of Parvin - Dohrmann's outstanding stock might lead to closing the casinos. The state requres anyone owning more than five per cent of a corporation involved in Nevada gaming to have a gambling license.

"We have no intention of closing down any of Parvin-Dohrmann's casinos because of the lack of cooperation of a single stockholder," said Johnson's statement. "The state of Nevada has ample authority to proceed against Mr. Levin and will do so if necessary."

It is not expected that Levin would be licensed, if he submits an application, state officials have said. He owns 30 per cent of the firm that owns Arlington Park and Washington Park race tracks. Nevada regulations prohibit anyone connected with gambling outside the state from being licensed here.

Chamber Honors Police Officers

Three Corte Madera police officers who last month broke up a youthful burglary ring that had been operating on Paradise Drive since early March have been awarded plaques by the Corte Madera Chamber of Commerce.

The recipients are: officer Gary A. Cusimano; Juvenile Officer Charles E. Newman and Sgt. George Koehler, a chamber spokesman has announced.

The officers were commended for their professional ability and concern for the dignity of the youngsters involved in the case.

The ring of six boys ranging 13 and 14 years old was implicated with a rash of burglaries that according to police netted about $1,000 worth of loot including cash and tools.

ICC Critics Slapped For Interfering

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The vice chairman of the Interstate Commerce Commission accused ICC critics Tuesday night of attempting to usurp functions of the federal government

In the first official response to suggestions the commission be abolished, Dale W. Hardin said such cries have been made ever since the ICC, oldest federal regulatory agencies, was established in 1887.

"In my opinion, of course," Hardin said, in a speech to the Association of Interstate Commerce Commission Practitioners, "the commission has, by and large, performed its congressionally assigned functions well."

He did not specifically name consumer crusader Ralph Nader, who contended in a report last March that the ICC is weak and useless and should be abolished.

Hardin also linked ICC critics with a wide range of other groups which, he said, are trying "to destroy public confidence in established institutions —churches, synagogues, school systems, universities and the like."

Hardin said he would support a proposal by Sen. Howard H. Baker, R-Tenn., that would provide for a study on the possibility of combining the various transportation agencies.

Baker's approach, he said, "appears to me to have been conceived in sincerity."

Rock Concert Lawsuit Filed

OAKLAND (UPI)—A couple owning a ranch near the site of last December's Altamont rock concert has filed a million dollar damage suit against the owner of the Altamont Speedway and eight rock groups.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Gilbert asked $1,035,000 in damages Tuesday for the Dec. 6 concert which attracted an estimated 300,000 people and resulted in four deaths.

Defendants in the suit are Britain's Rolling Stones, and the investment firm which operates the speedway near Livermore.

The Gilberts said they suffered mental anguish and considerable property damage as a result of "hordes of people descending on our property."

Cliff Retreat By Townhouse Group

Developers of Oceana Marin north of Dillon Beach yesterday agreed to retreat from the face of the ocean cliffs and build their townhouses some distance from what geologists describe as a dangerous slide area.

San Rafael attorney Benjamin P. Bonelli, representing the developers, withdrew 17 acres from townhouse zoning, thus deleting 68 units from the bluff overlooking the Pacific Ocean just south of the Sonoma County line.

In the face of opposition from geologists and conservationists, Bonelli also agreed to permit public access to the one-and-one-half mile shoreline from Dillon Beach to Estero de San Antonio, which marks the Sonoma county border.

With these concessions from Bonelli, the Marin County Board of Supervisors approved rezoning for 272 townhouses to be built in various spots on the 650-acre property owned by Bodega Bay Lands Incorporated and Highway Properties Incorporated.

In addition to townhouses, the developers will build 340 one-family homes in conventional subdivisions. The 68 townhouses lost in yesterday's deletion will be built elsewhere on the property, for a total of 675 units.

Bonelli agreed to pull his development back from the coastline after warnings from Prof. Clyde Warhaftig of the University of California, state geologist Salin Rice, the county public works department, and soils engineer Michael Praszker.

The geologists warned that the cliffs are extremely unstable and are sloughing off into the sea at the rate of about a foot per year.

Margaret B. Azevedo, who voted against the rezoning at the planning commission hearing last month, led the fight for public access to the shoreline.

She drew support from spokesmen for conservation organizations and individual citizens who wanted the right to walk the one and one-half miles of ocean front and up Estero de San Antonio.

Bonnelli fought for the right to keep the ocean front for the private use of those who buy homes at Ocean Marin, particularly a small sandpit at the mouth of the estero. He finally relented when the supervisors refused to budge.

"The public has the right to fish or walk along the beach without having someone say no, this is private property and you can't come in," declared Supervisor William A. Gnoss.

Supervisors Michael Wornum, Peter R. Arrigoni Jr., and Chairman John F. McInnis agreed that the public should retain access to the coastline between low and high water.

Supervisors held up formal approval of the rezoning to give County Counsel Douglas J. Maloney time to draw up a legal agreement to assure public access to the ocean front.

Ban On Junk-Laden Creeks Wins Backing

A countywide ordinance that makes property owners responsible for keeping creeks on their properties free of man-made debris won unanimous approval from the Marin County Board of Supervisors yesterday. (Another board of supervisors story, page 1.)

The aim of the ordinance is to prevent residents from dumping cardboard and junk into creeks, thus blocking culverts and adding to the flood problems.

Supervisor Peter R. Arrigoni Jr., who initiated the ordinance with mayors of Ross Valley, said the ordinance is especially important now that backyard burning has been banned.

Each city would be responsible for enforcing the ordinance within its boundaries. In unincorporated areas, Arrigoni explained that subzones could be set up within flood control zones to pay for the cost of inspecting creeks, notifying owners of violation, and enforcing the ordinance.

William L. Hess, assistant director of public works, pointed out that enforcement will be a problem because it will take more staff time to inspect creeks and notify violators. Since boundary lines along creeks are often vague, Hess warned that determining guilt would be difficult.

Neil R. Brixon, former mayor of Larkspur and chief proponent of the ordinance, acknowledged that some problems may arise in enforcement, but this would be far outweighed by the good that will come from reduction of flooding. Brixon said a similar ordinance in Larkspur has been effective.

The Marin County Board Of Supervisors Also:

Schooling At Synanon Gets Official Nod

In a report yesterday to the Marin County Board of Supervisors, county counsel Douglas J. Maloney said he found children living at Synanon Foundation at Marshall are being educated by certificated teachers.

Maloney told the board that "their operation complies, in all respects, with applicable laws."

Maloney was directed last week by the board to investigate Synanon's compliance with county regulations on health density of population and proper education of children.

The county official reported yesterday that the 63-acre area has a maximum occupancy limit of 200 persons and that facilities and population cannot be expanded beyond that point without a new or amended use permit.

Sleepy Hollow Sets Night On Judge Race

Candidates for Marin Municipal Court judge at the June 2 election are scheduled to appear at 7:30 p.m. May 27 at a candidates' night sponsored by the Sleepy Hollow Homes Association.

The event will be held at the association clubhouse at 1317 Butterfield Road.

County Urges Federal Promise On Seashore

The federal government should immediately issue a written commitment for purchase or condemnation of the 2,500-acre Lake Ranch for the Point Reyes National Seashore, Marin County Board of Supervisors declared yesterday.

They directed County Counsel Douglas P. Maloney to ask the United States Park Service for such a commitment in the next two weeks.

Attorneys Albert Bianchi of San Rafael and L. F. Kuechler of San Francisco, representing owners of the Lake Ranch, said such a commitment by the government is just what the owners of the Lake Ranch want.

A. W. Sweet and other owners of the Lake Ranch have sold a half dozen 40-acre parcels to private purchasers for prices ranging from $2,000 to $3,500 per acre.

The supervisors decided to ask the government for a definite commitment on the Lake Ranch when they learned that commitments had been made for two other properties within the Seashore boundary. The two are the 319-acre Laird's Landing property, which lies between Pierce Point Road and Tomales Bay, and the 1,500-acre Laguna Ranch, both owned by R. D. Marshall Jr.

Since purchase is imminent, the supervisors postponed for two weeks a proposed moratorium on Laird's Landing and Laguna Ranch development. James B. McKenney, attorney for Marshall, said he received a letter from the U. S. Department of Interior, assuring the owner that the acquisition of the ranches will begin before June 30.

Berkeley Driver Hurt In Accident

A 21-year-old Berkeley woman was treated at Marin General Hospital for scrapes and bruises on the arms and legs following an 8:45 p.m. auto accident yesterday on Sir Francis Drake Boulevard, San Anselmo.

San Anselmo police said Ruth Anne Megahey was injured when her westbound auto was struck by an eastbound vehicle turning left into the Redhill Shopping Center.

Driver of the second vehicle, Mary E. Clausen of 23 Skyline Road, San Anselmo, was cited by police for failure to yield the right of way.

Board Adds Cambodia To Peace Stand

The Marin County Board of Supervisors added Cambodia to a mild Vietnam resolution it passed in 1968, and passed it again yesterday.

The resolution calls on President Richard M. Nixon to "persevere with patience and restraint" to end the war in Vietnam and Cambodia at the earliest possible date and to use funds for fighting poverty and prejudice at home.

The action followed a request by former Supervisor Thomas T. Storer calling for a stronger resolution to have the U. S. pull out of Southeast Asia.

The board's discussion of getting the Cambodia question on the June 2 ballot ended when Peter Meyer, county elections officer, informed the board it was too late to get anything on the ballot.

Belvedere Attorney To Aid Collier Fete

The dinner will honor Sen. Randolph Collier, dean of the upper house in Sacramento.

Goodyear Ordered To Recall 45,000 Tires

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Department of Transportation announced today the recall of 45,000 Goodyear tires that the agency said "could be hazardous under certain conditions."

The Goodyear Tire and Rubber Co. of Akron, Ohio, will recall 34,000 size 700-13 Power Cushion passenger tires and 11,000 size 915-15 Custom Power Cushion tires because of test failures.

Nine of 20 Power Cushion tires tested failed government requirements for strength, and four of 28 Custom Power Cushion tires tested flunked the standard for high speed performance, it was said.

The size 700 tires set for recall are identified by the number 7 as the fourth symbol in sidewall codes beginning with the letter combinations LY, TY, LN, TN, LP, TP.

The comparable numbers and letters for the size 9-15 tires are 2 JT UT.

Ferry Permit Rehearing Is Set

The State Public Utilities Commission yesterday granted Tiburon's request to reconsider the commission's approval of a certificate to operate between Tiburon and Alcatraz Island.

Commissioners declaring that Tiburon had "good cause" ordered the rehearing, but set no date.

Tiburon had claimed the commission had failed to give proper weight to the city's objection that Alcatraz service would overwhelm parking facilities, and that Harbor Carriers hadn't sought consent of the federal government to serve Alcatraz and hadn't applied to the city for permission to carry on the proposed business.

The certificate will remain in abeyance until the matter is reheard.

Rohnert Park Realty Office Is Vandalized

Three plate glass windows were smashed by rocks Monday night at the Rohnert Park realty office, 6601 Commerce Boulevard, Rohnert Park, police reported today.

Owner Paul Golis said the vandalism may have been in connection with the charges of conflict of interest he brought that night against the city council.

Entering Computer Field Sought Now

It's time for San Rafael city schools to set up a computer education program, the San Rafael Board of Education was advised last night.

Board members indicated they favored the idea, but couldn't afford the full proposed program.

The Computer Education Curriculum Committee recommended a program that included establishing a computer laboratory, estimated to cost $15,000, a data processing laboratory, estimated at $34,940, and hiring of two additional teachers estimated at $15,000.

Margaret Rattray, committee chairman, said that with the increase in the use of data processing and computer equipment in the world, it is evident that there must be instruction in high schools.

Several high school districts in the Bay area are well along with computer education, she reported.

Edward M. Lewis of Fair Isaac and Cox, a committee adviser, said San Rafael "schools cannot afford to lag behind the rest of the world."

Board member Jon C. Pfiefer felt the board could consider a smaller start that would require less money, and board member Paul L. Jones declared: "We've got to make a move to get into this field."

The board asked administrators to work with the committee to determine a program that was financially feasible.

The San Rafael Board Of Education Also:

VOCATIONAL EDUCATION — Heard a report from Floyd L. Peterson, adult education director, on the high school district's program for vocational education and a report from Deputy Supt. Stanley Friese of the Marin County Schools Office on the proposed regional occupational program to serve high school students in Marin.

FIELD RENTAL — Approved raising the charge for use of the San Rafael High School football field from $200 in daytime and $250 at night to $400 for day use and $438 for night use.

WORK INCENTIVE — Agreed to cooperate with the state Department of Human Resources Development by providing adult education courses for persons in the department's work incentive program at no cost to San Rafael city schools.

HIRED — Authorized hiring Barbara Morrill, summer school secretary, at $2.58 an hour; Michael Pasisz and Francis Skinner, custodians, high school district, at $5,916 a year, and Joanola Rose, teacher's aide, high school district, $2.25 an hour.

RESIGNATIONS — Accepted with appreciation of service the resignation of Helen Levin, secretary, San Rafael High School, after 12 years service; and accepted the resignations of Kathleen Kane, art teacher, Terra Linda High School; Donna MacKenzie, teacher, second grade, San Pedro School; Eloise Rivera, teacher, French-English, Davidson Junior High School; Robert Boxley, custodian 1, MacPhail School; Iona Damazio, bus driver; Harry Mulholland, custodian 1, Terra Linda High School; and Pauline Lorente, teacher aide, high school district.

FEDERAL FUNDS — Authorized application in federal funds for summer school, $17,398 in the elementary district and $6,357 in the high school district, and federal funds for library materials for the next school year, $2,196 in the elementary district and $2,211 in the high school district.

CONDEMNATION COSTS — Authorized the payment of $2,415 to cover the cost of appraisal and legal fees incurred by Latipac Inc. as the result of condemnation suit filed by San Rafael City Schools to obtain a 25-acre parcel in Peacock Gap. Plans to acquire the site were dropped, and Asst. County Counsel Richard V. Godino said therefore the firm was entitled to reimbursement of such fees.

IN MEMORY — Adjourned in memory of Peter P. Camporelli, retired San Rafael High School gymnasium custodian, who died Saturday. He retired in 1966 after working at the school for nearly 20 years.

NEXT MEETING — Adjourned until 7:30 p.m. Tuesday at the Terra Linda High School library.

Board member Lawrence I. Kramer Jr. was absent.

Tam Board, Salary Group Set Session

The Tamalpais Union High School District board will dine in closed session with its salary negotiating team at 6 p.m. tomorrow at the Blue Rock Inn in Larkspur.

The board will continue its closed session at 7:30 p.m. at the superintendent's office in Larkspur.

No Midstream Change In Tax Drive

San Rafael Board of Education last night held fast to its tax election campaign strategy despite a plea by the San Rafael Teachers Association to spell out what cuts defeat would bring.

Board members have agreed on a campaign that would stress the positive aspects of San Rafael schools for the June 2 election.

Voters will be asked to approve a 40-cent hike in the general operating tax rate in the elementary district and a 30-cent hike in the high school district rate.

The present general purpose tax rates are $2.25 per $100 assessed valuation in the elementary district and $1.75 in the high school district. Total tax rates are $3.275 in the elementary district and $2.295 in the high school district.

Allen G. Cutler, president of the San Rafael Teachers Association, urged the board to prepare alternate 1970-71 budgets, one without the tax increase, so voters would know what would be cut if the tax increase failed.

In this way, the choice would be before the voter, Cutler said. He felt the information wouldn't be presented "in terms of a threat, but just cold facts."

Board chairman Herman L. Childress said such a policy was followed in the past and was considered a threat.

Board members contended that they couldn't honestly specify what would have to be cut, since priorities haven't been established and there are changes made in budget up until the time of adoption.

Cutler said voters at meetings were asking what would be cut.

Supt. John F. Plank said there is a list of possible cutbacks, but no priorities established.

Eliminating transportation, $43,000, elminiating extra curricular activities, $48,000, eliminating capital equipment expenditures, $54,694; reducing expenditures for replacing equipment, $10,000; reducing the building repair budget, $40,000; cutting an administrator at each high school, $30,000; cutting one maintenance man, $5,000; eliminating release time for department chairman, $17,000; cutting one administrator and secretary in administration, $13,000; cutting two librarians, $20,000; eliminating travel and conference funds, $9,834 and eliminating one counselor, $15,000.

Eliminate transportation, $62,000; eliminate capital equipment, $25,881; cut replace equipment, $14,000; reduce building repair, $60,000; cut one maintenance man, $5,000; cut one administrator and secretary in administration, $13,000; cut one library, $9,000; return portable classrooms, $1,255, and eliminate single session kindergartens, $40,000.

Board member John C. Pfeiffer said there are unknown factors such as enrollment and state financing, that make a precise decision difficult now.

Plank reported that the new budget schedule calls for the tentative budget to be before the board June 9, the publication budget filed July 20, and the public hearing and adoption of the final budget, Aug. 1 to 8.

Board members were invited to participate in a rally May 23, including a parade through downtown San Rafael, to gain support for the tax increase.

Club Designed To Control Minibikes

Formation of a club to set rules and regulations on operations of minibikes and to try to find a place where they could be operated has been approved by the Loma Verde Homeowners Association, according to Mrs. John Tindell, publicity chairman.

More than 100 parents and children at the association meeting Monday heard authorities on traffic and trespass laws describe the proper use of minibikes, she said.

There was no generation gap at the meeting as parents and children tried to find a solution of operating the minibikes which have become a problem in the area, Mrs. Tindell reported.

The formation of a club seemed to be the best solution, she said. Robert Gateley of 449 Alameda de La Loma and Carl Du Bose of 45 Alameda de La Loma agreed to head the club, she said.

New Officers For Foundation

David Price Jones was reelected president and Peter J. Ferrarese as vice president of the Novato Civic Foundation, publicity chairman Lorene Bunker announced yesterday.

Joan Richards was elected secretary and Margarie Wierdsma, treasurer, she added.

The foundation endorsed the $2.9 million park bond issue on the June 2 primary, at its general meeting last Wednesday, she said.

Tax Reformers Still Hopeful

By DAVID DIETZ

SACRAMENTO — Assembly leaders failed yesterday to resolve party differences which have brought a lengthening stalemate on Gov. Ronald Reagan's $1 billion tax reform proposal.

"We got nowhere," said Assemblyman Bob Moretti, D-Van Nuys, after emerging from an hour-long meeting in the office of Assemblyman William T. Bagley, R-San Rafael. Bagley is chief sponsor of the tax package.

"We're on dead center, dead center," said Assemblyman John J. Miller of Berkeley, Democratic minority leader. "But there's still hope."

The Democrats blamed the continuing deadlock in large part on Reagan's refusal to accept extra school aid as part of the plan. The governor has said school relief doesn't belong in a tax revision package.

Bagley acknowledged the session was futile but added, "I didn't expect a swift conclusion to a billion-dollar problem." He said further meetings would be held.

"It doesn't mean we can't have a compromise . . .," Bagley said. He held out the possibility fiscal 1970 surpluses might be used for education.

The stalemate was created Monday when Democratic abstentions on the Assembly floor denied the GOP the 41st vote necessary to pass one of two bills in the plan. Republicans had united in a 40-0 vote.

Bagley had intended to seek reconsideration of the legislation yesterday but won a postponement in order to confer with Democratic leaders. After the summit meeting, he said he saw little chance the legislation would be brought up today but did indicate he expected to fulfill a hope to have the package in Reagan's hands before the June 2 primary.

The measure which lost Monday would increase the sales tax by 1 per cent, make oil depletion allowances conform to the federal tax law, institute withholding of income taxes, increase tax rates for single persons making more than $16,000 a year and make minor changes in income tax law to bring it into conformity with federal changes.

The second bill, requiring a two-thirds vote, would raise $50 million in new revenue by increasing bank and corporation taxes by .5 per cent, increase homeowner tax exemptions on the basis of market value, provide income tax deductions for renters, increase business inventory tax exemptions, place property tax limitations on counties and school districts, increase state aid for welfare and provide increased exemptions for aged homeowners.

Democrats emerging from Bagley's office also said they are holding out for tightening of depletion allowances which oil companies are permitted to write off on their taxes. The original bill cut the allowance from 27.5 per cent to about 15 per cent. The current version permits a 22 per cent allowance.

While attacking the Democrats' position on school aid yesterday, Reagan said he was willing to compromise on the oil depletion issue.

"There may be progress on that score," Bagley said, "but there's no real progress unless the whole package is considered."

Another conferee, Assemblyman Alan Sieroty, D-Los Angeles, said Democrats want to resume the level of state school support that existed when Reagan took office—38 per cent. "He campaigned for 50 per cent," Sieroty said, "but now it's down to 34 per cent."

He also said Democrats preferred a flat raise to $1,500 in homeowner exemptions rather than the sliding scale proposed in the package, thus giving greater benefit to middle income people.

Laborites Gain Scottish Seats

LONDON (AP) — Prime Minister Harold Wilson's Labor Party registered sweeping advances in local election results announced today.

In Scotland, the party regained control from the Conservatives of Glasgow—Britain's second city.

Throughout Scotland, Labor won an extra 33 seats in local legislatures. The Conservatives won only seven fresh seats.

In England and Wales, Labor registered 40 gains.

The regional voting does not affect Labor's position in Parliament. But, like recent favorable opinion poll results, the voting gives an indication of Labor's improved standing in the country. The spring of 1971 is the deadline for the next general election.

Bnai Brith, founded in 1843, is the oldest Jewish fraternal order in the U. S.

Bound Over On Felony Charges

David Massey, 23-year-old soldier stationed at Fort Barry, yesterday was bound over to Marin Superior Court on two counts of manslaughter and one of felony drunken driving stemming from a wrong-way crash on Richardson Bay Bridge March 7.

He is to appear in superior court Monday for arraignment.

Womack, Baptiste To View Issues

J. Wayne Womack and Arnold Baptiste, both of Novato, candidates for supervisor from the Fifth District, will appear on KTIM's "Marin Sounding Board" broadcast at 9 a.m. tomorrow.

Their appearance will mark the second in a series of programs on candidates for political office. The broadcast will be repeated by tape recording at 1:05 a.m. Sunday.

On May 14, candidates for the state senate seat to be vacated by Sen. John F. McCarthy, R-San Rafael, will be guests.

Special Park, Rec Meeting Tomorrow

The San Rafael Parks and Recreation Commission will hold a special meeting at 8 p.m. tomorrow at city hall to continue discussion of the campaign for passage of the June 2 bond issue for a new community recreation center.

Andrew J. Snyder, director of parks and recreation, said 15 prominent citizens have been invited to the meeting to enlist their aid in promoting the bond issue.

Easing Tax Load For Singles Hit

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — Legislation that would ease the tax bite for single persons was shelved yesterday by the Assembly Revenue and Taxation Committee.

The panel, whose chairman is William T. Bagley, R-San Rafael, withheld the bill on a voice vote despite the argument of its author, Assemblyman Mike Cullen, Long Beach Democrat, that single persons pay three times as much state income tax as married people.

The measure would bring taxes of singles in line with those paid by heads of households.

Cullen pleaded that the measure, AB 947, was supported by "25 million people in the U.S." and would, if passed, "gather us more votes than we've ever gathered before."

Bagley pointed out, however, that the bill would initially deprive the state treasury of $38 million.

"The revenue loss, when weighed with the equity, is slight," Cullen argued.

Bagley jokingly observed that his staff had referred to the legislation as the "hippie tax relief bill," but Cullen said he didn't find that humorous.

Study Of Campaign Financing Is Backed

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — The Assembly Ways and Means Committee approved yesterday a joint resolution that would create a commission to look into campaign financing.

The resolution, ACR 74, is sponsored by Assemblyman Ralph Thomas, D-San Pedro. The State Commission on Campaign Financing, according to the measure, would be appointed by Gov. Ronald Reagan to "consider the desirability of laws limiting campaigns in such a way as to give candidates without independent wealth an equal opportunity."

Assemblyman John L. Burton, D-San Francisco, expressed opposition to Reagan appointing the group but voted for the resolution. "The governor's office is not independent," he said. "I would rely more on the Legislature (for the appointments.)"

Assemblyman E. Richard Barnes, R-San Diego, objected to authorizing $100,000 in commission expenses, noting that the group would have the authority to travel overseas to conduct its study.

The resolution now goes to the full Assembly.

Senate Delays Action On Extending Subpoena Powers

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO—Senate committee approval of Marin legislator's bill that would extend the subpoena powers of grand juries was delayed yesterday.

The Judiciary Committee said it wanted study by the Rules Committee of legislation by Sen. John F. McCarthy, R-San Rafael, that would empower grand jury committees to call witnesses. That authority now rests only with the grand jury foreman.

Alfred W. Bowman of Novato, chairman of the outgoing 1969-70 Marin County Grand Jury, and Vrena Vargas, a member of that jury, said the bill would speed investigations and save county funds normally required to summon full jury sessions to hear testimony.

Judiciary Committee members hoped the study would show how counties other than Marin are handling the calling of witnesses. Sen. Clark L. Bradley, R-San Jose, worried about possible abuses of the subpoena power at the committee level by one or two influential members.

Bagley Bill On Equality To Senate

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO—A bill authored by Assemblyman William T. Bagley, R-San Rafael, that would ban state and local agencies from meeting in a facility that discriminates has reached the Senate.

The measure, under consideration by the Governmental Organization Committee, was introduced after organizers of a state conference on environment discovered the group could not meet in a Sacramento club because it bars admittance to women.

Auto Is Looted

A $40 parka, $25 wristwatch and $100 Spanish-type guitar was stolen between midnight Sunday and 8 a.m. Monday from a car owned by Charles E. Walsh of 19 Sheila Court; San Anselmo, and parked at 11 Welch Street, San Rafael police reported today.

Vera Schultz To Resign One Seat

Vera L. Schultz, member of both the Marin Redevelopment Agency and the Marin Housing Authority, announced today she will resign from the redevelopment agency.

Her action is in line with a decision reached by both agencies that a commissioner holding posts on both commissions should resign from one or the other.

Philip S. Ehrlich Jr., who holds dual roles, resigned from the redevelopment agency last week. Two other commissioners who are expected to follow suit are James Quiett and Norman S. Campbell. The Marin County Board of Supervisors will make appointments to fill vacancies created by the resignations.

Panel's Talk Blows Away An Airport Worry

A possible conflict of interest issue was raised and dispelled at the Marin County Aviation Commission meeting in the Civic Center last night.

Commissioner David B. Vail said he was also a member of a citizens group seeking to aid the commission in its feasibility study of joint usage of Hamilton Air Force Base.

The citizens group, made up largely of engineers of PBQ&D Engineers of San Francisco, has offered to add its expertise to the aviation commission study, Vail said.

Commissioner William W. Schwartzer replied, "I think it's fine, but I think there should be a definite separation from this commission and that it should operate strictly as a citizens advisory committee."

Commissioner Herbert M. Hanson asked Vail, "Is everyone acting alturistically or do some of them stand to gain from this later?"

"Oh, I think in three, four, or five years some of them might be in a position to bid on some of these developments," replied Vail.

Hanson, leaning back in his chair and pulling a long drag from his cigar, continued, "Are you now, have you been, or are you likely to be employed by the (PBQ&D) group?"

"Of course not. I'm not even an engineer," replied Vail laughing. Vail then dissociated himself from the citizens committee in order to avoid a possible conflict of interest.

Schwartz noted that "Every time the Hamilton discussion comes up, it generates more heat than light, and this was no exception." He also proposed that the sense of the commission be to retain its independence while at the same time encouraging the type of volunteer citizen assistance proposed by Vail. Both Vail and Hanson seconded the proposal and it was accepted unanimously.

Commission chairman Ray W. Foreaker said he had received a letter from John E. Everson, president of PBQ&D Engineers and a member of the citizens committee. The letter said that the decreasing military use of Hamilton made joint use now, and possible exclusive civilian use of the base later, real possibilities and that the citizens committee would add whatever expertise and assistance it could. The matter was referred to commission member Richard D. Nave, who is to make a report at the June 9 meeting.

PLANE TALK — Heard a report by Vail that representatives from several large aviation companies would present samples of short take off and landing vehicles May 13, 14 and 15 at the Palace of Fine Arts in San Francisco.

GNOSS FIELD — Heard county airport manager Francis E. Torr report that there are now 113 planes at the airport with the recent addition of four single engine planes and one tri-motor plane. Torr also reported that the California State Department of Aeronautics may impose new stricter noise standards, which is not seen as a problem at Gnoss Field. Torr said also he had written a letter to the Federal Aeronautics Administration recommending a new cross-wind runway.

Redwood's Flag Lowered For Students

The American flag at Redwood High School in Larkspur was lowered to half staff yesterday and will remain there until Friday — one day for each of the four students killed by national guardsmen at Kent State University in Ohio.

Principal Donald Kreps said he ordered the move after several students groups requested the tribute. He consulted no higher authorities.

"I think it was an appropriate response to what I think was a tragic event," Kreps said.

A similar action was taken at the suggestion of Gov. Ronald Reagan after four highway patrolmen were killed in a gunbattle April 5 in Saugus. Kreps said he thought the situations were analoguous.

Kreps said he has had no complaints. "I don't see how anyone could feel offended by it." he said.

However, he added, "I imagine we'll get some (complaints) tomorrow."

Motel Room Looted

Five turtle neck sweaters, cocks, a deodorant, candy, a soft drink and 10 string neckties worth a total value of $65 were stolen yesterday between 7:30 a.m. and 6 p.m. from Jack D. Risso's room at the Bermuda Palms Motel; San Rafael police reported today. Risso's motel room was also burglarized last Wednesday, police said.

Woman Hit In Eye; Her Auto Hits Sign

Bernice Theresa Allen, 35, of 343 Irwin Street sustained knee and back injuries yesterday after the car she was driving hit a railroad sign on Irwin Street near Duffy Place, San Rafael police reported today.

The accident occurred at 7:30 p.m. when Mrs. Allen's car left the road after a flying object flew through her window and struck her left eye, police said. She refused an ambulance, according to police, and was taken home by her husband.

Texas Court Won't Bar Extradition

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — The Texas Court of Criminal Appeals upheld today Gov. Preston Smith's order extraditing Charles Watson of McKinney to California, where he is charged in the Sharon Tate murder.

The court said it had "no reason or right to prejudge a case to be tried in another state and will not do so."

The court thus disposed of the contention by Watson's lawyers that he should not be returned to California because of widespread news coverage of the Tate case.

The Criminal Appeals Court is the highest tribunal in Texas for such matters.

Referring to the argument concerning news reports of the Tate case, the Texas court said, "The proper forum to decide when the trial should be held is the California court. The review of the trial, if any, will be in the appellate courts of that state."

Watson reportedly received a letter from one of the other defendants urging him to stop fighting extradition so all defendants could present a united front at the trial.

Watson's lawyer, Bill Boyd said the bizarre slayings of Miss Tate and six other persons last August in Los Angeles had received more publicity in California than the "Kennedy assassination."

He said his client could not get a fair trial in Los Angeles and indicated that a California state judge would be under too much pressure to move the trial out of Los Angeles.

Collision On 101 Hurts Novatans; Teener Treated

Six persons, including a Novato mother and three of her children, were injured yesterday in an accident on Highway 101 just north of Sir Francis Drake Boulevard.

The California Highway Patrol said the accident occureed on the southbound freeway at 11:40 a.m. when a car driven by Shirley Swipes, 19, of 48 Echo Avenue, Corte Madera, drifted into a car driven by Susan E. Luna, 56, of 11 Tyler Street, Novato.

The Novato vehicle overturned, officers said, ejecting Georgina Luna, 1, onto the west shoulder of the freeway. The car came to rest on its roof.

Georgina and two other Luna children, Sherrie, 4, and Christine, 5, and Eileen Hearn, 53, of 230 Pico Vista, Novato, were treated for cuts and scrapes at Marin General Hospital. Mrs. Luna was reported in satisfactory condition today with a concussion.

Apple Pie For Mother's Day

From great grandmother's day when people traveled by horse and buggy to the modern age of speeding jet planes, apple pie has remained a dessert favorite. Highlight any dinner superbly with Old-Fashioned Apple Pie — its traditional ingredients make it a delicious dessert.

Oats in the crust give apple pie an extra bit of goodness — a toasty nutlike flavor and additional nutrition. Rich with butter, the tender crust further enhances apple filling. A variation, with a hint of spices, this apple filling has cinnamon and mace that complement each other, as well as sweet apple flavors. And a little lemon juice adds special zest to Old-Fashioned Apple Pie.

OLD-FASHIONED APPLE PIE

Pastry:
- 1½ cups sifted all-purpose flour
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 2/3 cup butter or margarine
- 1 cup quick or old fashioned oats, uncooked
- 6 to 8 tablespoons cold milk

Filling:
- 6 cups sliced peeled cooking apples
- 1 cup firmly packed brown sugar
- 3 tablespoons sifted all-purpose flour
- 1 teaspoon cinnamon
- ½ teaspoon mace
- ¼ teaspoon salt
- 1 tablespoon lemon juice*

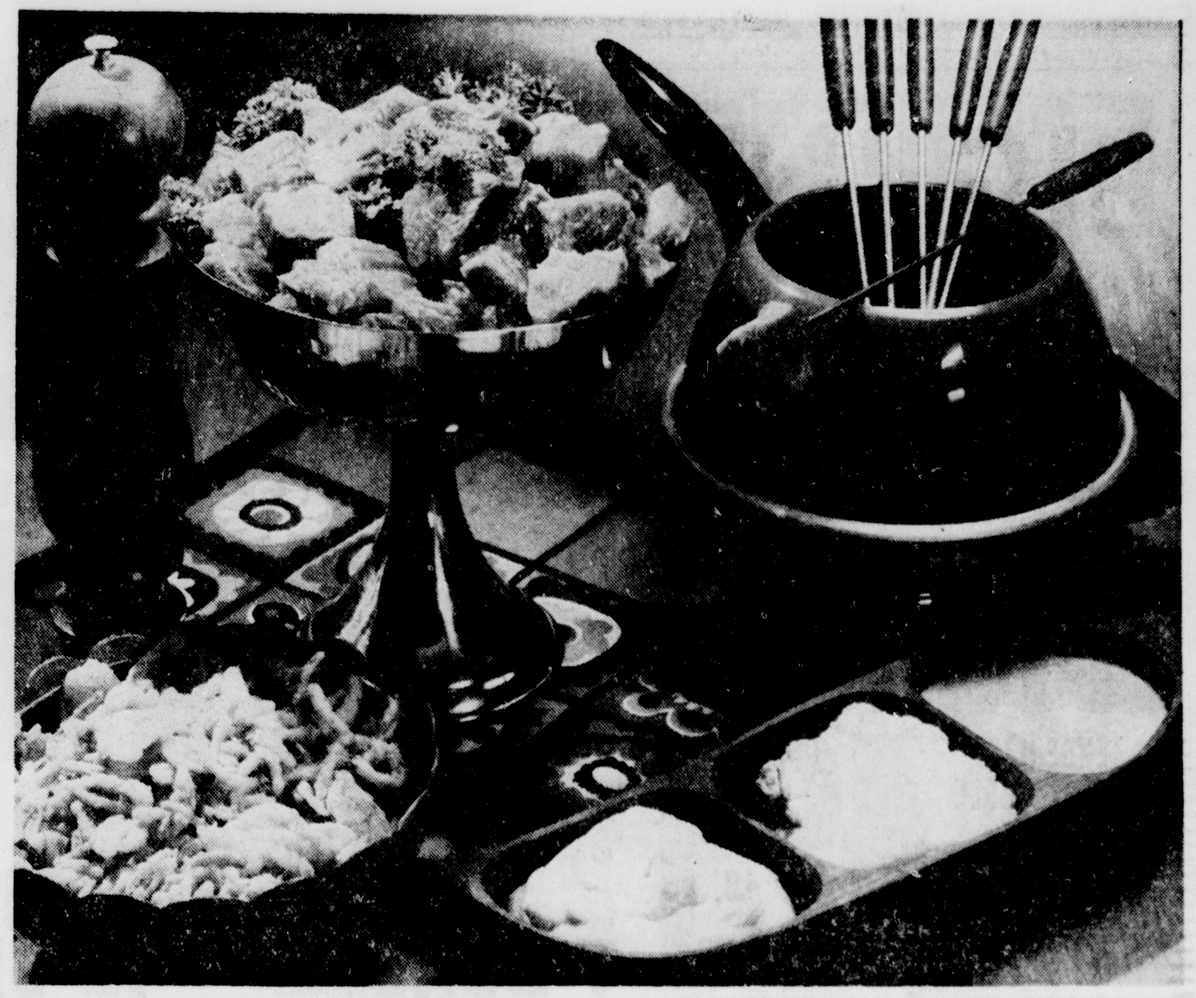
Heat oven to hot (425°F.). For pastry, sift together flour and salt. Cut in butter until mixture resembles coarse crumbs. Stir in oats. Sprinkle milk by tablespoonfuls over mixture and stir lightly until dampened. Form into ball. Divide dough into two parts, one slightly larger.

Roll out large part of dough on lightly floured board or canvas to form 13-inch circle. Fit loosely into 9-inch pie plate. Trim. For filling, combine all ingredients; place in pie shell.

Roll remaining dough to form 12-inch circle and cut slits for steam to escape. Place over filling; trim. Turn edges under; flute.

Bake in preheated over (425°F.) 15 minutes. Reduce heat to moderate (375°); bake about 45 minutes longer, or until filling is bubbly.

* Omit if using tart apples.



To Serve A Poor Man's Beef Fondue

Love beef fondue but can't afford the most tender cut of steak? Lean, boneless and economical California beef chuck serves beautifully when treated with instant meat tenderizer. Sprinkle with tenderizer, pierce the beef chunks and let stand for half an hour . . .the chuck will be as tender as it is flavorful. Allow a third to a half pound beef per person.

For casual entertaining, nothing's as popular as dinner around the fondue pot. Everyone can enjoy beef cooked exactly to their liking in hot oil. Here we've used an electric pot with conveniently controlled heat but other kinds will do, too. To sauce the beef, whip up three easy dips of hot mustard, curry mayonnaise and horseradish cream, or dream up some concoction on your own. For dinner, limit the guests to four per fondue pot. For larger crowds this dipping beef makes a great hors d'oeuvre.

Quality beef is a source of inspiration for elegant tasting but economical party dishes. Pot roasts with imaginative sauces, beef stew in red wine, and all kinds of spicy ground beef balls are just a few good ideas. All cuts of beef provide nutritious protein, minerals and vitamins.

POOR MAN'S BEEF FONDUE
- 2 pounds lean boneless beef chuck
- Unseasoned instant meat tenderized
- 3 cups peanut oil
- Hot mustard sauce
- Curry mayonnaise
- Horseradish cream

Cut beef in 1-inch cubes and sprinkle with meat tenderizer, according to label directions. Pierce with sharp fork and let stand at room temperature ½ hour. Refrigerate if beef is to be cooked later. Heat oil in fondue pot to 400°F. Skewer chunks of beef and cook in oil to desired degree of doneness. Serve with sauces. Makes about 6 servings.

HOT MUSTARD SAUCE: Blend ½ cup dry mustard with ½ cup hot water, ¼ teaspoon salt and 1 tablespoon cooking oil. Makes about ½ cup.

CURRY MAYONNAISE: Stir 1 teaspoon curry powder into ½ cup of mayonnaise. Makes ½ cup.

HORSERADISH CREAM: Whip ½ cup whipping cream until stiff. Fold in 1 tablespoon drained prepared horseradish and ½ cup fine soft bread crumbs (crusts removed). Makes about 1 cup.

A MAY WELCOME

Garden Vegetables Go Into A Farmer's Delight Salad

Welcome the pleasant weather and outdoor activities with the fresh garden foods and vegetables that are so abundant this time of year.

If your family needs a bit of urging to eat those nourishing vegetables, try serving this Farmer's Delight Salad with an American blue cheese accent.

The elegant combination of lettuce, cucumbers, onions, carrots, peas and American blue cheese in a bacon dressing is an intriguing flavor delight that is reminiscent of the old fashioned salad recipes Grandma would have been proud to serve.

Also, to give the salad extra flair, simply crumble some additional blue cheese over the top. Since it tastes like a lot, it can be used regularly.

FARMERS DELIGHT SALAD
(Serves 4-6)
- ½ head of lettuce
- 5 green onions
- 10 radishes, sliced
- 1 medium cucumber, peeled and sliced
- 1 cup sliced, cooked carrots
- ½ cup thinly sliced celery
- 1½ cups cooked peas
- ¼ pound bacon
- ¼ cup bacon drippings
- 1 tablespoon flour
- 3 tablespoons vinegar
- 1½ tablespoons sugar
- ½ teaspoon dry mustard
- ½ cup milk
- ½ cup American blue cheese (about 3 ounces, crumbled)
- 1 small green pepper, cut into rings
- 2 medium tomatoes, cut into wedges

Break lettuce into bite-sized pieces. Slice green onions 2" beyond white portion. Place in salad bowl. Add radishes, cucumber, carrots, celery and peas.

Cook bacon until crisp. Drain and crumble. Set aside. In hot drippings, mix flour to form smooth paste. Remove from heat. Stir in vinegar, sugar and mustard. Slowly add milk stirring till blended. Add blue cheese and bacon crumbles.

Pour dressing over all and toss lightly. Garnish the entire salad with tomato wedges and green pepper rings.

OFFER A CHANGE of pace salad idea this pring by preparing a hearty Farmer's Delight Salad. This combination of crisp garden vegetables and the added tang of American blue cheese make a flavorful specialty that turns ordinary vegetables into an elegant springtime specialty.

Viennese Linzer Torte

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
AP Food Editor

Linzer Torte Coffee

LINZER TORTE
- 2 cups sifted flour
- 3 teaspoons cinnamon
- ½ teaspoon ground cloves
- 1 cup (2 sticks) butter
- 1 cup sugar
- 2 egg yolks, from large eggs
- 1½ teaspoons grated lemon rind
- 1½ cups whole shelled unblanched almonds, grated fine in electric blender or hand-operated rotary-cone nut grater
- 1 jar (12 ounces) red raspberry jelly (1 generous cupful)

On wax paper sift together the flour, cinnamon and cloves. In large mixing bowl cream butter and sugar; beat in egg yolks and lemon rind, then almonds. Add flour mixture; work in as well as you can with a wooden spoon, then work with hands until dough is formed.

Pat two-thirds of dough over bottom and sides of a round cake pan (9 by 1½ inches) with removable bottom. Spread jelly over dough. With remaining dough use hands to form eight short rolls. On a smooth surface with your hands, roll the rolls back and forth until they are about 8 inches long.

Place four rolls one way over jam; place remaining rolls over jam the opposite way to give a lattice effect. Press ends of rolls against dough at sides of pan. (Dough will puff up in oven and fill pan so don't worry because torte looks low.)

Bake in a preheated 350-degree oven until browned—about 40 minutes. Cool partly. Run a small metal spatula around sides to loosen; remove sides of pan. Cool completely. Serve small wedges of torte because it is quite sweet and rich. Store in a tightly covered tin box.

Spiced-Up Marinade

For snappy marinade, mix 1 teaspoon of dry mustard with 1 teaspoon of warm water. Let stand 10 minutes for flavor to develop. In small saucepan, combine mustard with ½ cup of vinegar, 1 teaspoon each of onion salt, garlic salt and celery salt, ½ teaspoon of poultry seasoning and ¼ teaspoon of ground black pepper. Bring just to a boil. Cool before using on beef, lamb, seafood or vegetables. Makes about ¾ cup.

Another Mother For Peace

By BETH GAEDDERT

"It was Josh's first birthday. The year had gone so fast. I realized I could wake up one morning faced with sending him off to war" — a young Los Angeles housewife.

The woman to whom this realization came three years ago decided she should be doing something herself about bringing peace to the world. She gathered 14 friends in her living room one day and six weeks later close to 200,000 Mother's Day cards with the message, "War is not healthy for children and other living things," were sent to President Lyndon B. Johnson and members of Congress.

This constituted the founding of Another Mother For Peace, a non-profit, non-partisan association whose goal is to eliminate war as a means of settling disputes between nations, peoples and ideologies. Their work consists almost entirely of sending letters to Washington.

CURRENT MEMBERSHIP is about 125,000 with an estimated 10,000 members in the Bay Area.

One of them is Mrs. David Rosen of San Rafael who also has a son Josh. A couple of years ago Mrs. Rosen saw some of the literature on Another Mother For Peace and noticed the story of the founder and her son Josh.

"I guess that's why I joined," Mrs. Rosen said.

"There are a great many women who have never written a letter (to a Congressman) in their life. This is a way they can make their views known and feel comfortable with it," she said. The letter writing is done, she pointed out, through absolutely legal channels. And it is one of the few non-violent ways left to express your views, she said.

"Women constitute at least half the voting force," she said, "but unfortunately they don't realize the power they have. The first year I sent about 40 Mother's Day cards and received about 30 answers. So they have been read. It's really enlightening to read the replies," she said. They have included a copy of Sen. Vance Hartke's (D-Ind.) bill to create a department of peace — a move supported by Another Mother For Peace.

"WOMEN HAVE been brainwashed by the male population into thinking that they shouldn't be involved in international affairs," she said.

Members receive an informative monthly newsletter telling which congressmen are voting on what anti-war measures and a "Peace Homework" section with addresses of key congressmen.

A current campaign of the organization is to urge Washington to vote to stop testing MIRV, multiple independently targeted re-entry vehicle.

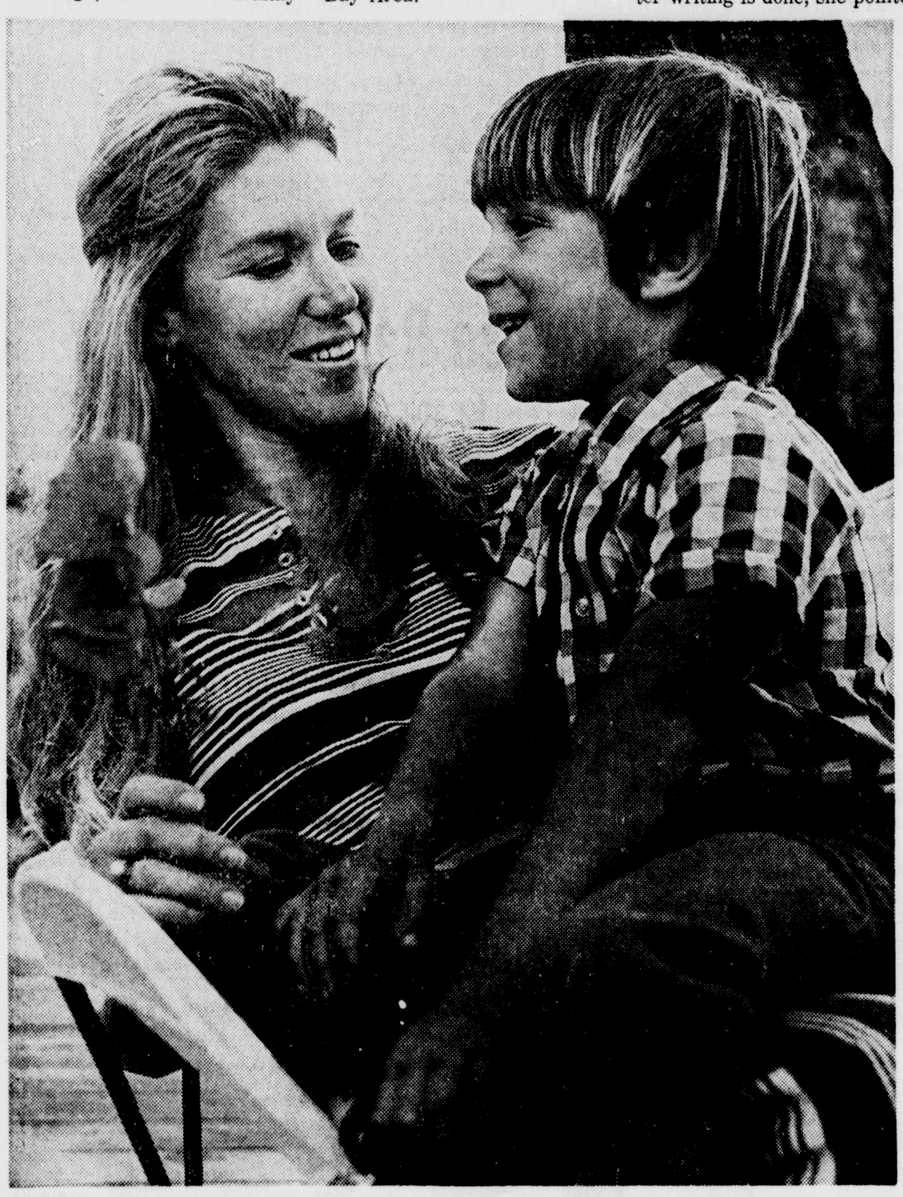
"Placed on a missile, it carries from three to 10 nuclear bombs, capable of striking different targets and each having more than twice the explosive power of the Hiroshima bombs" the newsletter says.

This week telegrams were sent to members of the Senate and House with the Message,"125,000 mothers say no to Cambodia. We support any action to re-establish constitutional right of Congress to declare war."

AN ARTICULATE young mother who keeps track of what the country's legislators are doing, Mrs. David Rosen said she was active in the peace movement ("what there was of it") four years ago in Cincinnatti. She doesn't consider herself an average member of Another Mother For Peace because her interest in the movement has gone beyond writing letters. In the Bay Area she has marched in the peace marches and now does work for the candidates Another Mother For Peace supports with donations. Those who "have spoken out in aiming this country in another direction."

To launch a world campaign to unite all mothers in declaring a "Pax Materna," the group is sponsoring a luncheon Saturday at the Hilton Hotel in San Francisco. Angie Brooks, president of the United Nations General Assembly will speak.

The Pax Materna will be translated in all languages and spread around the world. It reads: "We join our sisters in every land in a Pax Materna, a declaration of Peace, to transcend our ideological differences and to prevail throughout any acts of violence between our governments. War is obsolete. We can no longer sustain it by our silence or with the lives of our sons. For now, forever, there is no mother who is enemy to another mother."



"OUR SONS die to change maps, not minds," says a newsletter from Another Mother For Peace. A member of that group, whose main activity is writing letters to Washington urging peace legislation is Mrs. David Rosen of San Rafael who does not relish the thought of sending six-year-old Josh off to some future war. PRINCESS MARGARET and Lord Snowdden are celebrating their 10th wedding anniversary today. Here they stroll through the woods at Badminton, England, with their children, Viscount Lindley, 9; and Lady Armstrong-Jones, who was 6 last Friday. (UPI Telephoto)

TENTH ANNIVERSARY

Princess Margaret And Tony

Marin Women

Wednesday, May 6, 1970 Independent-Journal, 17

By MARGARET SAVILLE

LONDON (UPI)—A million persons lined the streets of London to catch a glimpse of the romantic couple and the oohs and ahs rippled around the world as the bells of Westminster Abbey rang out the news that a royal princess was being wed.

That was on May 6, 1960, and now Britain's Princess Margaret, the petite "little sister" of Queen Elizabeth II, and the surprise man of her choice— Anthony Armstrong Jones, now the Earl of Snowdon—are old married folk observing their 10th anniversary.

The memory of the surprise— even shock—that greeted the news of Princess Margaret's choice of a husband lingers even after a decade.

WHEN THE engagement was announced the same question echoed through all Britain, the commonwealth and the world:

"Who is Armstrong Jones?"

The reply—"a photographer" —did little to clarify the situation. Rather, it served to deepen the bafflement. For the princess who was third in line to the throne had chosen to wed the least likely of all the men who ever had sued for her hand.

Some of the courtiers at Buckingham Palace were confused to the extreme point of asking journalists what they knew about this man, Anthony Armstrong Jones (he added a hyphen between his last two names later).

Bit by bit the extraordinary facts were stitched together.

ARMSTRONG-JONES was a photographer, often seen in a black leather jacket, scooting around the Bohemian Chelsea district on a motorcycle. He had a studio in a converted shop on the fringe of London's working class Pimlicco District. His family was comfortably placed but neither rich nor titled. He was of medium height, limped a little when tired because of childhood polio, previously had been the companion of a pretty Chinese girl. He was good-looking in a boyish way.

And the princess loved him, so what mattered that he was a stranger to the public and that the enthusiasm of the royal family to the match was distinctly muted?

Ten years later, the marriage long since has been accepted by the royal family and the Snowdons are 40 years old and the parents of two attractive children — Viscount Lindley, nine in November, and Lady Sarah Armstrong-Jones, six May 1.

There still are no close associations between Lord Snowdon and Buckingham Palace. Prince Philip, Queen Elizabeth's husband who was among those who first opposed the marriage, is polite but does not make a friend of his ex-photographer brother-in-law.

SNOWDON MEETS his in-laws on such "family occasions" as Christmas at Windsor Castle and the summer holidays at Balmoral Castle in Scotland.

He escorts Princess Margaret on such state and official occasions that require an escort. He showed a striking measure of independence in insisting early in the marriage on the right to work, and the queen capitulated despite the tradition that the royal family does not "engage in trade."

Snowdon works as a free lance photographer and in television, and has ambitions as a film producer. His earnings are a fraction of the income of the princess who gets a state allowance of $43,200 a year plus monies from her substantial private investments.

The Snowdons pay no rent or taxes on their house in Kensington Palace, a "grace and favor" London home allotted by the queen. The palace, of relatively modest dimensions, represents a melange of their tastes and living style.

MARGARET DECORATED the reception rooms in blue and green with traditional antique furniture. Snowdon constructed a modernistic study in the basement, decorated with leather and steel and fancy woodwork—all his own. He has an adjoining photographic laboratory. They have separate bedrooms and bathrooms.

There is no room in the mansion for large parties, so gatherings generally are limited to eight or 10 guests, with food occasionally prepared by the Snowdons. Sometimes Queen Elizabeth drops in alone for lunch or dinner. Princess Anne, Margaret's niece, is another sometime visitor. Prince Charles, heir to the throne, rarely visits, nor do the other royals.

The marriage pattern of the Snowdons seems to be they do their own things, either together or individually. Princess Margaret dislikes her husband's traveling but yields to it. He is often in New York on photographic business and adores the city. The princess is another fan of New York but cannot break away from her commitments.

They have the same friends. For example, Richard Burton, television commentator David Frost, handsome American film producer Ken Hyman and assorted television and radio people, newspaper columnists, actors, actresses, pop singers and the fashion crowd.

PRINCESS MARGARET'S old premassiage 'set" — the

Marin Jewish Center Awarded $29,000 For Pre-Schoolers

The Marin Jewish Community Center has been awarded a three year grant in the amount of $29,000 to develop a preschool program which will integrate hearing handicapped, neurologically handicapped and non-handicapped youngsters for the first time. The award was announced by John R. May, executive director of the San Francisco Foundation and Lloyd W. Dinkelspiel, president of the United Jewish Community Centers of which the Marin Center is a branch.

The Marin Center has provided an informal integrated preschool experience for hearing handicapped children for the past year and one half. These children had been referred by the Marin County Superintendent of Schools Department of Special Education. Seeing that the program was beneficial to both the handicapped and non-handicapped children, the center decided to formalize the program and add children with neurological problems.

MOST OF THE children will be referred by the parent or pediatrician who has noted that the child has a minor deficiency. It is estimated by many doctors and educators that 15 to 30 per cent of the "normal" children suffer from neurological deficits of one form or another which have a detrimental effect on the learning process. This child may be just a little slow to talk or just a little slow to walk or have so much energy that the mother doesn't know what to do to make the child slow down. On the basis of these estimates and the center's own experience with its nursery school through the years, there may be children in the current pre-school program who could benefit from the special program.

The program will be recruiting those children with marginal deficits; deficits that could be eliminated through remediation and not in need of a pre-school experience on a segregated basis. Under the program, those referred because of a problem will be evaluated on several diagnostic tools by qualified specialists with the hearing and neurologically handicapped. These specialists will also be staffing the program together with regular early education teachers. In addition, parents of the regular nursery school children will have the option of taking advantage of the diagnostic services offered through the project.

All of the children will participate in a nursery program that will have the activities that are usually found in a pre-school program, according to Bernard Rosner, executive director of the center. In addition there will be special activities used for remediation of hearing and neurological deficits. The project children will undergo continuous observation and evaluation and it is expected that several of the non-handicapped group children will find their way into the project group, says Rosner, who will be supervising the program.

"IT IS NOT the purpose of the center to merely conduct a research program" he says. "The center will continue to place service first."

For example, if a normal child is observed to have a functional problem, the parents of that child will be called in for a conference in order to explain the problem and to ask the parents to follow up with a visit to the child's pediatrician for an examination" he explains. "Following that, and upon the advice of the physician, the parent may elect to enroll the child as a project client.

The project, which will be gin to accept children during the summer for fall enrollment, will accept a total of six hearing handicapped and six neurologicaly handicapped children between the ages of 2 years and 9 months and 5 years. Transportation will be available.

HELEN HELP US!

By HELEN BOTTEL

More Readers Wrote About Rabbit Problems Than Any Other Kind

DEAR READERS:

Which letters bought most response in the last few months?

Outside of the anti-midi skirt deluge which showered down thousands of cards, rabbits have it by a wide margin.

(And I still say there's something very right with a world that reacts more to gardens and gals' legs than to the ugly side of life.)

In case you, like our Florida Gardener, are bugged by bunnies, here's help from my correspondents:

DEAR HELEN:

A noted horicultural lecturer, Roy Kersey, suggests that to keep rabbits out of your garden, bury glass pop bottles upright in the ground with one or two inches protruding and space about three feet apart. Breeze blowing through the openings makes a sound disagreeable to the varmints, who vamoose. — MRS. C.M.

DEAR HELEN:

Please tell the Florida gardener that if he places moth balls or camphor flakes down his rows of vegetables he'll have no more rabbit problems. — FROM NEW JERSEY

DEAR HELEN:

I don't know anything about Florida rabbits, but sulphur around the plants works like a charm in Missouri. — MRS. R.B.

DEAR HELEN:

Make a wide circle of dried blood all around the garden and the bunnies won't trespass. You can get it at most fertilizer departments. — MRS. R.R.

(And on a slightly gruesome note:)

DEAR HELEN:

I once had the problem of rabbits in my garden. I tried everything from paris green to arsenic dust on the leaves, but they seemed to thrive on the provender.

Finally I shot one of the marauders and chopped him up in a tub of water. I then sprinkled the bloody mess on my plants, and the bunnies abstained from gobbling my garden. — MR. B.R. FROM CALIFORNIA

DEAR HELEN:

Try cheap talcum powder on the ground around your plants. — ILLINOIS

DEAR HELEN:

Soak a teaspoon or more of garlic powder in a quart of hot water. Let cool and spray plant leaves two or three times a week. No more rabbits. — PENNSYLVANIA

And this one I like best of all, though I'm afraid modern rabbits wouldn't fall for the ruse:

DEAR HELEN:

Around the turn of the century, our family decided one spring to put an acre of our Florida plantation into strawberries. After backbreaking work to clear the high swamp land, we surveyed with pardonable pride the long rows of plants we had just set out. Next morning, we found our garden swept clean by rabbits.

While we were surveying the wreck, an elderly ex-slave came up and told us how to keep rabbits from strawberry patches: You surround the beds with rows of black bottles stuck into the ground neck down, and the nibblers, thinking they were "tar babies" would not come near. Of course if today's rabbits aren't familiar with "Uncle Remus" this might not work. — MR. E.P.

This column is dedicated to family living, so if you're having kid trouble or just plain trouble, let Helen help you. Address Helen Bottel in care of the Independent-Journal.

Columnist Defends His Stand On Life Insurance Returns

By Arthur E. Rowse

WASHINGTON — "Dear Sir: You are biased. . .You lie. . .You don't know anything about life insurance . . .You are anti-life insurance . . "

So go the cries of the wounded coming to this writer by letter and telephone, including an anonymous call at 3:45 a.m. All have come from life insurance agents and almost all from one company.

They all object to a previous column which said claims of 40 or 50 per cent returns in one year to policy holders are deceptive because no life insurance returns even as much as 4 per cent, except when death occurs.

The column, based on an insurance expert's testimony to a Senate subcommittee, also criticized use of the word "profit" when "dividends" and cash values exceed premiums paid over a period of years.

Such claims, said the column, ignore the larger amount of money that would have been earned if the policyholder had purchased term (pure protection) insurance and invested the difference between its premiums and those of "whole-life" or "cash-value" life insurance.

Only one of the complaining agents cited usable figures in an attempt to show that a policyholder could "profit" from "whole life" insurance. He compared two $100,000 policies, one in term insurance, the other in "whole life" insurance.

For a 20-year-old male, premiums over 20 years would total $5,662 for the term policy and $30,400 for the "whole life," a difference of approximately $24,000.

The agent concluded, however, that the "whole life" policy was better because "dividends" and cash value came to roughly $45,700 while the man was paying $30,400 in premiums.

What the agent ignored is the amount that the term policyholder could have earned elsewhere by investing the $24,000 difference in premiums. At only 4 per cent in a bank savings account, it would have grown to $61,900, which is $16,200 more than the other policy would have returned.

Much more important is what his widow would get. If he died at the end of 20 years, she would receive $100,000 under both policies. But with the term policy, she would also have a $61,900 investment to cash in.

If he died after cashing in his "whole life" policy, his widow would have only the cash value of $30,300. With term, she would have a $100,000 insurance payment to her plus the continuing investment worth $61,900, less, of course, any part of it he may have cashed in.

Actually, the advantages of term insurances are much greater. For most investors can make more than 4 per cent a year. Yet no life insurance policy will return that much over the long haul unless death occurs prematurely

In fact, Iam so certain of that fact that I will publicly eat my hat, coat and necktie — and report in a future column — if any agent can prove otherwise. All he has to do is to show one case in which "dividends" and cash values paid to a policyholder (say for 20 years starting at age 35) have amounted to more than what he could have earned by investing the difference between term and "whole life" premiums at 4 per cent.

In case of dispute, I am even willing to take the decision of the industry's own association, the Institute of Life Insurance. Simply address me at the Independent-Journal or at 1023 National Press Bldg, Washington, D. C. 20004.

Marin County reservations chairmen are Mrs. Lester Bud Livingston Jr. of Corte Madera and Mrs. David Rosen of San Rafael.

THE EARTHQUAKE last fall caused postponement of the house tour in Santa Rosa sponsored by the Saturday Afternoon Club of Santa Rosa, so the club has rescheduled the tour for Thursday. Previously sold tickets will be honored, but tour guests must pick up new maps at the clubhouse, 430 Tenth St., Santa Rosa, as the tour homes have been changed, announced the president, Mrs. Roy Bill. Tour hours are 1 to 4:30 p.m., with tea served at the clubhouse during the afternoon.

Anniversary

Through the years the Snowdons have had their differences and spats but probably not more than most couples. In 1967 there was a serious row that some of their intimates thought might lead to a breakup.

It is not known when the Snowdons again may visit the United States, but they have a trip on tap for June. They are to visit Yugoslavia as the guests of President Tito. It is an unusual arrangement for a Communist country, but the Snowdons have the flexibility to mix with anyone and Buckingham Palace is certain the trip will be successful.

More School Raises Voted In Fairfax

The Fairfax School District board last night approved salary increases for three district employees who were not included in increases granted last month to the district's teaching and nonteaching staffs, Supt. H. Reginald Hammond reported.

Hammond's annual salary was raised from $17,500 to $21,000 and the district's executive secretary and director of building, grounds and maintenance were given new salary schedules ranging from $670 a month to $856. The present schedule ranges from $585 to $785.

The secretary, Gwyneth McGee, will receive $856 a month next year, and the director of maintenance, Loren Butcher, $775. Part-time salaries were also increased last night from $2.15 an hour to $2.50.

All other district employees received increases, averaging 7.5 per cent last month.

The Fairfax School District board also:

PSYCHOLOGIST — Approved having Hugh Cox, district psychologist, work on a full-time basis next year. He is presently working half time. Salary will be paid with federal and state funds provided for the programs with which he will work.

TEACHER — Learned that Julia Reade Carter, a teacher on leave this year and who had requested an additional year's leave, will return as teacher of the educationally handicapped program next year.

GARDENER — Approved hiring a gardener for next year. No selection has yet been made.

BUDGET — Postponed consideration of budget proposals to its next meeting, May 19, when the salary increases will be incorporated in the proposals.

REPAIR — Approved a time and materials contract with John Williams Grading Co. of San Anselmo for repair of flood damage on White Hill Creek. Hammond said the cost should not go over $3,000 and the district has been authorized $2,080 in federal flood control funds for the work.

FLAG — Accepted a check for $13.20 for the purchase of an American flag from Fairfax Parlor 307 of the Native Sons of the Golden West.

MUSEUM — Approved a contract for services from the Louise A. Boyd Museum. The district will pay $.20 per student, or about $220, Hammond said.

RESIGNATION — Accepted the resignation of student teacher Jeanette Harris, who had been offered a full-time position next year. She and her husband are moving from Marin.

REPORTS — Received a report from Marsha Hagen, chairman of a joint parent-teacher committee studying reporting procedures. Hammond said the district hopes to have a new system in effect on a pilot basis by September.

June Draft Call Set At 15,000

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Pentagon announced today a draft call of 15,000 for the month of June, the same as in May. All inductees will go to the Army.

Monthly draft calls so far this year were the highest in February, March and April, with 19,000 called for induction in each of those months. The January figure was 12,500.

The Volga River is ice-free only about 250 days annually in the southern area and 215 days in the north. Spring brings floods; late summer exposes perilous shifting sandbanks.

Fund Voted For Russian River Study

The North Marin County Water District board last night voted to spend $2,540 as its share of an engineering study of the Russian River aqueduct in cooperation with Marin Municipal Water District and the Sonoma County Water Agency, according to Eugene Churchill, manager.

The North Marin district's cost will come out of a reserve fund which the district has established with the Sonoma County Water Agency for that purpose, Churchill said.

The North Marin board, along with Marin Municipal and Sonoma Water boards will meet at 7:30 p.m., May 18 at the North Marin office to interview three financial consultants for the Russian River project, Churchill said. They are Blythe and Co., Bank of America and Stone and Youngberg, all of San Francisco.

The North Marin County Water District board also:

AGREEMENTS — Approved a $71,237 construction agreement for the Oaks Unit 1 in Wild Horse Valley; a $45,710 agreement for Scottsdale Village Unit 1 with Western Hosts Inc. and a short extension for Dante Panfiglio for a lot on Wilson Avenue.

SIGN — Deferred action on a proposed sign for Lynwood Park as proposed by the Lynwood Park Improvement Association for the pump station at Sunset Parkway and South Novato Boulevard.

ANNEXATION — Annexed the district's pump station and tank site on San Marin Drive to the Novato Sanitary District.

SLADE PARK — Refused to reduce the $225 cost of taking water to Slade Park, but gave the Poplar Terrace Improvement Association six months to pay it.

COLLECTIONS — Approved paying former board member William Jonas five cents for each water bill which is paid at his stores in Novak Square and Ignacio.

Bolinas-Stinson School Budget Drops Slightly

A $195,422 preliminary operating budget for the 1970-71 school year was approved last night by trustees of the Bolinas-Stinson School District, according to board secretary Avis Pattison.

Mrs. Pattison said the proposed budget, which will be submitted to the Marin County schools office for preliminary approval, is slightly less than this year's $205,485 budget.

Income for the district was estimated at $196,850, leaving about $1,400 in funds not yet expended in the budget, she said.

The board also heard a report from Supt. Clarence B. Larison on the operation of Stinson School, heavily damaged in a recent arson fire. He said the school has been operating smoothly, with children attending classes in a portable unit which was not burned in the fire.

Trustees authorized Richard V. Godino, assistant county counsel, to act as its representative in any legal matters resulting from the fire. Larison said it will cost approximately $49,000 if the board decides to put the school back into operating order.

Trustees took no action on a statement of resignation read at the meeting by William Niman, a teacher at Stinson School. Niman said he will submit an official letter of resignation, effective at the end of the school year, at a later date.

No action was taken on a proposal to decrease the number of classified employees in the district from four to three by eliminating one custodian, according to Mrs. Pattison.

The board set a special meeting to discuss buildings and grounds with the district's architect for May 25 at 8 p.m. in Bolinas School.

Car-Bike Collision Injures Boy's Knee

Richard Edward Santa, 13, of 68 Ridgewood Drive, San Rafael, was treated yesterday at Marin General Hospital for a bruised left knee after his bicycle struck a car at 4:47 p.m., San Rafael police reported today.

Santa's bike collided with a car driven by Elvira Marie Hardin, 52, of 205 Mark Twain Avenue, Santa Venetia as she was leaving a driveway on H Street near Fifth Avenue, according to police.

Chamber Music Concerts Slayed

Two chamber music concerts under the auspices of the San Francisco Conservatory of Music will be presented, one this Sunday and the other next Sunday at 1:30 p.m. in the Mill Valley Public Library, according to Milton Salkind of Mill Valley, executive director of the conservatory.

The programs will be performed by 20 outstanding young musicians from high schools all over the Bay Area who are enrolled on scholarships in the conservatory's chamber music preparatory department headed by Mrs. Robert Kurka.

Performed Sunday will be a Beethoven trio and string quartet and a Brahms piano trio.

Pinheiro Site Favored For Regional Shopping

After listening to more than three hours of argument, the Novato City Council last night backed up its action of a week ago and unanimously declared the Pinheiro property its choice for a regional shopping center.

But it was not done without some crossfire on the different philosophies on planning which have divided the Novato City Council and planning commission the past two years. However, former planning commission members now hold two seats on the council.

A week ago the council banned commercial development on the Pinheiro property, the area at San Marin Drive and Highway 101 and the area at Highway 101 and 37, pending study of their proper use.

Thomas Cooke of Sedway and Cooke, planning consultants, showed colored slides of drawings demonstrating possible development of the Pinheiro property north of Olive Avenue into a regional shopping center. It would have an overpass over Highway 101 so that it could add land between Highway 101 and Northwestern Pacific Railroad.

His second choice would be the area of San Marin Drive. He said that the crossroads area, or at Highway 101 and 37 might have to be "downzoned."

Cooke said that after his plan is completed in July, meetings with the owner and prospective tenants to develop the site would take six to eight months.

This drew objection from real estate dealer Joseph Wright. He said he is in the final stages of leasing to a major tenant, 106,000 square feet at the crossroads shopping center for a department store.

"This has been zoned for commercial for almost 10 years," he said of the crossroads site.

"Put this plan (Sedway and Cooke's) in the file for 10 years and see what you can do now for Grant Avenue." Wright said. He said that was the original purpose of the downtown study.

Thomas E. Schaal, San Rafael attorney, said that Crossroads, Inc. has plans for 180,000 square feet of shopping center which will cost about $2.5 million to construct.

Schaal hinted a lawsuit when he said that Crossroads, Inc. would explore "al avenues" possible to protect the commercial zoning on which they have been paying the high rate of taxes.

Planning Commissioner Beverly Ehreth said that it was time Novato got its philosophy on planning fought out.

"We have been going along with the rights of property owners to develop their own property just so they can make a buck; maybe we should turn to the rights of a community to plan its future," she said.

She added that it may be too late to save Grant Avenue and the street should be turned into senior citizen housing because they would be near shopping.

Councilman J. Wayne Womack said he was proud of Grant Avenue improvement in the past four or five years.

"We have made tremendous strides in the past four years, more than the previous 20," he countered.

Lone Survivor Of Crash Now Critical

Capt. George Burk, the lone survivor of Monday's crash of a T-29 in the Sonoma Hills above Sears Point minutes after take-off from Hamilton Air Force Base, today was reported in critical condition at the Special Army Burn Center in San Antonio, Tex., according to officials at Hamilton Air Force Base.

Burke, 29, of 142 Westover Circle, Hamilton, survived the crash which killed 13 others. He was flown directly to the center and yesterday was reported as serious. Today his condition worsened and he was placed on the critical list.

Hill Road, Arthur Street Bids Sought By Novato

Bids for straightening the intersection of Hill Road and Diablo Avenue and for extension of Arthur Street to Indian Valley Road were called last night by the Novato City Council.

The council ordered that plans submitted by bidders must be approved by the city's plan review committee.

The extension of Arthur Street is estimated at $85,000 and the Hill Road straightening, $73,800, according to Clifford E. Temps, director of public works.

The council members expressed concern that in order to straighten Hill Road, the city must make a 33 foot cutbank. This is in violation of the city ordinance which limits cutbanks to 20 feet.

The council also approved starting condemnation for the right-of-way.

Councilman J. Wayne Womack, who came in late, abstained from voting. Councilman George C. Quesada, who seconded the motion for approval, then abstained from voting also.

The Novato City Council also:

RECLASSIFICATION — Approved new job descriptions and qualifications for secretaries, planners and police officers.

TOWNHOUSES — Approved plans for 67 townhouses for Western Hosts on Scottsdale Boulevard.

SMOKING — By 3-2 vote refused to back the public utilities commission smoking ban on buses. Councilmen Quesada and Joseph Gargiulo favored the no-smoking rule.

CLOSED — Held a closed meeting to appoint two members to the planning commission, but failing to do so, adjourned at 1:15 a.m. until 7 p.m. Friday in the council chambers to make the appointments.

Court Told $3,800 Given To Alioto

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A man identified by Look magazine as a former Pennsylvania Mafia gangster says he contributed $3,800 to Mayor Joseph Alioto's election campaign and inaugural dnner.

The man, Salvatore Marino, 72, also testified Tuesday that money from the numbers racket in Pennsylvania was used to form the California Cheese Co. of San Jose, Calif., which he heads.

Marino testified in the 12th day of the trial of a $12.5 million libel suit Alioto filed against the magazine for the article, in the Sept. 23, 1969, issue, alleging links between the mayor and the Mafia.

Marino and his son, Angelo, are co-owners of the cheese company. Asked where he got the money to found the company, Marino replied:

"After 30 years in this country I had a little money."

Asked if some of the money came from Pennsylvania numbers rackets, Marino said:

"Well, whatever you want to call it."

Marino also testified he first met Alioto when he applied for a Small Business Administration loan but said he had known Alioto's father some five years after moving to California in 1949.

The witness' son, Angelo, al so testified Tuesday, saying he and his father had met with Alioto last September to discuss the Look article.

"We were looking to file a lawsuit also," he said. "We decided to wait a while."

The elder Marino testified he contributed about $2,000 to Alo's campaign for mayor, bought ten $100 tickets to a campaign dinner in the fall of 1967 and bought eight $100 eickets to the inaugural ball.

The younger Marino testified he met twice with Alioto over possible sale of the cheese company because of his health.

But he denied he met in Alioto's office in 1964 with reputed Mafia executioner James Fratianno, as alleged by the magazine article.

Mariano, 46, admitted that he knew Fratianno socially and had dinner at Fratianno's Sacramento home.

Another witness, Rudy Papale, the mayor's brother-in-law, testified he knew Frank Bompensiero, identified in the article as the San Diego Mafia boss.

Papale said that as president of Regal Packing Co. he obtained help from Bompensiero in Regal's efforts to obtain permits to export lard to Mexico.

He also testified he ate at the Nut Tree restaurant on Feb. 25, 1964, with Alioto and the mayor's wife, but said no one else was with him.

The article alleges Alioto met with a number of Mafia members at the Nut Tree, located beside Interstate 80 between here and Sacramento, before mid-1964. Alioto has denied such meetings took place.

Camera Is Stolen

John A. O'Kane Jr., a geology instructor at the College of Marin, reported to sheriff's deputies Saturday that someone had stolen his camera, valued at $150, from Room T-1 in a temporary building at the Kentfield campus between 12:15 and 2:35 p.m.

Drive To Save East Brother Buildings

There is a campaign under way to save the historic buildings at the East Brother Island Lighthouse, east of San Rafael from demolition.

The lighthouse keeper left last July when the light was automated and the buildings, standing since 1874, are in jeopardy of being leveled.

The Victorian buildings, just off Point San Pablo, have been a San Francisco Bay landmark for decades and are visible from the Richmond-San Rafael Bridge.

To preserve the buildings, the Contra Costa Shoreline Parks Committee has opened a campaign to have East Brother Island Lighthouse listed in the National Register of Historic Places.

The listing of the island as an historic place will afford the buildings protection until some permanent arrangement can be devised for their use and preservation, the society reported.

The buildings are not immediately endangered, but are in a state of limbo that could result in their destruction, the society said.

The committee urged citizens interested in their project to write to William Penn Mott Jr., the state parks director, who also is the state's liaison officer with officials of the National Register.

Hub Spending Vote

The San Anselmo City Council in a special meeting last night approved spending up to $150 to mail out information about the new sign ordinance being drafted before public hearings are held.

Credit Stock Buying Down Payment Sliced

WASHINGTON (AP) — Effective today, the investor who buys $100 of stock on credit will have to make a minimum down payment of $65, instead of the $80 required by the Federal Reserve Board since 1968.

The seven-man board voted unanimously Tuesday to cut its 80 per cent margin requirement to 65 per cent, the lowest point in almost seven years. The move was greeted with restrained exuberance in Washington but enthusiasm on troubled Wall Street.

Margin on convertible bonds, those that can be converted into stock, was trimmed to 50 per cent from 60 per cent in a change affecting only new transactions.

The board, which has the power to regulate credit to prevent its excessive use, thus made it easier to buy stock on margin.

It cited Tuesday the steep decline in credit extended by stockbrokers—from $6.7 billion in June 1968, when margin went from 70 to 80 per cent, to $4.5 billion last March .

The decision came after persistent reports the New York Stock Exchange had asked for the cut on the grounds that the 80 per cent margin left little room for tightening the regulations to head off any speculative binge.

A spokesman for the board said he could not confirm or deny the Big Board had made a request.

In Washington, government economists said they considered the change a step in the right direction, although different studies, some made by the board and others by newspapers, have produced conflicting answers.

In a time of declining prices, the change means the investor will have to put up more money when the stock's value falls to something above $35, instead of something more than $20 in the past few years.

If the price of the stock falls below the "maintenance margin"—generally 1 1-3 times the amount of teh loan, a broker can issue a "margin call" and insist on being paid more money or can sell the stock to recover ihs loan.

Morphine Ruled Cause Of Death

The death of Eugene Richard Rudnick, 20, of San Rafael, who died March 31 in the apartment of friends, was brought on by morphine, Coroner's Investigator Keith Craig said yesterday.

He said that the narcotic caused a failure of the youth's autonomic system and that he aspirated on vomit.

Rudnick, who was on probation after marijuana and check forgery convictions, had been ordered by a Marin Superior Court judge to submit to periodic testing to determine if he was using narcotics.

Beautification Budget Studied

A preliminary budget of $6,700 for fiscal 1970-71 was discussed by the Novato Beautification Committee, but will be approved later by the committee prior to being submitted to the city council, according to William Bode, assistant city engineer.

This was $4,000 for the spring and fall cleanup campaigns; $1,000 for tree plantings and $1,700 for new trash receptacles along Grant Avenue, he reported.

The committee assigned various city streets to each member to study and recommend types of trees to be planted along each street at a later meeting, he said.

The spring cleanup campaign was reviewed and called one of the most successful in the city's history of these campaigns.

North Campus Report Is Due

Marin Junior College District trustees are scheduled to receive a report on the feasibility of a Novato campus at 8 p.m. tomorrow at Room 96, Olney Hall, College of Marin, Kentfield.

The report has been compiled by a four-man study team composed of state community college officials.

Trustees also are scheduled to adopt a tentative 1970-71 budget. Taken under study in February was a proposed $4,275,456 dugeet, up $101,624 from the current budget.

Seminary Calls For Ending Of Violence

Trustees of San Francisco Theological Seminary in San Anselmo yesterday called for an end to violence in the United States.

"The use of violence and of counter-violence which only begets more violence on our campuses must stop," trustees said.

They stated that they "join in revulsion against the mounting and self-perpetuating use of force in American society," and share with the students and faculty of the seminary "a sense of horror at the events. . .at Kent State University which resulted in the death of four students."

Students, nevertheless, should "realize the folly of resorting to the use of force at home in order to protest the use of force abroad," trustees said.

They encouraged college administrators and authorities charged with peace-keeping to discover how to respond to use of force by students and nonstudents "by methods which will not accelerate violence."

Icelanders Flee Volcanic Fury

REKYJAVIK, Iceland (AP) — Villagers living in the shadow of Mt. Hekla in southern Iceland fled their homes Tuesday night as the volcano erupted sending streams of lava down its 4,747-foot slope.

Ashes and debris rained on farms, and red hot stones broke car windows at Burfell, site of a hydroelectric plant 30 miles away. Workers at the plant and their families fled by car.

There are few homes in the area, however, and no casualties were reported immediately. Mt. Kekla last erupted in 1947.

A STRANGE STANDARD APPEARS AT SCHOOL

Sally Stanford Sues To Keep Sausalito Sign

Claiming that her restaurant business will be harmed if signs marking exits to Sausalito from Highway 101 are changed, Sally Stanford yesterday filed a request for an injunction in Marin Superior Court asking that the changes be prevented.

In a long-running battle with the Sausalito city council; Miss Stanford has protested proposed changes which would leave only the Marin City exit marked as 'Sausalito.' The other three exits would be changed to show only the names of streets; a maneuver which the council apparently feels would help traffic congestion in the tourist-attractive town.

Miss Stanford,however, claimed in her petitio nthat not only would customers heading for her Valhalla Inn at the southern end of the city; be detoured 4.8 miles if they took the Marin City exit instead of Alexander Avenue; but also that this would further clog trafic on Bridgeway.

Miss Stanford, however, claimed in her petition that not only would cutaomers heading for her Valhalla inn at the southern end of the city, be detoured 4.8 miles if they took the Marin City exit instead of Alexander Avenue, but also that this would further clog traffic on Bridgeway.

She said that the Department of Public Works has denied a hearing on the matter and that her only recourse is to ask an injunction against that department; the Division of Highways and the City of Sausalito.

The Sausalito City Council last night said it expected to pass a resolution in about two weeks, requesting the state to make the sign changes.

Vina Del Mar To Remain Shut Pending Bigger Park

Vina Del Mar Park in Sausalito — long closed as a "temporary" measure — will remain closed until a larger downtown park can be developed, the Sausalito City Council decided last night.

The tiny, historic park was designated a greenbelt area to preserve it from the heavy use which has repeatedly in recent years stripped it of grass, wrecked flower beds and damaged shrubbery.

According to Wilma Young, deputy city clerk, Vina Del Mar has been closed from October to April because it was being destroyed by the tremendour amount of foot traffic which left no lawn and damaged plants and shrubbery, she said.

Several years ago, the city spent $3,000 to install rolled turf in Vina Del Mar, but Mrs. Young said the turf was worn away in approximately one month.

She said the city eventually plans a downtown park area which will include Vina Del Mar, Park Avenue, the city's nearby municipal parking lot No. 1 and all of 25,000-square-foot Carl Gabrielson Park.

"All this area will be converted into one large major downtown park," Mrs. Young said, adding plans are being prepared but no development can occur until the city obtains major parking area in the Marinship area in northern Sausalito.

The little park, named for Sausalito's sister city on the coast of Chile, was donated to the city in 1904 by the North Shore Railway, predecessor of the Northwestern Pacific Railroad. At that time it was known as Depot Plaza, Mrs. Young said.

The park was officially dedicated in 1912 in honor of Jacques Thomas, one of its founders. The park's fountains and stone elephants, part of the city's tourist attractions, came from the 1915 San Francisco Panama Pacific Exposition, according to Mrs. Young.

"It is a jewel of a park. Cities don't have those kinds of parks anymore," the deputy city clerk said. "Small, formal manicured city parks are a thing of the past," she added to explain the need for preserving Vina Del Mar.

The council also authorized Norman Wohlschlaeger, city superintendent of public works, to plan some improvement of adjacent Gabrielson Park to encourage more use of the larger facility.

Jenner Dredging Wins By 3-2 Vote

By BONNIE BARD

SANTA ROSA — The Sonoma County Board of Supervisors yesterday approved dredging the Russian River at Jenner — to the dismay of a crowd of 200 persons — but left the door open for a reversal of opinion in setting conditions of the use permit.

After the 3-2 vote to deny the appeal of the Jenner Coalition in opposition to the dredging, the audience sighed collectively in disappointment and a shout of "You'll burn before it goes up, baby," rang out.

Voting to uphold the board of zoning adjustments decision to permit the gravel dredging by Northern California Aggregates were board Chairman Robert Theiller of Sebastopol, George T. DeLong of Petaluma and Meade L. Nordyke of Santa Rosa.

Supervisors Ignazio A. Vella of Sonoma and Arthur R. Ruonavaara of Healdsburg voted against the dredging after their attempts failed to again delay the decision.

The vote was taken on the assumption that the use permit could later be denied if a majority of the board could not agree on controls and conditions of the use permit.

Yesterday's session, which was a continuation of the all-night March 31 hearing, included testimony from three witnesses who forecast ecological doom for the area if the dredging operation were permitted.

Dr. Joel Hedgepeth, research director of the marine science center of the University of Oregon, in a legal deposition said not enough information is known about the effects of dredging and that "ecological rape is not justified."

Joining him in his opinion were John Gentry, a marine engineer, and Dr. Norman K. Sanders, professor of geology and environmental science at the University of California at Santa Barbara.

John Cummings, president of American Leisure Lands Corp. and its subsidiary, Northern California Aggregates, assured the board that all possible steps would be taken to avoid ecological damage.

Cummings said the company would be willing to pay the salaries of two state employees to work at the site for as much time as necessary to monitor the operation and be sure no damage is done.

The state employees would be from the state Lands Commission and water quality control board.

DeLong seemed most concerned about the economics of the operation. The county, which would receive royalties of 6 cents per yard of gravel, will receive lands for state parks in lieu of cash. In the next three years, the contract would assure the county of getting 240 acres for a state park at Jenner.

DeLong said he was concerned that after three years, all royalties would go directly into the state general fund. He said he was skeptical that the Legislature would approve a bill extending county royalties for the purchase of park sites in other sections of the county.

D. J. Everett, executive officer of the lands commission, said the arrangement would be a departure from the past, but could be done. Cummings promised to assist the county in getting the extra royalties.

The board said it expected to include a lengthy list of controls in the conditions of the use permit covering noise, time of operation and insurance for property owners against damage.

Cummings said the mouth of the river could be kept open 11 months of the year and that dredging would be limited to below the highway bridge. He said the county could be free to inspect the operation at any time and that monitoring equipment provided by his company would provide water clarity tests which would also be available to the county.

Those in opposition said they would wait until conditions of the use permit are set and if they are still unsatisfied, may seek court action to halt the operation.

Also pending is a report by the Army Corps of Engineers and a recommendation from Washington, D.C., on whether the operation should be permitted.

Pot Charge Held Up

No charge was filed yesterday in Marin Municipal Court against Dwain Pippen, 23, of Santa Venetia, who was arrested Saturday on suspicion of possessing marijuana.

Three-Month Parking Ban Set For Three-Block Bridgeway Area

Sausalito city councilmen last night agreed to prohibit parking on Bridgeway from Princess to Anchor streets for a three-month "trial balloon" study.

The council instructed the city's public works staff to sandbag the parking spaces on both sides of the street in the three-block area.

The test, which is being run to determine the effects of the city's proposed waterfront development plan which calls for little or no downtown parking, will begin as soon as the city staff can complete preparations the council decided.

The police department will designate some off-street truck loading locations to be used during the study. Truck deliveries will be allowed only until noon, the council said.

Under the city's proposed waterfront plan, shuttle buses will be used to bring shoppers into the downtown commerical area from large parking lots on the outskirts of the city.

The council last night also authorized acting City Mgr. Eric Borgwardt to meet with officers of the Marin Transit Co., the black-owned firm which is currently offering shuttle service daily to the Tiburon ferry. The city is considering the company for its shuttle service if and when it becomes a reality. Borgwardt will meet to discuss route possibilities, among other things.

The Sausalito City Council also:

CONTRACT — Awarded the second phase of the Bridgeway widening project to the Ghilotti Brothers Construction Co. for $19,617.05.

MUSIC — Held over until the May 19 meeting a decision on a variance requested by the Deck House which would allow them to have live music. At least five residents in the area have protested the variance to the council on the basis of excessive noise.

EXTENSION — Granted a one-year extension to Mobil Oil Company on its use permit for reconstruction of a station at Second and Main Streets.

NO PARKING — Approved a no parking zone for Ensign Street.

REPORT — Heard a report from Pacific Telephone on the company's application for a rate increase which is now before the State Public Utilities Commission.

BARGES — Held over until the May 19 meeting a discussion of "Edwards barges."

GAS TAX FUNDS — Adopted a resolution endorsing legislation which would divert some gas tax funds into a fund to finance rapid transit and air pollution control studies.

Talk Is Tuesday

Kenneth Lamott, Tiburon author, will discuss his article "The Good Life in Marin"' Tuesday at 8 p.m. at Olney Hall, College of Marin. The Independent-Journal erred yesterday in reporting he would speak tomorrow night.

Warehouse With Railroad Car Look, Sought Alongside Creek

County Planner Rowland Darnell said application for the structure is now before Werner Von Gundell, acting planning director, for design review, and a decision must be made by tomorrow, unless the applicant agrees to an extension of time.

The applicant is Romac Pacific Co. Inc. of San Rafael, represented by Alan W. Rosenberg. The company deals in steel structures. Rosenberg wants to build the long warehouse, 25 feet wide and 13 feet high, on the bay side of the railroad tracks just 15 feet from the center of the tracks. He proposes a foundation of concrete slab.

Darnell said the property is owned by the Northwestern Pacific and lies between the city limits of Larkspur, on the west side of the tracks, and Corte Madera on the east. The property is zoned industrial which permits warehouses with design approval.

Corte Madera Town Mgr. Ronadl L. User, who just learned of the proposed warehouse, shot a letter to the county planning department, opposing the structure.

"Our efforts to upgrade our area can hardly succeed if adjoining jurisdictions allow further proliferation of metal sheds by our borders," declared Usher. "Corte Madera vigorously opposes the application." Furthermore, said Usher, the structure would run counter to county efforts to preserve existing railroad rights of way as future transportation corridors.

Three-Car Crash Injures Three

Three persons, including two from Marin, were treated at Park Emergency Hospital in San Francisco for minor injuries suffered in a three-car accident at 3:35 p.m. yesterday on Highway 1 just south of the Funston Tunnel in San Francisco.

The California Patrol said a car driven by Herman F. Machan, 40, of San Francisco, was southbound on the freeway and swerved across the center divider to avoid striking a line of stopped cars.

The Machan vehicle hit one driven by Barbara J. Norwitt, 36, of Saint Lucia Place, Thurston, and was struck in the rear by a car driven by Raymond A. Hernandez, 35, of San Francisco, the patrol said.

Mrs. Norwitt and a passenger, Joan E. Spence, 39, of 5 Mount Tenaya Court, San Rafael, were treated for neck sprain. Machan was treated for fractured right fingers.

No Charges Filed

No charge was filed yesterday in Marin Municipal Court against Edward John Bonadeo II, 22, of Greenbrae, who was arrested Saturday on suspicion of possessing drugs and drug paraphernalia.

The case is still under investigation by the District Attorney's office.

Youth Aide's Job Defended By Panelists

Marin County Youth Commission members declared last night they will oppose the county administrator's recommendation that the youth coordinator's job be eliminated.

Gewn M. Monroe, county youth coordinator, presented a letter from County Administrator Alan Bruce, recommending a series of cutbacks in various county departments. Among the suggested deletions is the job of youth coordinator, who serves both the youth commission and the juvenile delinquency prevention commission.

The Marin Youth Commission also:

JOINT MEETING — Learned that the joint meeting with the county board of supervisors has been postponed from May 12 until May 19.

CAMBODIA—Decided to withhold formal action against U.S. involvement in Cambodia until after the commissioners have studied a resolution approved yesterday by the county supervisors.

Concealed Dagger Charge Dismissed

Morris was a passenger in a car stopped for a traffic violation Oct. 24 in Kentfield.

Corte Madera To Try Gates On Footpath

The Corte Madera Town Council last night agreed that the town's High Canal footpath should remain open for public use during daylight hours, but should be sealed off with gates during the night.

PRIVACY ISSUE

The footpath, used as a short-cut by Redwood High School students, has been a sore spot for residents who live adjacent to it. They claim their privacy and property rights are being violated by public use of the utility easement.

Councilman Harold B. Wagstaff told the council and about 40 residents attending the meeting that he favored regulated use of the path.

"I would consider it extremely unfortunate if the path were closed," Wagstaff said.

He added that he had toured the disputed path Saturday with about 15 property owners and felt gates should be erected at both ends to allow public pedestrian and bicycle use during the day. He added that motorcycles should be prohibited and recommended the creation of a concrete maze which would allow entrance by bicycles and hikers, but stop other forms of transportation.

FENCE AVOIDED

He said his limited use plan for the path would make unnecessary a proposal made two weeks ago for the building of an eight-foot-high fence to separate private property from the town's canal.

"The homeowners want their view to the east. They don't want a physical or psychological barrier," he concluded.

The council agreed and voted to direct the public works department to develop cost estimates on the placement of four gates at the path's entrances.

The Corte Madera Town Council also:

RECOUNT — Confirmed unanimously results of the April 22 recount of the April 14 town election. The recount confirmed Holmes S. Norville's reelection to the town council.

ELECTION—Confirmed unanimously results of the April 28 Lucky Drive annexation election which saw the annexation defeated 8 to 11.

RECREATION — Approved unanimously the expenditure of $7,040 for a joint summer recreation program with the City of Larkspur.

INSTRUCTORS — Approved unanimously hiring 12 recreation program instructors to conduct fee-charged courses ranging from knitting to yoga.

BUSINESS LICENSE — Delayed adoption of an amending ordinance to the business license ordinance which would reduce the charge for licenses for coin-operated laundries. Instead the council adopted an amendment to the amending ordinance which would refund fees back to January 1970.

Rezoning Nod Voted On Petaluma Acreage

The Petaluma Planning Commission last night approved the rezoning of 51 acres for future subdivision development.

The request by Perma-Bilt Enterprises Co. changes 51 acres between South McDowell Boulevard, Casa Grande Road and Lakeville Highway from agriculture to single family residential.

Development of the subdivision will be done in several stages.

The Petaluma Planning Commission also:

Marijuana Guilt Is Admitted By Youth

Richard Brooks Hardy, 24, of Massachusetts, pleaded guilty yesterday in Marin Municipal Court to a charge of possessing marijuana when arrested Feb. 21 by Novato police.

In Fair Condition

Five Nabbed In 100-Kilo Pot Deal

State, federal and Marin County narcotics agents yesterday set up near Mill Valley an exchange of 100 kilos of marijuana for $24,000 and promptly arrested five men as the deal was being consummated.

Arrested were: John A. Papia, 21, of 104 Montford Avenue, Mill Valley; Raymond Aime Laurent, 29, of Boardwalk 1, Larkspur; Thomas Norman Hammer, 21, and Sheldon Paul Levy, 21, both of San Francisco and Eric Francis Millican, 21, of Long Beach.

Agents said that they lent the five men an unmarked Larkspur Police Department car yesterday to go to San Francisco to pick up the grass which was packaged in five cardboard boxes marked with Mexican lettering.

When the men drove up in the car borrowed from their new friends and displayed the marijuana, the agents showed them the money and the five salesmen were arrested.

Agents said that the marijuana was of the "Panama Red" variety, which comes from the tropics and is considered prime quality by pot connoisseurs. It was estimated by the agents that the haul would sell for $120,000 when broken down into "lids" at $30 each.

San Francisco police later went to a house in San Francisco where the men had picked up the pot, confiscated another 37 kilos and arrested one more person.

The five men were turned over to the U.S. Marshall and were to appear before the U.S. Commissioner in San Francisco today.

Prank Is Fatal

EISENSTADT, Austria (AP) — A man trying to steal eggs from a neighbor's hen coop fell off the ladder and died later in the hospital of internal injuries.

Police said the man had no need to steal, but probably considered the egg-snatching a sport.

Suspect Nabbed On Credit Cards

A man wanted in four states for credit card fraud rented a $500 movie projector Thursday from a San Rafael shop and has failed to return the item, police reported today.

Police said the man posing as Julius Weinberg using a fictitious address of the Holiday Inn rented the sound projector Thursday from Tho Photo Shop at 1104 Fourth Street.

Store owner Kenneth Reichard reported the incident to police when he could not locate the man at the San Rafael motel.

Police identified "Weinberg" as Leroy Edward Wilkinson. Wilkinson allegedly posing as Weinburg also failed to return a $650 projector he rented from a San Anselmo store the same day police said.

Kentucky Ex-Convicts Given Driver Course

LAGRANGE, Ky. (AP) — Driver training instruction has been set up for inmates about to be released from the Kentucky State Reformatory.

Warden James Howard said those eligible for the training lost their driver permits while in prison. The training plan was designed to help them get a license when they return to civilian status.

11-Year-Old Driver Wounds Two CHP Officers; Nabbed

PINEDALE, Calif. (AP) — An 11-year-old motorcycle rider, being chased by two highway patrolmen, suddenly turned on them Tuesday night and wounded them with gunfire, officers said.

A pistol bullet bounced off the gunbelt of Erwin Wade, 27. When he doubled over he was hit once again through the shoulder anr chest and was in serious condition today at Valley Medical Center in Fresno.

Patrolman Mike Root, 29, was treated for a leg wound. The slim, unidentified boy was held in Juvenile Court in nearby Fresno.

Sheriff's deputies said the boy had run away from home carrying a knapsack and his brother's pistol and riding the family motorcycle after an argument Tuesday with his father.

From their patrol car, Wade and Root saw him go through a stop sign, shouted "Halt, halt," and tried to pull him over, deputies said.

When the cycle overturned, the boy ran a short distance and the officers pursued him on foot.

At close range, he pulled the .22-caliber automatic from the knapsack and "started pumping lead," an officer said.

Then the boy tried to throw the gun away but officers retrieved it, deputies said. Although wounded, one officer radioed for help and the other held the boy until sheriff's deputies arrived.

Suspect Booked On Battery

Police were called to his home at 12:53 a.m. to quell an argument and said they saw him strike his wife, LaDonna, 35, a Petaluma police dispatcher.

Seaton was released on his own recognizance by Judge Alexander J. McMahon and set for arraignment today in Southern Sonoma Municipal Court. He is employed as an investigator for the Sonoma County Coroner's office.

Mill Valley Votes Marina Guidelines

The Mill Valley City Council listened last night while residents described the type of small craft harbor they wanted, and then approved a set of guidelines to strike a balance between a commercially feasible marina and an overdeveloped one.

On a motion by Edward J. Boessenecker, seconded by Jean S. Barnard, the council voted unanimously to instruct City Engineer Stanley M. Bala to determine if a harbor with a minimum of commercial developmet is economically possible, and report back on an unspecified date.

"So all you're asking from me," Bala told the council after the vote, "is to look into the situation and recommend whether the harbor would make economic sense." Mayor George E. Wickham agreed that was what the council wanted.

Bala was given a set of guidelines to use in his study similar to a list submitted by the city's planning commission after its April 13 meeting.

The goals include preservation of all existing marshland in the harbor area, a community center, facilities for launching, storing and berthing boats, and pollution and flood control, all dependent on another goal—making the harbor as economically self-sustaining as possible.

Bala's recommendations will affect the council's decision on whether to apply for a state loan to build the harbor. The application must include data on revenue the city expects to gain from the harbor.

The councilmen earlier heard an hour of public discussion on the harbor and talked among themselves for another hour before voting approval of the goals, which Mrs. Barnard had moved to approve early in the meeting.

A capacity crowd of about 140, many of them children and teen-agers, jammed the council chambers to speak on the harbor. Discussion ranged from the effect of motorboats on the cove to alternate means of raising revenue to pay for the marina.

Sarah Madden, of 414 Spruce Street, Tamalpais Valley, told the council that "most of the thoughts that you have expressed seem very commercial. Instead of thinking of making it a financial success, think instead of the educational value."

Steve Osborne, of 154 Elm Avenue, said he was a former seaman who had "been around boats all my life."

"This harbor is too small for a marina that would pay for itself and other peripheral activities. The area is one of the last remaining coves and marshes in the area that have remained untouched. Here is a chance to preserve it." The partisan audience applauded his remarks.

"We don't want to turn Mill Valley into another Sausalito," said Josiah L. Mickles of 75 Upper Alcatraz Place, and again the audience applauded.

In the council discussion, Boessenecker said that "all the things we want to do at the harbor have a price tag on them. We'll have to make compromises in order to develop anything there."

Peace Rally Approved In Mill Valley

Mill Valley has granted a permit to an ad hoc group called the Peace Action Committee to conduct a rally in Old Mill Park Saturday to protest the American involvement in Indochina.

City Mgr. William H. Cunningham told last night's council meeting that the permit was issued after the group posted the customary $25 bond and assured the city that the rally would end between 12:30 and 1 p.m.

The march will start at 10 a.m. at the parking lot of Our Lady of Mount Carmel Church and wind through a section of downtown Mill Valley before arriving at the park at 10:30.

Dolph F. Jaeger, who had told the council Monday that he would organize a counterdemonstration, said last night that he and the local chapters of the Veterans of Foreign Wars and the American Legion agreed instead to ask citizens to fly their American flags in support of President Richard M. Nixon's Asian policies.

PUTTING THE FACTS TOGETHER

on the strike

The series of Fact Bulletins shown here appeared on the front page of the Independent-Journal during the past two weeks. Each takes up a particular facet of the strike and the issues involved. The I-J presents them together, in numerical order, so that readers may gain an even clearer perspective on the matter.

Who Broke Off The Negotiations?

Answer: The S.F. Typographical Union 21. The I-J, after bargaining in good faith through 16 meetings was served an ultimatum on Oct. 21, 1969: "The union's position is that the conditions for any further negotiations is unqualified acceptance by the company of all terms of the old contract on a day-to-day basis pending the final negotiations." (This contract had been cancelled in writing by the union). When the publisher's representative demurred, the I.T.U. representative stated, "I don't know of any basis on which to schedule further meetings." A coalition of other unions offered proposals of settlement to both parties. These were rejected by the Typographical Union and on Jan. 7, 1970 the printer's union struck the Independent-Journal.

Drinking Coffee On The Job

In his circular to Marin residents the president of I.T.U. stated union printers were fired "for drinking coffee on the job." He failed to mention that they drank coffee in the composing room. He failed to mention this was against long-established rules, known and understood by everyone. He failed to state there was no union provision in the old contract allowing drinking on the job. He failed to mention that the I-J had put in lunchroom facilities for union printers where they could drink their coffee. Failed to mention that a composing room — with type, proofs, mechanical equipment — is hardly the place to be drinking coffee! But perhaps the greatest omission was this: he failed to mention that these same printers, after being warned, were reinstated on their jobs. The question Marin residents might ask is: how far can one fail in dealing with the truth?

FACT BULLETIN #3 (The Strike)
The Publisher Can't Discharge A Union Printer

Under the former contract with I.T.U. local 21 (which the union cancelled in 1968 and now wants reinstituted before it will negotiate) the I-J publisher was powerless to enforce a discharge for cause . . . even if the employee were inefficient, insubordinate, or in violation of established composing room procedures. All a printer had to do was appeal to the union local for reinstatement . . . or finally to I.T.U. Executive Council or I.T.U. convention. All the publisher could do was plead his case. He had no authority, no say in the final decision, yet these were his own employees! This is the equivalent in any other business, of having only employees decide who could be discharged . . . with the owner having to abide by their verdict.

INDEPENDENT-JOURNAL

FACT BULLETIN #4 (The Strike)
"Bogus"-Setting Type, Throwing It Away

The union insists that advertising supplied the I-J (already set by union printers) must, after publication, be set over again in type, proofread, corrected — then thrown away. For this, printers get full union wages. (So did those who set it in the first place). Under International Typographical Union laws "bogus" is a negotiable item. In practice, however, the S.F. Typographical Union 21 violates the laws of its parent body. While it continues to "claim" this item is negotiable, the union has never entertained or made a single proposal for its elimination even though the I-J offered generous added job security if the union would agree to eliminate this "bogus", uneconomic practice.

INDEPENDENT-JOURNAL

FACT BULLETIN #5 (The Strike)
Case of the "Fired" Union Officer

In his circular to Marin residents the president of S.F. Typographical Union #21 states that John DeMartini, a union officer, was fired by the I-J "for being absent on union business." When an outright falsehood is perpetrated upon the public it is time to call it that and expose it. What are the facts? First, the I-J has never discharged anyone for union activities. Second, when absent, a printer is required to report the fact and "cover" his job with a replacement. This is a precedent of long standing, known to everyone in the trade. And also a requirement of the printer's union. (It must be presumed that a union officer knows his own union's rules). Mr. DeMartini was not discharged for being away on union business. He was discharged solely for failing to report his absence and failing to send a replacement as required. Management waited until 3 p.m. of the work day — the end of the shift — but still received no notification whatsoever. Only then was this employee terminated . . . because of a clear violation by him. Marin residents may wish to carefully consider these facts in the light of the union president's statement.

INDEPENDENT-JOURNAL

FACT BULLETIN #6 (The Strike)
Or Who Cancelled The Contract?

In recent union circulars to Marin residents not a word is said that the union cancelled the I-J-Typographical Union #21 contract. The union does not mention that the publisher was notified in writing that as of Nov. 13, 1968, "any agreement—written, oral or implied—or any conditions of employment or other understanding now in effect between San Francisco Typographical Union No. 21 and the San Rafael Independent-Journal will terminate." Nor does the union mention that the union now insists that the very contract which it cancelled must be reinstituted with "unqualified acceptance by the company of all terms of the old contract' before it will sit down and negotiate! We leave it to our readers to judge by what strange logic a cancelled contract can become a condition for negotiating a new one.

INDEPENDENT-JOURNAL

FACT BULLETIN #7 (The Strike)
The Mech. Superintendent -A Case of Coercion

The National Labor Relations Board has issued a complaint against S.F. Typographical Union 21 charging coercion of the I-J composing room foreman in violation of federal law. In its negotiations the union insisted that the I-J mechanical superintendent (foreman) must be a member and subject to union discipline. On Jan. 18 it fined him because he carried out his duties as a representative of the publisher. The National Labor Relations Act, as confirmed by federal courts, states that the foreman is not properly a member of the bargaining unit. The courts have ruled that while a union may bargain on this issue it may not strike because of it. The union has not only struck the I-J but has called for disciplinary action against the I-J superintendent — in part for working at the I-J since the strike was called. This places the union in the position of attempting to fine and discipline an executive for "violating" the union's practices. It may be noted that the union has as yet never discussed this in public print.

INDEPENDENT-JOURNAL

Doing Violence To The Truth

In his circular to Marin residents the president of S.F. Typographical Union #21 asks that (you) "withdraw your patronage from merchants and others who encourage strife and violence by advertising in the Independent-Journal." He fails to say from whom the violence may come. But he is very explicit in stating —or rather, accusing—merchants of "encouraging" it. He fails to state that merchants and others have the right to peaceful pursuit of their own affairs and that the public has the right to patronize whomever it pleases. He also fails to mention one of the more obvious accompaniments of the strike: the telephone calls and threats upon merchants to forgo their rights to advertise in a public medium. When a union president places the encouragement of violence upon the backs of respected merchants the irony should not escape the public. He does violence to the truth and violence to the intelligence of the people. The public will no doubt also recall that the president's circular was addressed. "Dear Friend". . .

Nixon-Congress Asian Talks Sway Few Minds

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon's promise that U.S. troops will be out of Cambodia by July 1 at the latest has made no noticeable dent in prior Capitol Hill opinion—critics remain critical and supporters are standing firm behind the new war policy.

In separate briefings with two groups of representatives and senators Tuesday, the President spelled out the limitations on the incursion—American units could go no further than 21.7 miles into Cambodia without prior congressional approval and all U.S. troops would be pulled back before the first of July.

Sen. J. W. Fulbright, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee and one of the toughest critics of Nixon's Southeast Asia policy, indicated there was nothing new in the President's presentation.

"In these expositions there was, I think, nothing that had not been covered in the President's speech," the Arkansas Democrat said. He referred to the statement Nixon made last Thursday on national television and radio saying a joint South Vietnamese-U.S. troop operation had moved into Cambodia.

Rep. Thomas E. Morgan, the Pennsylvania Democrat who heads the House Foreign Affairs Committee, said he was impressed by the meeting with Nixon—and so were the other members of his panel Indiana Rep. Ross E. Adair, senior Republican on the Foreign Affairs Committee, called the briefings impressive and forthright.

"They answered," he said, "many of the questions and objections that have been raised."

He said the Cambodian operation was going better than expected, with low casualties and less hostile diplomatic reaction than anticipated.

"When the operation is going well both militarily and diplomatically," Adair said, "it seems to me we have reason for optimism."

The Senate Foreign Relations Committee and the House Foreign Affairs Committee met with Nixon in the afternoon. The Armed Services committees of both chambers conferred with the President in a morning session.

Senate Republican Leader Hugh Scott, of Pennsylvania, told reporters that the Cambodian government had asked at first for 400,000 American ground troops and been turned down and had then asked for 200,00 and again been rejected.

The Senate's No. 2 Republican, Michigan's Robert P. Griffin, who also attended the afternoon session, said Nixon was excellent in presenting the administration's policy.

"He made clear his intention of not expanding the war," Griffin told newsmen. "The invasion of the Communist sanctuary would actually limit the war, enable him to help save American lives and continue withdrawal of troops on schedule" from Vietnam.

Nixon was a very skilled moderator during the meeting, Aiken told reporters, but then he differed: "I wouldn't say we received a wealth of new information ... nor would I say that many minds have changed."

Nixon arranged the briefings with the four congressional committees after Fulbright's panel called for the President to consult with it alone.

Fulbright and his committee were far from happy about the way the President responded—both before and after the briefings.

Fulbright said there were too many people—White House aides, Vice President Spiro T. Agnew, Secretary of State William P. Rogers and presidential adviser Henry Kissinger—to get anything constructive done.

Fulbright expressed doubt that Nixon can achieve his stated limited objectives. "I'm not at all persuaded that it can be done," he told a newsman. "I never doubted his intentions, but I very gravely doubt his ability to achieve those intentions."

On the Senate floor, five members also indicated their doubts by formally introducing a proposal to end all American operations in Cambodia within 30 days. The measure also calls for U.S. termination in Laos and Vietnam by the end of this year, except for withdrawal of U.S. forces which would be completed by June 30, 1971.

Those attending the morning session generally went in backing the President's decision—and they came out the same way. Rep. L. Mendel Rivers, D-S.C., who chairs the House Armed Services Committee, issued a strong endorsement of the President's policy.

Similar support came from Sen. John Stennis, D-Miss., Rivers' counterpart in the Senate.

Nixon also was getting support where it counts, on the floors in Congress. His Southeast Asian policy got strong backing during debate Tuesday over a House proposal that critics claimed would authorize the President to wage a wider war.

The proposal by Rep. Paul Findley, R-Ill., would prohibit use of U.S. ground combat troops in Cambodia, Laos or Thailand, except when the President determines that action is necessary to save American lives in South Vietnam.

Pointing out that this is exactly the rationale used by Nixon in sending U.S. troops in Cambodia, Rep. Ogden R. Reed, R-N.Y., a leading opponent, said the proposal "could be argued to cover (U.S. strikes) on Phnom Penh and on sanctuaries in both Cambodia and Laos."

This view was disputed by Robert L. Leggett, D-Calif., who attended one of the Tuesday briefings. He said when he asked the President if there would be any American troops in Cambodia in July, Nixon replied "that if we do he'll replace the chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff (Adm. Thomas Moorer), probably with an ensign."

Cash Shortage, Teachers' Plaint Hit Reed Trustees

The board learned the district does not have enough bond issue money left to furnish and equip Reedland Woods School; scheduled to open for sixth through eighth grades next Sept. 2.

And it heard a letter of complaint from all teachers at Tiburon and Belvedere schools on its decision to close Tiburon School next fall. The teachers claimed they had not been consulted.

Both matters stirred discussion of lack of communication among trustees, administrators and teachers.

Trustee James B. Richwagen brought up the matter of equipping Reedland Woods School, presenting figures showing only $24,732.17 remaining in the bond account. The board, he contended, had been told there was $40,000 available.

Supt. Robert B. Gaw said no specific figures had been set up for projects covered by a 1967 bond issue, and additional expenditures from bond funds had been authorized at Reed School, running the fund short. He said the estimate for furnishing and equipping Reedland Woods is $70,000, but he and his staff are working to reduce it.

Upshot was direction that an overall budget for the furniture and equipment be given the board May 21, with a detailed breakdown June 3, and that the board at its May 21 meeting also have a complete rundown of bond money expenditures.

Mrs. Joan Hamren, second grade teacher at Tiburon School, read the letter signed by all teachers there and at Belvedere School. It expressed dismay at a report to the board that "administration and staff were in favor of doing away with the smaller schools."

The staffs at Tiburon and Belvedere were never asked, it said.

Chairman Leo Souza retorted that closing of the two schools had been discussed at length, several times, and that principal Edward Mosconi had reported to the district's facilities committee that the teachers wanted them kept open. He said one teacher had stirred up complaints after the board's decision; but did not name that teacher.

Trustee Gordon C. Wright commented that the reasons for closing the two primary grade schools had been the same for both, but "we did not close Belvedere School because parents did not want it closed. . .In fairness we should consider either closing both or leaving both open."

Souza said the difference was that Belvedere pupils would have to be bused much farther to attend another school.

The matter — once thought closed — was then put on the agenda for May 21.

Trustees Abandon Rush Effort To Replace Reed Superintendent

Hope of soon having a new superintendent for Reed School District was abandoned by the district's trustees last night.

They stopped short, however, of voting to hire an interim or acting superintendent to take over when Robert B. Gaw leaves June 30. But they agreed to interview members of County Schools Supt. Virgil S. Hollis's staff who are available to fill in at the job.

Trustee Kenneth G. Wells, who had pushed hard for fast action to fill the superintendency on a permanent basis, offered no objection when trustee James B. Richwagen said:

"I don't see any possible way to get a new superintendent by July 1, or by Aug. 1, or possibly even by Sept. 1." A Jan. 1 deadline would be more realistic, Richwagen suggested. Other board members agreed.

In approving, with some revisions, a brochure announcing the the job opening, the trustees left it saying that the incumbent will leave June 30 and a replacement is sought "as soon as possible." They also eliminated mention of $20.000 salary, leaving the salary item open.

The brochure is to be produced and distributed by the county schools office. Application deadline is June 15, which last night was also made the deadline for criteria for the new superintendent being prepared by a special committee.

The board filled the principalship at the new Reedland Woods School and the vacant principalship at Granada School for next fall, but in doing so left two other principalships open.

On recommendation of Gaw and the administrative council, Principal Robert D. Gowan was transferred from Bel Aire to Reedland Woods, and Principal Edward Mosconi from Reed to Granada.

The Reed School District Board Also:

LIBRARY DONATION — Acknowledged gift of $150 proceeds from the Reed District Parent-Teacher Club for books for Reedland Woods library.

STAFF REVISION — On recommendation of Superintendent Gaw, deferred hiring two additional teachers for next year and eliminated a library clerk and two teacher aids proposed for addition, but added a counselor for Reedland Woods. Gaw said this was reduce "budget A" — with which the board will work if a tax increase proposal fails to pass June 2 — by $34,000.

BUDGET DATE — Put over to June 3 discussion of next year's budget on learning that an early budgeting law enacted last year has been repealed. The regular meeting date is June 2, but the meeting was put over one day because of the primary election.

ACCOLADE — Congratulated Mary Kay Healy, a teacher at Del Mar School, on authorship of a pamphlet included in a "Modern American Authors" series being published by Holt and Rinehart.

AUDITOR — Hired Leader, Jarvis and Keigwin to audit the district's books for this fiscal year at a $1,400 fee. Richwagen dissented, objecting to a $125 increase over last year's fee.

ANNUITY PROGRAM — Objected to payroll deductions for another teacher annuity program, pressed by W.J. Butcher on behalf of Minnesota Mutual Variable Fund, unless there is some assurance such programs will not keep proliferating. Payroll deductions are now being made for three different programs of this nature, the board was told.

GIFT — Accepted from the Tiburon unit of the Parent' Club two Science Research Associates reading kits for Tiburon School.

HIRING — Approved employing Mrs. Marcelle L. Scholl to teach next year at Granada School and Mrs. Joan MacPhee Russell to teach at either Bel Aire or Reedland Woods School. Both have been serving as substitute teachers in the district. The action failed to specify salaries. Also hired William Pettit as maintenance man at $507 per month.

Marin Bicycle Club Sought For Sponsor Of Race

The Fairfax Parks and Recreation Commission agreed last night to ask the Marin Bicycle Club to sponsor the city's annual bicycle race.

Marie Whissell, secretary to the commission, said the race has been threatened since the demise of the city's festival.

The secretary added that the commission will await word from the bike club before deciding the fate of the bicycle races.

The commission also was requested last night to support a proposed teen-age dance sponsored by the city's youth commission. The youth group asked the commission to provide a refreshment stand at the dance, but the request was not acted upon, pending clarification of intended use of dance revenues, Mrs. Whissell reported.

The commission agreed to request an $1,100 budget item from the city for construction of restrooms at the city park's baseball field.

Brown's Hall In Crisis On Taxes

The future of Brown's Hall in Mill Valley hinges on the Homestead Valley Community Association's tax exemption application now before the state Franchise Tax Board, the association board was told last night.

Secretary Audrey Peterson said the association has been "staggering under the property tax burden" on the hall of $1,320 yearly and faces a $2,000 deficit next year if the tax exemption is not granted.

The association applied for exemption from the state property tax in 1968 and was turned down, Mrs. Peterson said. On other application last year was approved, but is being contested by the county tax assessor.

Recreation Cost Rising, Novato Commission Finds

The Novato Parks and Recreation commission approved a $125;495 recreation budget for fiscal 1970-71, up $16,720 from this year's $108,775; according to parks and recreation director Edward W. Adams.

The budget, approved Monday night, now goes to City Mgr. Charles A. Brown and then to the city council for adoption.

Adams said that it cost $8,035 more this year to put on the same programs as last year. His request also included increasing a part-time clerk to full time, and part-time recreation supervisor from four to six months a year.

The commission voted to include $1,760 for a playground program next summer at the Loma Verde School. Although most of the students in the area do not live within the city,some do, Adams said. The Loma Verde Homeowners Association must contribute $860 in order to get the program, Adams said.

Adams reported that there were 19,049 people taking part in recreation programs in April, an increase over the 14,472 in April of last year.

MARIN ARTIST FEATURED

J.B. Blunk of Inverness, sanding a eucalyptus sculpture fashioned from a tree trunk with a chain saw, will be among eight artists featured in an American Broadcasting Co. documentary, "With These Hands: The Rebirth of the American Craftsman," to be seen at 9 p.m. Friday on channel 7. The one-hour program will look into the lives of Blunk and other contemporary craft artists who have chosen individual creativity over mass-produced conformity.

Phnom Pehn Orders Red Envoys To Leave

PHNOM PENH, Cambodia (AP) — The Cambodian government today gave Communist Chinese diplomats 24 hours to get out of the country, following Peking's recognitionof the exiled government of the ousted Cambodian chief of state, Prince Norodom Sihanouk.

Communist Chinese Ambassador Kang Mao Chao said after a one-hour meeting with the secretary-general of the Cambodian Foreign Ministry that the embassy staff would leave for China on a special flight.

Kang's meeting was followed by the arrival at the ministry of North Korean Ambassador Kim Eun Hwan, who also presumably would be told to leave Cambodia. North Korea also has recognized Sihanouk's government.

There was growing concern within the Foreign Ministry that other Communist and pro-Communist nations would cut back on relations with the Cambodian government. Yugoslav, Polish and Czechoslovak ambassadors already have been recalled "for consultations," but are not expected to return.

Foreign Ministry officials and some diplomatic sources also believed the Soviet Union would recall its ambassador, but would stop short of breaking relations with the regime of Gen. Lon Nol.

East German and Cuban embassies still are in Phnom Penh. North Vietnamese and Viet Cong embassies have been closed, but relations have not been formally severed.

Intercity Train Bill To House

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate passed today a bill that would establish a government-backed corporation to operate the nation's ailing intercity passenger trains.

The measure was sent to the House on a roll call vote of 78 to 3.

Under the plan, a profit-making corporation would take over much of the nation's passenger service in much the same way Comsat operates a communications satellite system. Sen. Vance Hartke, D-Ind., said the plan has the complete support of the Nixon administraiton.

Mime Troupe Due For Performances In Marin Parks

The San Francisco Mime Troupe will open its ninth year of free park performances throughout the Bay Area with a show at Old Mill Park in Mill Valley at 2 p.m. Saturday.

The performance will feature the Gorilla Marching Band and gutter puppets and will be repeated at 2 p.m. Sunday at the park.

The troupe has abandoned its commedia dell'arte style to present the short act and puppet and band technique which proved successful on a winter tour.

The shorter pieces focus on and analyze current political-social conditions.

The troupe's summer schedule also calls for appearances at Boyle Park in Mill Valley, June 20 and 21 at 2 p.m., and at Deno's and Carlo's, Muir Beach, Aug. 15 at 2 p.m.

Hanoi, Cong In Temporary Boycott Of Paris Round

PARIS (UPI) — North Vietnam and the Viet Cong staged a temporary protest boycott of the Paris peace talks today, and both sides exchanged vague warnings that the negotiations might be doomed.

An official North Vietnamese statement said the two Communist delegations decided not to attend today's 66th session in order "to express their firm protest against the extremely grave acts of the United States" in Indochina.

The statement, which was read to newsmen at a specially convened news conference, said the United States had violated its "commitment to stop completely its bombardments against North Vietnam" — the commitment which paved the way for the opening of the four-party peace talks. The Hanoi statement also charged that the United States was seeking to "extend the war to the whole of Indochina by invading Cambodia."

The North Vietnamese proposed that the next meeting of the peace talks should be held next week on May 14, but concluded with this warning:

"If the Nixon administration continues its bombardments against the territory of the Democratic Republic of North Vietnam, it must bear full responsibility for all the serious consequences a rising from its acts."

Chief American negotiator Philip C. Habib rejected the Hanoi charges and their reasons for cancelling the meeting, refused to say whether the U.S. delegation would attend the May 14 meeting, and delivered a warning of his own.

"Hanoi has taken upon itself the responsibility for refusing the meet today as had been agreed," Habib told a news conference at the U.S. Embassy. "The burden rests squarely on them."

Following his brief news conference, Habib made preparations to leave Paris for Washington for a visit that he said was planned some weeks ago.

Chief Saigon negotiator Pham Dang Lam told a news conference his delegation "is studying the Communist proposal to meet again May 14th, and its (Saigon's) decision will depend upon the atitude of the other side."

Rap Brown Joins FBI Wanted List

WASHINGTON (UPI) —For the third time in 10 years, the FBI Wednesday expanded its most wanted list from 10 to 11 —adding H. Rap Brown, the fugitive black power militant.

The last time the FBI enlarged the list was in the case of James Earl Ray, sought for the 1968 assassination of Martin Luther King.

Brown has not been seen since March 7 when he reportedly left New York City to drive to Bel Air, Md. The trial had been set for Bel Air but was later moved to Ellicott City.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Urinary Tract Infections Need Attention Even Though Mild

Urinary tract infections should not be neglected even though they are not producing symptoms. There always is a possibility that the disease will smolder for years and finally settle in and destroy a kidney.

The urinary tract is a continuous structure and it is easy for infection to spread from one part to another. The bladder is connected to the kidneys through the ureters and to the outside via the urethra.

Bacteria usually enter through the urethra but, in some instances, they reach the urinary tract through the blood stream from a more distant source, such as an abscessed tooth or sore throat.

BURNING, URGENCY, and frequency of urination suggest that the bladder is inflamed. More generalized symptoms occur when the kidney is involved. These include chills, high fever, muscular pain, nausea, vomiting, and abdominal cramps. Backache occurs with tenderness over the affected kidney.

Women are more susceptible to bladder and kidney trouble than are men, due to anatomical differences in the size and position of the urethra. Diabetics are three to four times more susceptible than others of comparable age. So are persons who develop stones or strictures that obstruct the flow of urine.

THE SAME CAN BE said of men with enlarged prostates. Bacteria multiply rapidly when urine is not voided completely. Drinking plenty of water helps force the secretions along. But water is of little help when obstruction is preventing the escape of urine. Surgery or stretching is needed in these cases.

An ordinary urinary tract infection is best cured by pitting the right antiseptic against the causative organisms. Special laboratory tests are needed to isolate the offender, but these take time and cost money.

Many physicians, therefore, omit the tests and prescribe medicines that are effective against a wide variety of microorganisms. This often works, but if the condition fails to improve or tends to recur, tests will be needed. These individuals would have been much better off if given the full treatment at the outset.

HORMONES AND HYSTERECTOMY

M.D. writes: After a hysterectomy, must the woman take hormones for the rest of her life?

REPLY

No. Much depends upon why the uterus was removed, how much ovarian tissue remains, and whether menopausal symptoms are causing enough distress to warrant hormonal replacement. Furthermore, physicians are cautious about prescribing female hormones if there is any question of cancer.

MOLE NOT BIOPSIED

S. R. writes: A skin specialist removed a mole that had developed on my back. After he cut it off, he immediately disposed of it. Shouldn't he have had it tested for cancer?

REPLY

Moles are rarely cancerous and I assume that he regarded your lesion as benign because it had not enlarged or changed in color.

EFFERVESCENT TABLETS

J. F. writes: If a person takes six or seven effervescent-type antacids every day, is he harming himself?

REPLY

As many as eight of these tablets can be taken every day. However, why do you need so many? It is well to remember that in taking the product, you may be masking symptoms of a more serious condition.

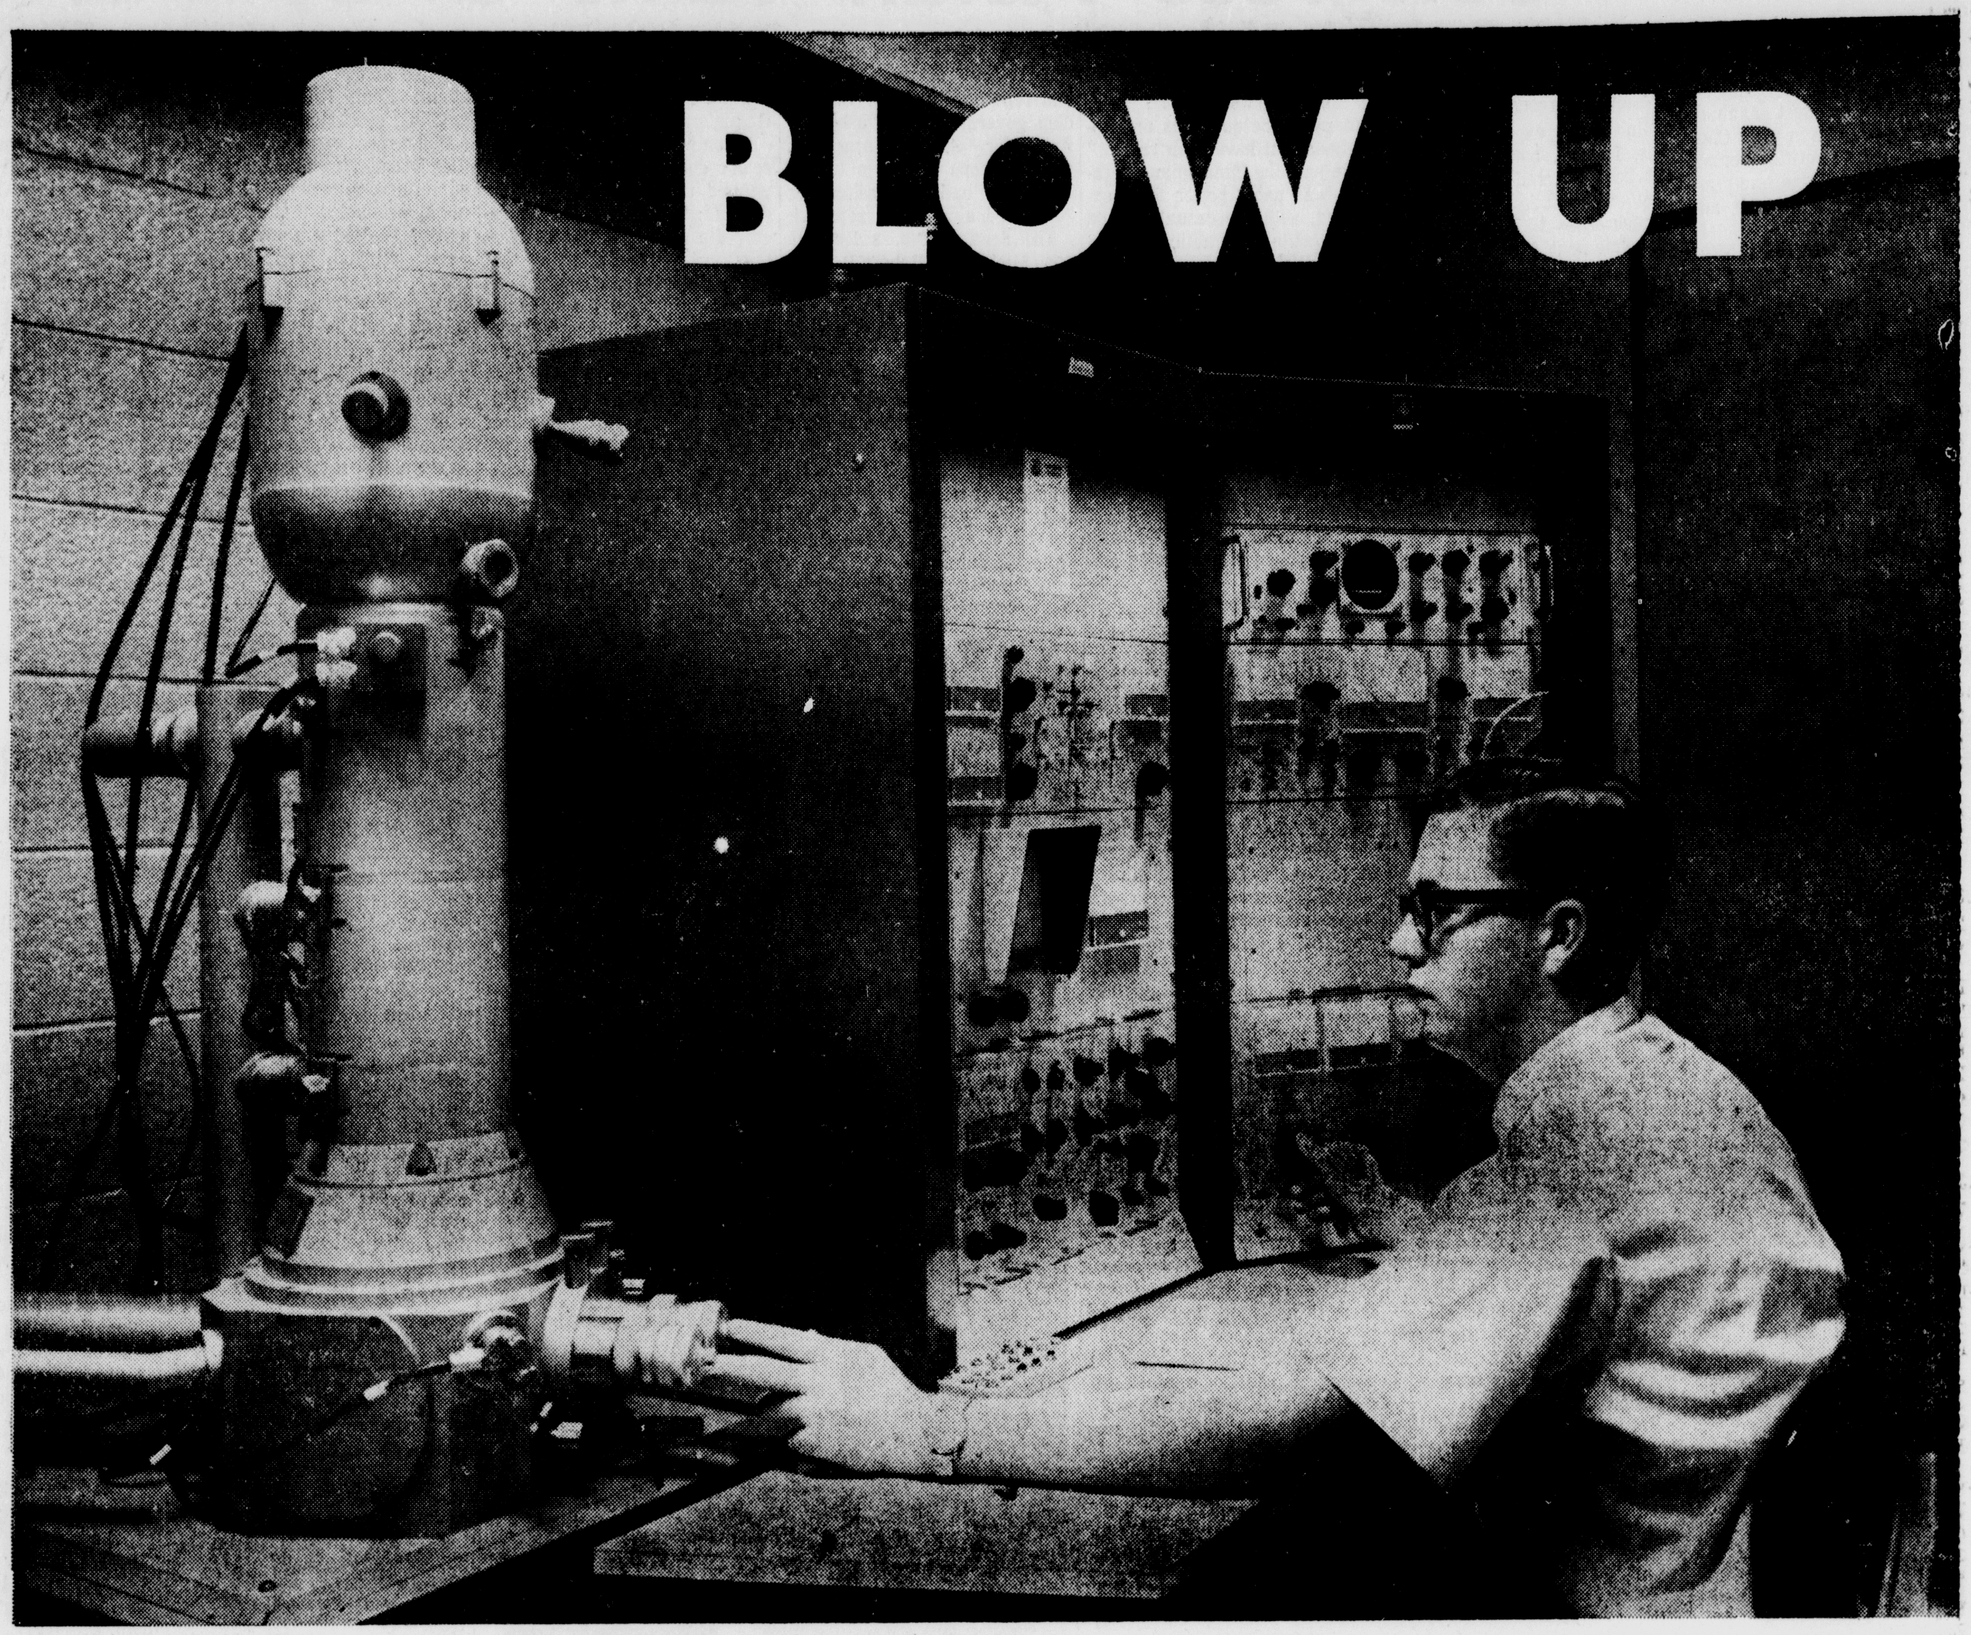
BLOW UP

The scanning electron microscope (right) is a powerful new research tool. It makes enlarged surface photographs of solid samples such as rocks, synthetic polymers and fibers. It enables the scientist to discern physical details which provide him with new and valuable information. It is also convenient to operate, and its use is spreading to a variety of laboratories.

This type of microscope has a useful magnification ten times greater than the best optical microscopes, and a depth of focus about one hundred times greater. Because of this great depth of focus, a strikingly three dimensional effect is obtained in the pictures it produces. The accompanying photographs illustrate the microscope's powers, showing unusually detailed closeups of common objects.



The scientist seated on the right at his electron microscope takes photographs of the samples placed in the column at the left. He selects and focuses his pictures in the cathode ray tube in front of him at eye level. When he has found his desired field of view, the signals are switched to a second cathode ray tube (barely visible behind his head) where it is photographed by a camera. The camera makes both a positive black and white print, and negative film.

Mill Valley Art Festival Totters: Support Lacking

A lack of interest in Mill Valley's Fall Arts Festival, which last year attracted 12,000 spectators to Old Mill Park, may force cancellation of this year's version of the event.

This warning was sounded after an April 23 meeting of the fine arts collaborative effort, sponsor of the event, drew only seven persons.

Another organizational meeting will be held tomorrow at 8 p.m. in the Mill Valley city hall.

Three hundred artists exhibited their wares in last year's 13th annual show, including painting, fabrics, ceramics, sculptures, weavings and leather goods.

Volunteer workers are needed in all phases of the show, including planning and construction, publicity, graphics and entertainment. Financial contributions also are needed.

Marinite Given Appeals Position

Sheldon C. St. Clair of San Rafael has been named assistant secretary and deputy board member of the Workmen's Compensation Appeals Board, Department of Industrial Relations in San Francisco, according to chairman Morton R. Colvin.

St. Clair is presently an instructor in workmen's compensation courses at the University of California Extension in San Francisco and has been instructor in contracts at the San Francisco Law School.

He was appointed associate counsel for the Industrial Accident Commission in 1964 and a trial referee for the appeals board in 1966.

TELEVISION IN REVIEW

A Memorable View Of Bond Between Climbers

By DICK DU BROW

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Michael Wadleigh, of all people, was the director of photography for Tuesday night's NBC-TV hour special, "Once Before I Die," about seven amateur climbers who scaled an Afghanistan mountain.

Very recently, Wadleigh has gained fame for his three-hour documentary movie "Woodstock," about last summer's massive rock festival and communion that attracted some 400,000 persons.

But Tuesday night's television outing was a most different kind of trip.

Or was it?

Well, in content, surely. But in theme, there was a bond — the seeking of persons who want something more in life, something perhaps more memorable, than they find in their everyday existence.

It is surely a highly human, universal and emotional theme. And, particularly in contemporary American life, there is much pathos in it —the notion that so many persons now feel compelled to seek out experiences to substitute for the satisfactions that once came from conquering more basic necessities and challenges.

There was something curiously pathetic about the seven American mountain climbers — most middleaged, some younger. And at the same time there also was something wildly heroic, almost absurdly so. For these were persons with not much money to spend who felt they had to complete their expedition in time to take advantage of a 28-day excursion plane fare.

At times they disagreed over how to proceed because of their pressing personal commitments back home. And this sometimes gave a sadly amusing tone to the hour. But, from Wadleigh's and the viewer's points of interest, it also gave an added human dimension that many similar video documentaries have not had.

Wadleigh has said that some campfire conversations in which the climbers let down their hair on various subjects were cut out because of television and because of the hour time limit, and that's too bad. But what was left in got the point across.

In addition to the professional camera team, the seven climbers were a lawyer and his twin brother, a judge, both from Stockton, Calif.; the son of the lawyer, a graduate college student; an electronics engineer from San Jose, Calif.; a court reporter from Stockton and two California ski patrolmen. When they reached the summit, they were exhilarated. Fresh air is good for everybody.

Drug Possession Charge Dismissed

A marijuana possession charge against Robert Earl Lotspeich, 25, of Tiburon, was dismissed yesterday in Marin Municipal Court at the request of the district attorney's office.

Lotspeich had been arrested April 1 after a bag of suspected marijuana was found in his car when he was stopped because of a defective brake light.

Sears Point Raceway Forced To Slash Its Budget

By JIM GILMARTIN
I-J Sports Editor

Sears Point International Raceway, in dire financial trouble after losing an estimated $300,000 in the past 13 months, yesterday announced a drastically reduced budget for the remainder of the year.

SPIR President Craig Murray of San Rafael at a press conference in San Francisco, said the budget reduction will primarily affect the personnel complement, reducing the full-time staff from 14 to 7 members, and all improvement programs not directly associated with event operation will be curtailed to a point of minimum maintenance. He said, "We expect to reduce our operating costs by 50 to 60 per cent."

"It's a sign of the times," said Murray," and times are tough all over. The lake of money has dried up. We've lost $300,000 since we opened in March of 1969."

The "lake" in this case is Filmways, Inc. of Los Angeles which purchased the Sonoma County motorsports complex last year for a total of approximately $7.5 million which included $5.5 million in stock and $2 million cash.

"If some 'daddy' were to come along now and offer to buy the property I'm sure he could get it for considerably less than $7.5 million because I think Filmways probably would be quite happy to hear an offer," said Murray.

The young executive added, "Filmways sees a chance to cut back on their losses and is doing it this way," referring to the budget cutback. "Anyway, it's a step."

Murray added: "The next two events on our schedule will be very important to determine the future of Sears Point. If we don't do well in those two — well, you'll just have to draw your conclusions."

The next two events are the California Drag championships on May 17 and the Continental 49er road race for Formula A cars June 27-28.

"We might cancel our NASCAR race July 26" for late model stock cars, said Murray, himself a successful driver "Last year we didn't do too well with this race and I'm in no frame of mind to gamble."

Other than that possibility, he said, the budget cutback will in no way affect the published schedule.

Biggest attractions to come on the 1970 schedule are the Trans-American and Canadian-American Grand Prix races Sept. 19-20 and Nov. 7-8, respectively.

Filmways bought the company in July. When terms of the transaction were set in April of 1969, Filmways stock sold on the American Stock Exchange at $35 a share. Yesterday the stock closed at 8¼.

Murray said he guessed Filmways lost $600,000 in the past year, half of it at Sears Point, and its earnings per share dropped from $1.55 to $1.10 or $1.15. "We're a substantial part of their losses so something has to be done," he added.

Main criticism of Sears Point raceway has been high admission fees to its events resulting in small crowds but Murray said prices will be lowered for the remainder of the season. He noted: "The $6 general admission for the Trans-Am in September is as cheap as you can see a Trans-Am anywhere."

Anglers Rap High Fees For Permits

From the number of calls I've received the past couple of days you'd think I was a big drip in the Marin Municipal Water District.

But, shucks, my only connection with the local water works is a couple of ice cubes and Saturday nights in the tub.

Phone callers, however, have been bending my ear, complaining about the price of fishing permits at the local lakes. They're $5 for anyone aged 17 and over and people think that is too stiff, particularly those anglers who would use it only a couple of times a season. It inflates price of fish higher than what the supermarts are charging.

I noted here last Friday that the Department of Fish and Game also thinks $5 is too high — among the highest lake fishing permit fees in the state — and may not restock the local fisheries unless the MMWS lowers its charge.

Just because I mentioned the high fee here, don't complain to me about it. Call the MMWD. I'm sure they'll be happy to hear from you. But don't tell them I sent you.

A Mixup In Trout Planting

BY THE WAY, that was a funny oversight or mixup by the Department of Fish and Game last week. The DFG had planned to plant 5,000 catchable sized fish in each of MMWD lakes Phoenix and Lagunitas, but at the last minute it was discovered they hadn't been delivered as advertised for some strange and mysterious reason.

Some hectic running around resulted and tank trucks, en route elsewhere were rerouted to Marin and their fishy passengers dumped into their new and temporary homes on Friday, just barely in time for the opening of trout season.

That fishing on Saturday was lousy was no surprise. You see, when the fish are transported by tank they are tranquilzed because it is quite an unnerving experience riding several miles in the back of a tank truck. Try it and see.

Also, if you are a trout and realize that the next day is the opening of trout season and some character suddenly loads you and your buddies into a tank and starts driving toward some popular lakes YOU'D need a tranquilizer, too.

They Lose Their Appetites

"Don't worry, Gill, just keep your mouth shut and you won't get hurt."

Well, anyway, these tranquilizers may be good for fish but they're lousy for fishing. Because when those poor little things are all doped up they just don't have an appetite for a couple of days.

The fact that the DFG waited until the last minute to plant the fish ruined the opener of trout season.

Hm? What's that: How do I know they drug the fish?

Novato's Astonishing Diving Champ

By DAVID EINSTEIN

In the Marin County Athletic League Swimming Championships last Saturday, Novato's John Summerfield shattered the league's diving record by more than 138 points. It was by all odds the most astonishing individual performance in the history of Marin County high school sports.

John Summerfield is something else. Before the finals he was asked if the league competition warranted his attempting any difficult dives. He just grinned and shook his head.

Neither has the MCAL, which in the past has been so weak in diving that the coaches decided this year to do away with three meter competition. They were afraid someone might get hurt.

"It's hard to look impressive on a one meter board," says Summerfield, a sophomore who last year won the California State Championships in his age group and the Far Western Tower and Three Meter Championships in the 15-17 division.

The lack of a high board didn't seem to hinder his performance at the MCAL meet, where he racked up 359.55 points on 11 dives to humiliate the record of 221.40, set by Ed Lederman of Redwood in 1966.

"He was so graceful . . . It was beautiful," said Conrad Hoetger, coach of the Tam Indians.

Summerfield, who dives now with the Hayward divers under Don Talmage and practices four nights a week, began training four years ago. How far has he come?

"Sure I'd like to go to the Olympics, but right now I'll settle for the U. S. Senior Nationals at Long Beach this August."

There, competing against absolutely the best divers in the nation, he will, as they say, let it all hang out.

"I've got a forward three and a half, a back two and a half, reverse two and a half, inward two and a half, a triple twist one and a half . . . "

That final dive is worth 2.9 on the scale for difficulty. The highest degree possible is 3.0, and only a handful of men in the country perform such dives. Non of the dives which Summerfield used to win the MCAL title came close to involving the finesse, concentration and precision that he will need in the Nationals.

As for MCAL diving, "It's pretty bad," he says, and one gets the impression that this kid uses Marin County competition the way Joe Fraser uses sparring partners.

It's not that the rest of the league is that bad. The fact is, John Summerfield is that good.

Bruins Bounce Blues

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The Boston Bruins' Ken Hodge crooned, "Never any doubt about it," and a dissenting voice was not to be heard after the second game of hockey's Stanley Cup finals Tuesday night.

The Bruins, picking up momentum true to oldster John Bucyk's prediction, inundated the St. Louis Blues 6-2 for a 2-0 advantage in their best-of-7 series.

IN BOSTON

With games 3 and 4 scheduled for Boston ice Thursday night and Sunday, the outcome left the Bruins' Harry Siden a happy and only slightly cautious coach.

"I just think we outskated them completely," he said. "They were never in the game. They got two goals off faceoffs and nothing else.

"Yes, I'd say we're skating as well as we have all year. When you win eight games in a row you've got more than one thing going.

DEFENSE

As an afterthought perhaps against overconfidence, Sinden noted," "We figured this was a very big game for us. Everything in sports is unpredictable. I'll just be disappointed if we can't win the next one on our home ice."

In the Bruins' locker room, celebrations of sorts were led by Eddie Westfall, a right winger noted most for his checking ability, and Derek Sanderson, the longhaired center with a gift of gab.

DOUBLES

"I thought it would be like 3-2 games the Blues had against Montreal," he said. "but we've been in a real scoring groove since the series against Chicago."

Redwood Baseballers Stay Undefeated In League Race

The Redwood High School Giants increased their team batting average to .313 as they outslugged Terra Linda, 10-8 yesterday to remain undefeated in the Marin County Athletic League baseball race.

Second place San Marin stayed a half game behind Redwood as Dennis Bueler tossed a four-hitter to give the Mustangs a 5-1 win over Marin Catholic.

In other league games Mike Lamb of Novato outdueled Drake's Glen Pfaff to give the Hornets a 1-0 win, and Tamalpais downed San Rafael, 8-6.

Redwood's Frank Pomilia and Tom Wickert got two hits apiece and raised their averages to .500 as the Giants won their ninth straight league game. Venerable Roger Smith went the distance to record his sixth win without a loss.

Redwood's John Boro and Rick Payne of the Trojans belted two run homers, Boro's a 425 foot shot to center in the fourth which accounted for the winning run.

Bueler, who like Smith has a 6-0 win-loss record, struck out eight and walked two, the only run against him coming on a second inning home run by Whitey Parnow.

San Marin catcher Jack Burnam had a pair of hits to raise his batting average to close to .500. League leader Ken Gnoss was held to a single but is still hitting over .500.

In Novato's win over winless Drake, Lamb allowed only three impotent hits. The Hornets got the game's only run in the sixth when Steve Stanley tripled and scored on a squeeze by Kim Kirwin.

Paul Kime went three for four and raised his average to .500 as Tam wore out three San Rafael pitchers with 11 hits. Kime doubled in two runs in a four run fourth inning in which the Indians batted around.

HIGH JUMP, POLE VAULT MARKS FALL

Two Marin County Athletic League track and field records were broken during the first day of the league trials yesterday at Tamalpais High School.

Tam's Gerald Robertson tied his career best effort in the high jump with a leap of 6 feet-4 to break the league mark of Willie Hector, also from Tam, who jumped 6-3 in 1957.

Mark Jones of Terra Linda soared 13-9 in the pole vault to shatter the record of 13-4 set by Brian Hicks of Redwood last year. Jones' performance was the best of his career, topping the 13-6 he turned in earlier this year.

Today is the last day of qualifying for the MCAL finals to be held Saturday at Tam.

Two Rookies Provide Excitement At Indy

INDIANAPOLIS (UPI) — A pair of rookies provided railbirds at the Indianapolis Motor Speedway Tuesday with the first real excitement in the five full days of practice for the Memorial Day 500-mile auto race.

Bentley Warren, 29, West Gloucester, Mass., suffered first-degree burns on his back, scalded by hot water when the radiator cap flew off during a skid and spin in the southwest turn.

He was treated at the infield track hospital and released. Dr. Thomas Hanna, speedway physician, said Warren would be able to return to practice Wednesday.

Donnie Allison, 30, Hueytown, Ala., a prominent speedster on the NASCAR stock car circuit, escaped unhurt when he lost control in the southwest turn. His car spun around completely and Allison drove around the track and into the pits.

Quick time for the second straight day went to Lloyd Ruby of Wichita Falls, Tex., who polished off a 166.9 lap at noontime. Joe Leonard of San Jose, the official one and four-lap record holder, was caught as an unofficial 165.654 on the track's "electric eye" timer.

HAPPY BIRTHDAY

Mays Says He's Feeling Fine

MONTREAL (AP) — The "say Hey Kid" is 39 today.

Willie Mays, the incomparable San Francisco Giants' center fielder is celebrating his birthday while the Giants are in town for a three-game series with the Montreal Expos.

Mays, an All-Star for 16 seasons, probably will spend today as he does every other.

SECOND GAME

The Giants, who won last night, 4-1, take on the Expos in the second game tonight.

Even after 19 years in the National League with the Giants, Mays still would like to play every day and Manager Clyde King added, "I'd like to use him every day but don't forget at 39 he's the oldest active player in the majors, excluding pitchers.

Last season with the Giants, Mays hit 13 home runs, drove in 58 runs and batted .272.

NO GOALS

This year, however, Mays has not set any personal goals.

"I never set any goals, mainly because I just don't like them at all.

"I enjoy playing baseball. I could retire at the end of this year next year or the year after but I don't really know when."

"The Phillies shifted their infield for McCovey, much like Montreal did tonight. Most teams play McCovey as a pull hitter to right field. Well, McCovey laid a bunt down the third base line, like he tried tonight, and Mays scored."

Mays added:

GOOD SHAPE

"I'm still in pretty good shape physically and I could play every day probably. I had a chest injury this year when I collided with Bobby Bonds while chasing a ball in the gap in right field three weeks ago, but I'm okay now."

Mays joined the Giants in 1951 while they were still playing in New York's old Polo Grounds. In his rookie season he batted .274 with 20 home runs and 68 runs batted in.

His lifetime batting mark going into this season was .283. Besides the 600 home runs, he has driven in 1712 runs.

He has been voted Greatest Giant Ever by Giants' fans and selected as the Player of the 1960's by the Sporting News publication.

In the Giants' win over Montreal Tuesday night, featured by the pitching of Rich Robertson who struck out 12 batters, Mays drove in Bonds from third base with the first run of the game with a single in the top of the first inning.

ARGUMENT

Mays went 1-for-4 and was walked once by Montreal starting pitcher Bill Stonemam. The Giants' centerfielder became slightly upset when a Stoneman pitch sailed over his head in the fifth inning.

Today is just another day for Willie Mays, but the 39-year-old native of Westfield, Ala., has brought many exciting days to major league fans across the United States and in other parts of the globe.

"I can't say I've had a greatest thrill in baseball," said Mays. "There have been many thrills for me."

Indiana Can Clinch ABA East Finals

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Indiana Pacers can wrap up the American Basketball Association's Eastern Division final playoffs on their home court at Indianapolis tonight by again beating the Kentucky Colonels.

The Pacers took a commanding 3-1 lead in the best-of-7 series by whipping the Colonels at Louisville Tuesday night 111-103.

STARS WIN

The Los Angeles Stars also took a 3-1 led over Denver in the Western Division final playoffs by beating the Rockets at Long Beach, Calif., 114-110. The fifth game of this best-of-7 will be played Saturdy afternoon in Denver and will be nationally televised by CBS.

Roger Brown threw in 33 points to lead the Pacers. The Colonels rallied to within 72-70 in the third period led by Gene Moore's 26 points, but they couldn't get any closer.

"We're sure going to try to wrap it up Wednesday night," said Bob Leonard, the Indiana coach. "We won't concede anything," countered Gene Rhodes, coach of the Colonels.

RALLY

Los Angeles blew a 12-point lead in the last period to fall behind by three points, but then rallied to beat the Rockets.

Down by 97-85, the Rockets went on 24-9 spree to go ahead 109-106, But the Stars tied it on three free throws. They then went ahead to stay at 111-109 with two minutes left on a layup by Bob Warren.

Spencer Haywood of Denver, the ABA's Most Valuble Player, was the game's top scorer with 32 points, 25 in the second half. Merv Jackson was high for the Star with 25.

A'S BOMB YANKEES

Hunter Doing More Thinking

Hunter pitched a six-hitter for his fifth victory of the year as the A's pounded the New York Yankees 11-3 Tuesday night.

"Last year I gave up homers that cost me games because I wasn't thinking about what I was doing," he said. "When John McNamara took over as manager, he reminded me about it. He said I wasn't concentrating."

More than half the 34 homers Hunter allowed last year came with no one on base and usually were by the leadoff man in an inning.

"This year," Hunter said, "I'm concentrating on every pitch I throw and it has made quite a difference."

That difference can be measured in months. Last season Hunter didn't win his fifth game until June 29, so he is almost two months ahead of that pace right now.

Hunter was backed by a 15-hit attack against three Yankee pitchers. Catcher Dave Duncan had four of the hits, including a pair of doubles.

"I had five hits in a game in the minors once, but this is the first time I ever got four in a major league game," Duncan said.

Bert Campaneris hit his first homer of the season to lead off the game for Oakland, and Felipe Alou drove in two runs with a triple and single.

Oakland got 10 hits off losing pitcher Stan Bahnsen, 2-3, who lasted six innings.

Oakland outfielder Reggie Jackson suffered a slight back injury trying to make a diving catch in the ninth inning but is expected to play tonight when Mel Stottlemyre, 2-3, pitches for New York against Al Downing, 3-2.

Lakers-Knicks Playoff Game On Television

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Physically the question rests with Willis Reed of New York. Psychologically it's the Los Angeles Lakers who need the answers tonight in the battle which could decide the championship of the National Basketball Association.

The game will be televised on ABC, Channels 7 and 13, beginning at 7 o'clock.

Reed, who already had miseries in his knees, suffered a severely bruised hip in the first quarter of Monday night's fifth game of the playoffs in New York. He went out. The Knickerbockers went on.

SURPRISE

Trailing by 13 points at the half, they humiliated the Lakers and beat them 107-100 with their big man and the league's Most Valuable Player unable to see duty.

After receiving treatment by both heat and sound for his ailing upper thigh muscle, Reed said he was optimistic of playing tonight.

"We'll just play it by ear and decide at game time," commented Coach Red Holzman who could see his Knicks take their first NBA title. They lead the best-of-seven series three games to two.

LED BY 10

When Reed went out of the game, the Lakers led by 10 points. Now they must muster their forces and try to overcome the psychological disadvantage of losing a game they must have expected to win easily.

BASEBALL ROUNDUP

Clete Boyer The Slugger

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

Clete Boyer doesn't want to set the world on fire . . . just start a little flame in Chief Noc-a-homa's tepee.

Boyer exploded two homers out of spacious Atlanta Stadium Tuesday night to lead the Braves' 12-6 victory over Pittsburgh—and that set off the fireworks in the left field tent of the team's colorful mascot.

Noc-a-homa rejoices with exploding fireworks in the tent and then a crowd-pleasing war dance outside everytime the home team hits one out. Boyer's two shots, and Hank Aaron's homer kept him twitching Tuesday night.

"Two homers, that's hard to believe, isn't it?" said an incredulous Boyer, better known for his fielding exploits at third base than his long-ball hitting.

Boyer also said he was thinking about hitting a third home run, but struck out with the bases jammed in the sixth.

The home run ball bounced around the rest of the National League and figured in some of the final margins as San Diego stopped Philadelphia 11-8; Cincinnati turned back St. Louis 5-1; Houston dropped Chicago 3-1, Los Angeles trimmed New York 4-0 and San Francisco beat Montreal 4-1.

In the American League, Minnesota spilled Detroit 8-5; Chicago nipped Cleveland 2-1; Baltimore ripped Kansas City 7-3; Boston beaned Milwaukee 6-0; Oakland pasted New York 11-3 and Washington defeated California 6-1.

"I've been swinging good all year, just hitting it at somebody" he said, "but can you figure the odds against a guy like me hitting three in one game?"

Boyer raised his average 17 points to .212 with his 2-for-3 performance. He now has 18 hits and 17 RBI.

"When you've got guys like Aaron, (Rico) Carty and (Orlando) Cepeda batting in front of you, you're going to get some RBI," said Boyer.

Aaron's homer was the 10th this year and 564th of his fabulous career. Hammerin" Hank also is now only 14 away from the magic 3,000-hit career mark.

Aaron's two-run blow capped a seven-run first for the Braves that actually decided the issue. Boyer hit solo job to left in the third and followed with a three-run blast in the fifth.

Carty extended his hitting streak to 24 games—tops in the majors—with singles in the second and sixth. Hoyt Wilhelm made his 998th appearance, bailing out Braves' starter and winner George Stone in the seventh.

St. Andrew, The Champ

By RALPH CHATOIAN

Keith and Donna Bechler are proud as peacocks over their award-winning dog, a Gordon Setter by the name of St. Andrew Gaelic Brogue.

Already a show champion, Bro, as the Bechlers call him, won his field champion credentials recently at Portland. He had earned his show championship two years ago when only a one-year-old.

"That makes him the first dual champion Gordon Center on the west coast," said Bechler, a general insurance broker in Terra Linda. "And to the best of my knowledge he's only the fifth dual champ Gordon Setter in the United States."

Mr. and Mrs. Bechler first became involved with Gordon Setters in 1963 after buying one from Dr. Charles King of Ross, a man who raises Gordons for hunting dogs. Bechler had wanted to own one, however, since 20 years earlier.

"They're wonderful dogs," enthused Bechler, "and they make excellent house pets, too." Bro came from a litter of 14 puppies born at the Bechlers' Woodacre home, so they have had their share of Gordons in their home.

Bechler, who was born in San Francisco and reared in Fairfax, trains the dogs up to a point, before turning over the duties to a professional trainer, Jake Huizenga of the Oxton Kennel in Salinas. Huizenga works with Brogue in the field trials, but Mrs. Bechler does the show trials.

VARIOUS TRIALS

The 3½-year-old Brogue earned his dual championship after winning points in various dog shows and field trials. He is one of the litter of 14 by St. Andrew Bonnie Par, the first Gordon Setter purchased by the Bechlers.

Gordon Setters, handsome in their black and tan coats, are natives of Scotland and are outstanding hunting dogs. Bechler, who hunts pheasant and quail, is never at a loss for a hunting dog.

"I just call out and the first one that comes goes out with me on the hunting trip," he declared.

FAMILY PET

Their first Gordon Setter was initially bought as a pet for the two Bechler children, Terri, 10, and Sandy, 8. But after meeting some Palo Alto residents who were in the process of forming a Pacific Coast regional branch of the Gordon Setters Club of America, the Bechlers attended a meeting and began showing Bonnie. She eventually became a champion. Two of Brogue's brothers also are show champions.

Bechler, 42, has been raising dogs for the last seven years and is a former field chairman for the Pacific Coast Region of the Gordon Setter Club of America.

IDEAL HOME

Their Woodacre home is ideal for the dogs, with an acre of fenced land that is partially wooded and partially open. Several of the dogs owned by Mr. and Mrs. Bechler are loaned to others who may or may not become their legal owners later.

Although showning signs of rising popularity on the West Coast, more Gordon Setters are seen in the East. But the Bechlers are doing their share to promote this fine breed in the West.

Le Grand Orange? It's Rusty Staub

MONTREAL — Rusty Staub used to be the darling of Astrodome fans. Now the rugged redhead is Le Grand Orange of Expo fans who nicknamed him first time he tipped his cap to them in Jarry Park.

Being a native of New Orleans, where French is spoken as freely as in Montreal, Staub didn't have to ask for a translation of his new nickname. New Orleans and Montreal are swinging cities with much in common.

STAUB FELT right at home first time he set foot in Montreal after the Astros traded him to the Expos for Jay Alou and Donn Clendenon who refused to report to Houston. Clendenon's failure to report didn't nix the deal. The Expos sent some cash to the Astros and Clendenon finally wound up as a Met.

Staub stood up to his full 6-3 in the batter's box when he was a rookie eight seasons ago. That was the way he hit for Jesuit High in New Orleans where he played four years of baseball and basketball and became "Louisiana Schoolboy Athlete of the Year" in 1961.

STAUB NOW bats from a semi-crouch with knees flexed. Pitchers no longer zip him with a low fast ball around the knees as they once did. The fact that he is the only .300 hitter with Montreal is the best evidence of his successful experimentation with different stances.

"I don't remember how many I tried before getting comfortable in the one I now use," said Staub. "A batter must work those things out for himself. I don't think anyone can be taught to hit."

HOWEVER, STAUB isn't a know-it-all. He altered his swing last year upon the urging of Gene Mauch. The manager of the Expos convinced Staub he should start swinging for the right field fence of Jarry Park where there is a jet stream similar to Candlestick's.

Staub hadn't swung for the fence in four seasons in the Astrodome, a tough place to hit homers until the jackrabbit ball was introduced to the majors this year. He had cultivated a stroke to produce base hits.

NEVERTHELESS, upon Mauch's insistence to let his power out, Staub agreed although he initially feared he would be sacrificing a .300 batting average. Instead, he not only hit 29 homers but wound up batting .302. He also led the club in hits with 166, runs scored with 89 — and he walked 110 times, 11 intentionally.

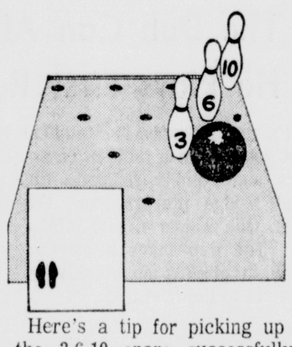
Montreal fans love a home run hitter just as fans everywhere. "Le Grand Orange," Expo fans cheered everytime Staub belted one out of Jarry Park. They didn't have much else to cheer about during Montreal's maiden year in the majors.

"IT'S GREAT to be an Expo," said Staub.

"It's great to have a player like Le Grand Orange who will listen to suggestions," said Mauch, a smart showman who knew the Expos desperately needed a hero in their expansion year.

BOWLING TIPS

By DON CARTER



Here's a tip for picking up the 3-6-10 spare successfully . . . move your starting position to the left corner of the approach. You must hit the 3-pin on the right side. You may convert the spare even if you hit this pin incorrectly. However, it is virtually impossible to do so without touching it all.

Lee Evans To Coach At San Jose State

SAN JOSE, Calif. (AP) — Olympic gold medalist and premier quarter-miler Lee Evans will become a track coach June 9.

Athletic Director Bob Bronzan and college President Hobart Burns said in a joint announcement that the two were selected over a "strong field."

Evans is expected to retire from competition after the California Relays at Modesto, May 23. He graduated from San Jose State last year.

Evans holds the world 400-meter mark at 43.8 seconds set while winning the gold medal at the 1968 Olympics in Mexico City. He also anchored the winning U.S. 1,600-meter relay team at the Olympics to a world record time of 2:56.1.

A counselor at Silver Creek High School here, Evans plans to begin study at Stanford in June for an M.A. degree in physical education.

Bullard, assistant at SJS for two years, was named coach of the year in 1968 by the National Junior College Track Coaches Association after his Mesa, Ariz. Community College team won the national JC championships.

A University of Southern California graduate and pole vaulter, Bullard cleared 14 feet, 6 inches in 1958 while using the old steel pole.

Refectory, Patio Win In Softball

HOW TO PLAY

WINNING BRIDGE

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

The Dub Can Always Be Found: He Plays First Round Quickly

It's usually easy to stand 20 feet away from a table of strangers and quickly separate the good bridge players from the dubs. One test is almost infallible: The dub takes a strange pride in playing as quickly as possible to the first trick.

LOW FROM DUMMY

Declarer played low from dummy at the first trick, and East produced the jack of hearts. South swiftly pounced on this with the queen, thus failing the 20-foot test.

South next went after the clubs, losing a trick to the ace. Back came a heart, and west was able to cover South's 10-2 with the K-9, driving out dummy's ace. Declarer then led another club, and West took the king of clubs and the rest of the hearts to defeat the contract.

PARTNER'S COMMENT

North had a few things to say at the end of the hand. "If you stopped to think before playing to the first trick, you'd know that you were sure of two heart tricks even if you refused the first trick," North pointed out.

"What's the advantage of giving the first trick away?" South asked.

East would return a heart, North pointed out, and declarer would win a heart finesse. South then knocks out the ace of clubs and discovers that East is unable to return a heart. Any other return gives South ample time to develop the clubs and take his 10 tricks.

NORTH SUMS UP

"A kibitzer at a distance of 20 feet could tell that you didn't know what you were doing just from the speed of your play at the first trick," North summed up.

"I'm going to change all that," South promised.

Abbey Carpets Franchised Store Opens In Hub; First For Marin

The first Marin County franchised store of Abbey Carpet Co., Inc. opened this week at 820 Sir Francis Drake Boulevard San Anselmo.

The official grand opening will be held on Friday. This is in the former Drake Market, next to the Red Hill Shopping Center. The store has been completely redecorated to provide display space for an extensive line of rugs and wall-to-wall carpeting.

The San Anselmo franchise is owned by Benjamin and Florence Friedman of Fulton, Sonoma County, where they have been about two years. Previously they owned a furniture manufacturing business in Los Angeles. Their son William will also be working in the store.

This makes 23 franchised retail carpet outlets for Abbey, which is headquartered in Sacramento.

Market On The Upswing Near Close

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market pulled back from its steep early gain but remained on the upswing this afternoon. Trading was moderately active.

The decline seemed to have lost momentum, however, and the latest reading was fractionally higher than the 1:30 p.m. figure.

Prices on the big Board included American Telephone, up ⅛ to 46⅜; Xerox, off 2⅜ to 77¾; Polaroid, off 1⅝ to 69⅜; Burroughs, off 2⅛ to 119¾; Atlantic Richfield, off 1¼ to 49¾; and Sperry Rand, up ⅝ to 27.

Prices on the American Stock Exchange included Equity Funding, off 2 to 20; Solitron, up 1 to 24; Saxon Industries, off 4⅜ to 38⅝; Wilson, off 2 to 13; and Milgo Electronic, off ⅝ to 27⅜.

Tight Money A Boon To Furs

PHILADELPHIA (UPI)—David Becker, a co-founder of a large outlet for second-hand mink coats, says the tight money market has been a boon to the used fur business.

Becker, of Becker & Burns, says the firm sold 3,500 fur pieces in 1968 and almost 5,000 last year.

He said he has $30,000-a-year executives coming in to buy $600 second-hand minks when normally they would spend $2,000 to 53,500 for new ones.

Instant Communities Boon For McCulloch

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. I have been advised to buy McCulloch Oil. Would this be wise for long-term growth?—J.M.

A. Primarily a land development company, although the name would suggest otherwise, McCulloch recently reported that revenues increased 34.5 per cent in 1969 to $54 million. Per share profits, on a fully diluted basis, jumped 30 per cent to $1.33. Design and development of new communities has been the major factor in MCO's 30 per cent annual growth rate since 1965.

A resortlike project in Lake Havasu, Ariz., has alone contributed 80 per cent of total revenues. Its tourist attraction, London Bridge, has already lured buyers and should draw 4 to 6 million visitors—many of them prospective buyers—when reassembled in 1971.

Another "instant" community is being developed in Pueblo West, Colo. Management believes it can lay out a new 60,000—100,000 population city once every two or three years.

Besides all of this, oil and gas production has crept up from 20 per cent to 25 per cent of total revenues year-to-year. The company recently acquired two gas concessions in Abilene, Tex., which will more than quadruple MCO's processing capacity. All these factors plus the company's yet-to-be-developed 100,000 acres on Alaska's North Slope enhance McCulloch's long-term potential.

Q. I have shares of Pennsylvania Mutual. I feel they are too speculative. Should I sell and buy another no-load?—E.B.

A. Although 1969 was a rough year for mutual funds, Pennsylvania's performance was well below the average. Net asset value suffered a decline of 25.4 per cent while on the average the funds dropped only 14 per cent. Through March, 1970, your fund had a 19.1 per cent loss. This is not unusual for performance funds. During market declines many experience greater-than-average losses but in rising periods gains may exceed those recorded by more conservative funds.

I would suggest switching to one of the following no-loads: Babson Fund, Johnston Fund, Scudder International or One William Street. All were among the better performers in 1969 and thus far into 1970.

"We are confident that the past year's less favorable earnings represented a temprary setback in the longterm upward trend."

Fourth Chance For Needed City Reform Measure

After voting to include this proposition and one to make the city attorney also appointive in the special election, the council did little or nothing to promote either of them. A spirited campaign against the propositions was organized by a committee headed by C. Paul Bettini, then a member of the San Rafael Board of Education. The proposal to make the police chief appointive was defeated, 4,886 "no" to 2,162 "yes."

FOUR YEARS LATER, the council put on the ballot for the April 10, 1967, municipal election a single proposal to make police chief, city attorney, city clerk and city treasurer all appointive. Again, the council did little to promote the matter after agreeing to put it before the public. It was defeated more overwhelmingly than that to make the police chief only appointive, the vote being 4,163 "no" to 1,706 "yes."

There was a difference this time, however: C. Paul Bettini, who had headed the drive against the appointive provision four years earlier, was now, as mayor, in favor of having all four officials appointed.

ANOTHER TWO YEARS passed. As the result of work of a citizen charter revision committee, a series of changes in the city charter were put before the voters in the municipal election of April 15, 1969. One of them called for making the police chief elective.

A little more effort was put forth by the council this time, and especially by Mayor Bettini. There was also a spirited opposition campaign, with a ballot argument against the change by the Committee for Good Government, G. S. Fuller, secretary.

The third time came near being the charm. The vote was close: 3,796 "no" to 3,239 "yes."

IN THE JUNE 2 PRIMARY election, San Rafael voters will ballot again on the proposal for an elective police chief — for the fourth time in a little over seven years.

This time, however, there is a great difference: No one submitted a ballot argument against the change. No campaign against it has as yet appeared. A ballot argument for the change was prepared by City Mgr. James H. McCown.

THE ARGUMENTS in favor of an appointive police chief have been repeated (and ignored) with monotonous regularity over the years. San Rafael is one of three cities in California that elects its police chief. Having the chief's office in politics does not make for the best police administration. It dampens the attractiveness of careers on the city's police force.

San Rafael has been fortunate in its police chiefs for quite awhile. But longtime residents with long memories can recall when police chief and city council engaged in political battles to the detriment of both government and law enforcement.

The three previous elections on the change came during the incumbency of Chief Charles J. Chiesa. He opposed it, and much of the opposition was on his behalf. The present incumbent, Chief Joseph J. Brusatori, has not taken a stand against having his office made appointive.

San Rafael residents can make a long-needed change by removing the police chief position from politics. To do so, they need only to vote "yes" on Measure E on the June 2 ballot.

Ordering Attacks In Cambodia Makes Conflict 'Nixon's War'

By ROSCOE and GEOFFREY DRUMMOND

He has often said privately that he is quite prepared to be a one-term President if that is the price of making the tough decisions he believes must be made.

He has now made the toughest decision of all—to expand the area of fighting by sending U.S. ground troops against the Communist-held sanctuaries in Cambodia.

He knows that this single action makes it "Nixon's war" from now on. He knows that unless this expanded combat achieves its stated objectives, he faces political clamity.

That's the measure of the man and the bigness of the decision he has made.

EVERYONE KNOWS that Nixon inherited the war, inherited the way it was fought, inherited the circumstances under which President Johnson himself tried to bring it to an end.

But it is "Nixon's war" now, both politically and militarily, because he alone is shaping the course by which he promises to extricate the United States without defeat, without humiliation, with a "just peace" and with the minimum risk to American lives.

He isn't blaming anybody for the past. He is taking, without any hedging, full responsibility for the present and the future. That's the measure of the man, and it should be reassuring to the nation.

HOW WILL the country respond?

Present indications are that the congressional critics of the President's decision are not ready to take responsibility for any alternative course of action. They criticize what he is doing, but they are apparently skittish about taking any action which would put the responsibility on themselves for doing anything differently.

Sen William Fulbright proposes no action on the part of the Senate Foreign Realtions Committee other than to try to persuade the President he is wrong. House resolutions which would seek to direct the commander-in-chief not to do what he is doing will almost certainly be defeated if they are ever brought to a vote.

IT SEEMS TO US significant that the extreme dove critics of the President's actions aimed to end the war without throwing away the peace always stop short of putting their own alternatives to a vote so the country could hold them accountable if they should prove to be the majority.

President Nixon cited the alternatives he had to choose from in light of the mounting enemy threat to remaining U.S. forces:

"We can do nothing," he said. He rejected that on the ground it would imperil the lives of American troops, delay the planned withdrawal of 150,000 more men in the coming year and consign South Vietnam to Communist conquest.

"We can provide massive military assistance to Cambodia." He rejected that because it wouldn't work.

"We can go to the heart of the trouble," he said, by acting to destroy the Communist sanctuaries. That's what he is doing.

THE CONGRESSIONAL critics have alternatives they could take. They could test their strength by proposing that Congress direct the President to remove all U.S. troops from Vietnam at once—and take the consequences.

They could offer a resolution in the Senate and House, denying the President use of any funds to protect U.S. troops the way he is now doing in Cambodia.

In the past, most Americans have shown that they admire and support the kind of bold, courageous decisiveness President Nixon is providing. It is politically riskful—so be it.

WHAT OUR READERS SAY

Save Decency Instead Of Power

Millions of Americans care more for decency and self-respect than they do for power. President Nixon and Lyndon Johnson make the same mistake in not understanding this. Anyone who agrees with me that it is indecent and brutal to kill people in a meaningless war in Asia, in the doubtful hope of remaining a "first class power", would do better not to throw rocks or burn buildings, but to write to the President and our congressmen, to let them know that the country is not with the commander-in-chief, that we feel deeply ashamed for the nation we call home.

Advise Senators Of Opposition

Your editorial on May 2 on President Nixon's decision to send troops into Cambodia described appropriately what the President's action represents, "Military adventurism."

The President's speech on Thursday evening holds the clue to the primary motivating force behind his decision. He does not want to be the President who presides over this country's "first defeat in its proud 190-year history." Sadly, we are confronted by the same pathetic vanity which plagued and governed the decision-making process of former President Johnson.

Past costs in lives and dollars to both Americans and Vietnamese is tragic. The future possibilities of more of the same, as a result of Mr. Nixon's action, must be reversed.

Thoughtful Americans who care about this country and its future should let Mr. Nixon and Senator Murphy and Cranston know of their opposition to the Cambodian invasion as quickly and forcefully as they can.

Much Distortion In Hub Campaign

The recent election campaign in San Anselmo resulted in the dissemination of a tremendous volume of distorted and misleading information concerning the Department of Public Works and the proposed general plan program. During the campaign I felt it advisable to remain silent lest I be accused of somehow influencing the outcome, but now that the elections are over and the voters have made their choice I feel an obligation to set the record straight.

There is no master plan for storm drainage improvements in existence for San Anselmo done by ex-City Engineer John Oglesby or anyone else. The storm drain plan is anticipated to be the largest single element of the entire planning program. . .

The housing element of the plan which was emphasized in the campaign constitutes less than five per cent of the overall planning program. . .The housing program is to be aimed at helping people to prevent deterioration of their neighborhoods and to preserve older residences. Whether or not a dwelling is "obsolete" has no direct relationship to its age. Some excellent homes in San Anselmo are over 70 years old.

San Anselmo's application for planning assistance is on file in the reference section of the public library. I urge every resident of San Anselmo to read it and when our program of planning begins I urge you to become active in its preparation. It must be a plan which incorporates the goals of the people of San Anselmo and then it will be used and not shelved.

Police Training Scheme Blasted

The recent announcement by the chairman of the police community relations committee of the Human Rights Commission that funds have been made available by the federal government through ABAG and by a tax exempt foundation for various projects if typical of such a counter-community agency.

The project to provide in-service training for local police is in direct contradiction to a news item in which the ABAG Executive committee stated that in-service training was a local responsibility and therefore disapproved the requested funds. Apparently, the executive committee has no control over funds or projects and doesn't know what the bureaucrats are doing.

It is incredible, and an affront to our educational system, that extra tax money must be squandered on spurious classes for the purpose of informing the people of their "rights."

This is the same Commission and Committee that dubbed Sausalito a "model city" in police-community relations and to which their present chief responded, "We're lucky to have a Human Rights Commission." Recent news from Sausalito exposes the whole scheme as a failure. Yet, this is the master plan for every city. Federal aid is the bait. . .

The only true solution is to abolish the Human Rights Commission and get out of ABAG.

Judge Candidates Should Obey Law

Wat Takeshita's column on Monday (April 25) called the endorcement of Marin's political sign ordinance "an exercise in futility." Be that as it may, shouldn't at least those candidates running for judge obey the law? How can a judge be fit to rule on other's law violations when he himself systematically flaunts the law?

Supervisors Say Sierra Club Responsible For Pollution

By HENRY C. MacARTHUR

SACRAMENTO (CNS)—The Tulare County Board of Supervisors has added its protest to the delaying tactics of the Sierra Club in halting development of the Mineral King recreation are in the Sierra east of Fresno.

In a brochure on the subject, the board points out that the club is causing just what it is seeking to prevent, namely, pollution of streams and ruination of the area.

"THE INCREASING visitation at Mineral King," the brochure says, "which already reaches nearly 100,000 visitor days each year, is causing contamination of the east fork of the Kaweah River, and creating other urgent problems due to lack of sanitation treatment or other facilities.

"Damage is occurring to the meadows and streams from the uncontrolled driving and parking throughout the valley of as many as 400 cars, trucks and motorcycles on a peak day, and from the campers who use more than 200 sites which have no facilities."

Plans submitted by Walt Disney Productions for development of the valley provide for sanitary facilities, and parking outside the valley is contemplated.

Development has been held up for nearly a year because of a suit filed by the Sierra Club, which challenges the right to construct a road through national park territory.

WE HAVE STUDIED in depth," the supervisors said, "The plans of the U. S. Forest Service for Mineral King.

"Implementation of these plans will not only eliminate the present situation and protect Mineral King, but will also strengthen the economy of our county by providing new jobs for our local population and new tax revenues.

"For these and other reasons, we believe that the Sierra Club effort to deter the forest service plans for Mineral King is not best for Mineral King, nor is it best for California."

THE BROCHURE points out the Sierra Club did an about-face on its original support of the Mineral King project when the club's bulletin stated that Mineral King was "probably the most spectacular site for commercial (ski) development on the west slope of the Sierra." This was in 1948, more than 22 years ago.

In 1953, a public hearing was conducted by Rep. Harlan Hagen, at which time the Sierra Club stated that it was not opposed to making the area easily accessible.

Again in 1965, public hearings were held in San Bernardino, and the Sierra Club opposed construction of ski lifts at San Gorgonio. Several members of the club testified they would recommend development at the "vastly superior" area of Mineral King.

Then, the brochure says, the Sierra Club reversed its position and challenged the authority of the Forest Service to issue the standrard permit for use of a maximum of 80 acres plus slopes for skiing, obtained a temporary injunction preventing any development at Mineral King, and caused all planning to be halted.

WORTH SAYING AGAIN

It is difficult beyond description to conceive that space can have no end; but it is more difficult to conceive an end. It is difficult beyond the power of man to conceive an eternal duration of time; but it is more impossible to conceive a time when there shall be no time. — Thomas Paine.

TRY AND STOP ME

By BENNETT CERF

Poetic justice in the Bronx: A man named Rubin emerged from a snack bar just as a taxi was driving off. He yelled, "Taxi," and the driver stopped for him. "The Bronx County Court House," he ordered. When the cab arrived there, Rubin alighted, summoned two cops coming out of the front door, and had the driver arrested.

It was Mr. Rubin's taxicab.

INSIDE WASHINGTON

Busing Adds To Row Over Federal School Aid

By WILLIAM B. MEAD

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The Senate is preparing for an early renewal of battles over school aid and busing less than two months after a tardy and once vetoed version of last year's legislation finally limped through Congress.

Impacted aid is again an issue, the possibility has been raised of another veto by President Nixon, and southern lawmakers have sprung to their familiar battle lines for an onslaught on federal school desegregation policies.

Last year's appropriations bill for the Labor Department and the Heath, Education and Welfare Department passed March 4, nine months late, after one Nixon veto and days of wrangling over southernsponsored busing and freedom-of-choice amendments.

THIS YEAR, Sen. Warren G. Magnuson, D-Wash., has buckled his Senate appropriations subcommittee down to work early, taking lengthy testimony from educators, administration spokesmen and others on a House-passed $4.1 billion appropriations bill. It covers the U.S. Office of Education only, a new approach.

But the House again inserted an amendment to bar busing of students to achieve racial balance in schools, and another to permit freedom of choice in selecting a school to attend. These are sure to cause stormy debate both in the Senate committee and on the floor.

Nixon's contention when he vetoed last year's bill was that Congress wanted to appropriate too much money, particularly for impacted school aid to districts which educate children of federal employes.

Since then, Congress has broadened the impacted aid program to also cover districts with federally financed housing projects, Cuban refugees and migrant farm families.

IMPACTED AID works under a formula, and the result of the new categories is a theoretical spending level above $1 billion. The vetoed figure in last year's bill was $600 million, and Nixon said $425 million was all he would accept this year. He made even that which Congress has not tackled.

They cite the fact that Congress always authorized about three times as much school aid as it appropriates, and claims this deludes the public into believing the federal government is bearing a large share than it is of the nation's educational burden.

JOHN M. LUMLEY of the National Education Association told Magnuson's subcommittee that the federal share of school financing is declining, although schools need more not less, help from Washington.

This school year, Lumley said, public grade and high schools will need about $38.4 billion. He said "local sources, mainly property taxes" would provide 52.7 per cent, state governments 40.7 per cent and federal programs 6.6 per cent.

Compared with last year, Lumley testified, "state and local governments increased their support for schools by 12.8 per cent and 10.7 per cent respectively, while the federal grants declined by 1 per cent."

GOLDEN GATE VIEW

'Frisco' Chamber Vs. Marin's Commuters

By PAUL E. PETERZELL

With a friend like the Greater San Francisco Chamber of Commerce, the Marin commuter doesn't need an enemy.

The chamber, plunging its head deep into the sand, has come out flat against the Golden Gate Bridge District's bus and ferry plans.

And the chamber can be counted on to try to see that San Francisco's supervisors again dawdle forever over giving the district the needed okay for its downtown bus routes and stops.

THE CHAMBER'S arguments against the plans are that "a more suitable agency" than the district should handle transit, and that the district "cannot afford to dissipate its financing capability for so-called interim transit solutions."

The chamber's position was drawn by its north bay corridor committee and adopted by the board of directors. Interestingly, one of the committee's active members in Donald M. Van Dyke of Novato, founder of the Marin County Taxpayers Association and longtime opponent of every move by the county and bridge district to do something about congestion.

The chamber also did not pretend to have any idea of what sort of agency should do the job. Richard L. Harcourt, manager of the chamber's transportation department, told us there was "no real way to do that until we do more homework." The commuter apparently is supposed to stew while the chamber tries to come up with another justification for its obstructionism.

A PASSING DIG at the chamber's position in this space last week brought an immediate protest from Harcourt that we had not had the advantage of reading the corridor committee's report.

But a reading of the report sent by Harcourt showed just how badly the chamber is out of touch with the reality of the problem of traffic congestion.

The report even went 'way back in history to 1938 to quote a chamber report that criticized the bridge district for operating "on an extravagant scale during the past fiscal year." This criticism probably could have been made even in more recent years, but has nothing to do with the issue, of course.

THE REPORT, moreover, ignored the details of more modern documents, such as the 1969 state law that mandated the district to start immediately on buses and ferries to ease traffic while drawing up a plan for long-range solutions. That plan will be completed in October.

The law's allocation of district revenue reserves left no doubt about what the legislature expected in the way of immediate solutions—50 per cent for buses, 30 per cent for ferries, and 20 per cent reserved for long-range transit.

Marin shoppers might note that the extra sales tax they pay to shop in San Francisco only goes to buy a rapid transit system that will not serve Marin.

Meeting Shifted

The Sausalito Public Library board has changed its regular meeting next week to Tuesday at 8 p.m. in city hall because a quorum could not be obtained for Monday's meeting.

THE PEOPLE'S SCHOOLS

Union Points Up Flaws In CTA's Finance Plan

By BRYCE W. ANDERSON

San Francisco Federation of Teachers, AFL-CIO, has come out against Proposition 8, the school-welfare support amendment placed on the June 2 ballot by the rival California Teachers Association.

Proposition 8 would require the state to bear 50 per cent of all school costs except construction, and 90 per cent of all welfare costs. The CTA qualified it for the ballot through an initiative petition campaign. It won support of the California County Supervisors Association by including the welfare provision, since welfare costs, mandated by state and federal governments but paid largely by local taxes, constitute county supervisors' biggest fiscal headache.

THE AMERICAN Federation of Teachers might have been expected to support the proposition, despite its originating with the rival National Education Association affiliate. After all, the two organizations are gradually closing ranks. They have merged in Los Angeles, and are talking merger in other cities, including San Francisco. And assuring 50 per cent state support for schools is bound to mean more money for teachers.

In calling on its members to vote "no" on the proposition, the San Francisco AFT local cited three major flaws:

"1. IT DOES NOT indicate the source of the additional state money. This could very well result in yet another sales tax increase, adding to the tax burden on low income groups, rather than shifting it to those most able to pay."

"2. It does not indicate how the additional money would be spent. There is no guarantee the money would not be used for more administrators, for example, rather than to solve the truly critical problems of public education today."

"3. It would increase state contributions to wealthy districts, and students who happen to live in those districts would continue to benefit from receiving a disproportionate share of available tax money."

THE TEACHERS' UNION does not mention some other arguments against the proposition, such as its obviously inflationary nature. State auditor's figures show the amendment would add $1.3 billion to the state budget in its first year, with that amount increasing annually. Since school spending would be controlled by the local districts, the state would have no way to curb the increase. Since the state would pay half the cost, the local districts would have a cogent argument for further increases: "Don't worry, for every dollar you have to pay, the state will match it with another dollar."

Also not mentioned by the AFT local is the fact that the proposition includes nothing to reduce property taxes. It would increase the homeowner's exemption from $750 to $1,000, but this would be rendered meaningless by the built-in increase in costs.

THE AFT UNIT appears to be more responsible than its CTA counterparts in opposing this inflationary measure.

Teachers' union leadership does not always show such responsibility, however. At the same time it came out against Proposition 8, the San Francisco local announced that a strike vote will be taken if San Francisco Unified School District fails to meet 15 union demands by May 11. And it affirmed support of the strike by the merged AFT-CTA teacher organization in Los Angeles.

Also, almost simultaneously, the president of an AFT local in Marin County, the Tamalpais High School District Federation of Teachers, wired David Selden, AFT national president, asking for a nationwide teacher strike in protest against the U.S. invasion of Cambodia.

QUESTIONS: If the merger of AFT and NEA becomes nationwide, so there no longer is rivalry for membership in the teacher ranks, will the merged organization be found opposing raids on the taxpayer such as Proposition 8? Will it be found further politicizing the schools (against which little has been heard from the NEA)? What happened in Los Angeles already has answered the question of whether it will close schools by calling teachers out on strike.

Guilty Plea To Weapon's Charge

Donald Max Bales, 27, of Milo, Iowa, pleaded guilty yesterday in Marin Municipal Court to charges of having a loaded gun in his car and reckless driving. A felony charge of assaulting two police officers and one of hit and run were dismissed.

Judge Peter Allen Smith set sentencing for June 5.

Bales was arrested Feb. 28 after a night speed chase during which three police cars were rammed. The officers finally stopped him on Highway 101 near Sir Francis Drake Boulevard by firing a shot into his car's fender.

Two Drug Charges Are Dismissed

Drug charges against Larry Monroe Moore, 21, who was arrested last June in a raid on a San Anselmo house, were dismissed yesterday in Marin Municipal Court for lack of evidence.

He had been accused of possessing LSD for sale and possessing marijuana.

Black Panther Turns Himself In On Charges

Black Panther Brian V. Beard, 25, of Marin City turned himself in yesterday in Marin Municipal Court after learning that he was being charged with three misdemeanor offenses stemming from an April 26 fracas with a Tamalpais Valley service station attendant.

Beard's attorney said that a warrant had not yet been signed for Beard's arrest but that after learning of the charges he voluntarily appeared in court.
